SUMMARY.

It is reported from Rotterdam that the general staff in Berlin has determined to make one more great effort in the west.

The French are holding their positions in the Artois, and have maintained their advance east of Souchez.

Tenacious fighting is in progress on the entire Champagne front.

There is an intense bombardment between the Meuse and the Mozelle, and also in Lorraine.

A Paris communique says that the enemy made only the most feeble effort against the French new positions at Artois.

The struggle in the Champagne district continues without intermission before the Germans' second line of trenches.

The German offensive in the Argonne was stopped four times. There were heavy enemy losses.

The French at Auberive are within three miles of the railway on which the Germans depend to bring up reinforcements.

Sir John French reports: We repulsed a number of counter-attacks, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

The British offensive is progressing eastward of Loos. Captures include 53 officers and 2800 men.

The British and French before Saturday's advance poured into the enemy's lines an incessant deluge of high explosives.

It is estimated that a million shells were thrown.

The French Foreign Minister has published in English a volume detailing German crimes.

It contains about 100 documents affording convincing evidence that the Germans murdered wounded soldiers and prisoners.

A Petrograd communique says that four German attacks westward of Vileyka were repulsed by the Russians.

It is reported that General Von Mackensen has been ordered to withdraw his forces lest he should be surrounded.

Fighting of extraordinary violence is in progress round Dvinsk.

A Petrograd naval communique says:—We bombarded and silenced the enemy's land batteries in the Gulf of Riga.

A stray enemy projectile fell on a Russian ship, killing the commander and a captain.

An Austrian communique says that the Russians' counter offensive has been broken in Volhynia.

It is reported that in the event of an attack upon Servia and Greece the Allies will land a fully equipped force.

Austria has agreed unconditionally to withdraw Dr. Dumba from the United States as ambassador.

The chairman of the French Senate Finance Committee has announced that an important loan is pending.

The reorganisation of the system of dealing with the Australian wounded in England is being completed.

London has been practically cleared of aliens of military age. Over 4000 are quartered at the Alexandra Palace.

Recent operations in Gallipoli have been mainly confined on both sides to aircraft attacks, artillery fire, and mining.

The Turks directed a heavy artillery fire on the Suvla and Anzac fronts, being apparently a prelude to a general attack.

Only an attack by a small force followed upon the right centre at Suvla. The enemy was easily dispersed.

Count Bernstorff declares that all reports as to Armenian atrocities are pure inventions.

By a surprise advance in the Carso region the Italians have been enabled to make marked progress in the direction of Peteano.

Small engagements favourable to the Italians have been fought elsewhere.

The military authorities have issued a further list of soldiers being returned home either wounded or medically unfit.

The transport on which this batch of soldiers is returning left Suez early this month.

It was stated in the Assembly that the Government had come to no decision yet as to holding a second recruiting campaign.

The Government was asked in the Assembly what steps were being taken to deal with military deserters.

Mr. Cann replied that he would obtain reliable information as to the percentage of deserters.

Notice of motion was given for an inquiry into the administration of the patriotic war funds and the Australia Day Fund.

An expenditure of £966,530 in Public works is provided for in the Supply Bill introduced in the Assembly.

Railways require £323,000, among the chief items being rolling stock and equipment of new lines.

A conference took place yesterday of representatives of the Lord Mayor's Patriotic Fund, the Red Cross Society, Citizens' War Chest, and National Relief Fund.

Instances of overlapping were given, and after discussion a new scheme for the distribution of relief was adopted.

At the last meeting of the Red Cross general committee reference was made to the practice of "treating" returned soldiers.

"It isn't that our boys want to take so much liquor, the trouble is they are made to take it," remarked a lady member.

Recruiting continues to decrease. Yesterday Victoria Barracks square was almost as bare as it used to be prior to the war.

Rough riders from the country for the new remount unit for Egypt have not come forward in the numbers expected.

The Bathurst Political Labour League has condemned conscription, on the ground that it is against the principles of democracy.

A committee of employers has been formed to co-operate with the Government in finding employment for returned soldiers.

The plans for the proposed city railway station near the Town Hall came before the Works committee of the City Council.

It was contended that the entrances and exits would spoil the appearance of the Town Hall and interfere with the traffic.

The matter was referred to a conference of representatives of the Government and the council, with a view to the selection of another site.

The health inspectors' conference yesterday discussed a number of matters affecting the public health.

The Board of Health was asked to authorise inspectors to purchase for analysis samples of food other than milk.

The Baptist Union held a demonstration in the Burton-street Tabernacle last night, as a farewell to four missionaries for India.

The cargo steamer Yeddo, which is drifting south-east of Albany with a broken tail shaft, has not yet been picked up.

The vessel, which does not carry wireless, has sufficient provisions on board to last the crew for five months.

A bakery in Railway-parade, Kogarah, was burnt out yesterday morning.

Agricultural reports from the Darling Downs forecast a poor wheat harvest.

A conference was held yesterday between Mr. Hughes and the representatives of the copper interests.

The object was to arrange for the production of metallic copper in Australia.

The commissioners of the Government Savings Bank have increased the rate of interest on deposits to 3½ per cent.

The Necessary Commodities Commission has refused to increase the price of country milk at Manly to 6d a quart.

At the wool sales the market showed no change from the previous day. Excited competition prevailed for good shafty wools.

A much larger business was transacted in investment stocks on the Sydney Stock Exchange yesterday. Prices were easier.

All lines of imported merchandise continue to be well held owing to the scarcity of freight.

Quiet conditions prevailed in the dairy end of Sussex-street yesterday. Butter was in strong demand, but supplies were not large.

Both bacon and cheese consignment were short, particularly the former. Eggs were heavily supplied.

Forecast.—Generally fine and mild, but still a tendency to showers and thunder in the north-east and extreme south-east districts.

PEAPES' SUMMER SHIRT SUGGESTIONS.

The slightly warmer conditions prevailing during the past few days are but a prelude to real summer weather.
The question of adding cool shirtwear to one's wardrobe will have to be answered quickly, and we believe that the suggestions hereunder will be read with interest by all who desire to secure the maximum of hot day comfort from their purchases.

THREE POPULAR SHIRTS.

(1) The Peapes Crepe Soft Shirt, with stiff or gauntlet cuffs and stiff linen neckbands.
The materials are of a light weight, good wearing nature, and quite a variety of stripe and check effects on light and dark grounds are available to select from. An ideal summer garment,
5/9 EACH.

(2) Peapes Cambric Shirt—soft or stiff cuffs—stiff white linen neckbands. These shirts have fancy coloured stripe and check designs over a white ground. Cool, and lasting in wear.
6/9 EACH.

(3) The Peapes Soft Tennis Shirt, fitted with the Peapes new shaped collar and the usual pocket. In light Cream Flannel and White Oxford materials. A comfortable shirt for tennis or beach wear.
7/6 EACH.

Please state size when ordering.

THE PIANO OF YOUR CHOICE

. . . . . must be an instrument that features excellence in tone, touch, and construction. Lacking these essentials, it will be a most expensive investment—no matter how low the price you pay. We offer you the opportunity of securing a renowned English Piano, at a greatly reduced cost. Here is the reason for this offer.—We have a number of splendid instruments which have been used for exhibition purposes in our showrooms. The cases are slightly shop-soiled, but their tonal quality and superior construction are unimpaired. This is a splendid chance to place in your home a really high-grade Piano at a very moderate cost.

AN "ALLISON" PIANO,

Call and inspect—you will be delighted with these grand values.

We can arrange terms to suit your convenience. Come in and talk the matter over.

GRAMOPHONE OWNERS WILL FIND AT PIANOLA HALL
AN EFFICIENT RECORD SERVICE.

In opening our Gramophone Saloon we have made complete arrangements to cater for Disc machine owners with an efficient Record service. Every title procurable in Zonophone and "His Master's Voice" Discs are stocked, and customers are assured new goods, helpful suggestions, and courteous attention.

If you use Vocalion Needles the best results will be obtained from your Records.

EXPRESSION!

What if your technique is perfect, if the instrument you play is incapable of giving true expression to your play?
It is because the player of THE HOPKINSON PIANO
gets the utmost value out of his manipulation of the keys and pedals that he prefers it to all other instruments.
The Hopkinson is the standard British piano—it stands alone, pre-eminent in its class. Yet it is not an expensive instrument.
Call or write for detailed particulars of construction.

THE RAWSON MOODY SELF-LOCKING ALL STEEL FENCE.
"THE RAWSON MOODY" fence not only cuts down fencing costs in the long run, but it also gives an added value to your property. It is the most reliable fence on the market. Fire-proof, stock-proof, ant-proof, decay-proof, and practically everlasting. It reduces labour 80 per cent. A man and a boy can erect ¼ of a mile per day. The "RAWSON MOODY" is a complete fence, comprising straining posts, intermediates, and droppers. The standards and droppers are supplied separately as required. Write for our complete Catalog "C." It tells all about the RAWSON MOODY FENCE.

THE SOCIAL SEASON.

This is the week before the Spring race meeting, and yet we have to be forcibly reminded of the date—so far away from social gaiety are the thoughts of all of us. The preparations for Randwick are going on in a quiet way, and in some of the leading shops there are little cards displaying "for the races," "latest mode for Randwick," and so forth, but all is done in a very small and unpretentious way, much as if the aforesaid announcements were being whispered instead of boldy asserted. A social season in the old time sense is not being planned at all. There are almost innumerable entertainments listed, but every one of them is to be got up for a patriotic fund, or it may be for some of the charities which we must not let die out altogether. The charities which have been in the habit of playing Lazarus at the feast of Dives—for the very crumbs used to fall to their lot in the shape of charity balls and concerts have not even had that portion allotted to them this past winter and this present season.

Efforts there have been in that direction, and successful efforts, too, for the generosity of the public does not stop at just the one and only object of its giving. But none the less it is a fact that our hospitals are many of them in such a financially weakened condition, despite the magnificent response on Hospital Saturday, that wards have had to be closed or are about to be closed. Many women have now come round to the opinion that there should be a charity tax. "Nationalisation of wealth" was once thought to be a party cry, but so many old landmarks are being swept away now in the time of change and stress, that people of all shades of opinion are adopting the idea that something indeed needs doing in the line of keeping the charities on a sound basis.

A few dances in suburban town halls are on the list of forthcoming events, but all are "for an object." That "for," or "in aid of," is a phrase to which we have all become quite accustomed. Meanwhile, the knitting and sewing goes on apace. The doubt whether the goods will ever reach their destination has been greatly minimised by the organisation of the comforts committees. A new phase of the work, and one which in its nature plays a more festive part, is this looking ahead to Xmas. Gifts for Egypt and Mudros and Malta are well under way now. Lady Anderson Stuart got her committee going "bright and early"—things are to be forwarded and kept at the other end until the time comes to distribute the gifts.

Another good work which is occupying the time of girls who otherwise and in other circumstances had been busy planning their race frocks is done at the newly-opened Red Cross book depot in Pitt-street, near the G.P.O. Here a circulating library and book club has sprung up like a mushroom, and all day long a band of workers under the ever energetic Mrs. Fred. Aronson, are engaged in taking delivery of books and periodicals, which they carefully cover with brown paper labelled with the big red cross, so familiar to us all. These workers invite contributions in any quantity. Several donors have sent cases of perfectly new books, but second-hand ones are quite acceptable. Even the paper-backed sixpenny edition is not despised. Indeed, these light weight books are very useful for hospital patients, who cannot hold up heavy literature—perhaps heavy in more sense than one. The Red Cross book department is fumigated every day, which is a necessary precaution. The new premises of this department seem in every way suitable.

Race-goers will not altogether abandon their favourite amusement, especially as the A.J.C. has shown itself as patriotic an institution as any if not more so. But the elaborate details of dress are not in the forefront of attention. None but the simplest of frocks will be worn. Of course, some of these "simple" frocks will have much thought and much money given to the making, but that will be the characteristic of the few, not the many. A new hat, white gloves, and last summer's frock" will be the new race outfit of dozens of women this spring. Luxury has become unfashionable. This is not said in a flippant sense, but as marking how very seriously are resolved those classes from which spring the leaders of fashion "to see the thing through." A novel which has had many readers of late is "When William Came," by H. H. Munro, in many respects a painful book, but one which makes the reader think as well as wince. The contemptuous summing up of the people, who still keep up the gossamer elegance of expensive society life after the great catastrophe which the title indicates, appeals to readers with a sense of proportion. Of course, the story is in the way of being a skit, but one would be sorry to think that there are women still as selfish and callously frivolous as Cecily Yeovil, the so-called heroine. Novels such as this one bring back to the memory a kind of life, a state of affairs which seems as remote now as the domestic customs of King Alfred's days.

Everything goes to show that the social season is non-existent. Theatres keep open for which play-goers are devoutly thankful. There is something in us that calls for a relaxation and a relief from too insistent thought, and an hour or two spent in listening to a song or two, or in seeing a play well performed, may be an evening well spent in the recuperative fillip it gives to the jaded spirits and weary brain. In this theatre-going and cafe dining and supping—for the restaurants are invariably well filled—are to be found the sole manifestations of what was formerly our social season.

SUBSTITUTES.

The following are all practical economics for the table, and these appeal to all housewives at all times, especially at present. For "rhubarb pie or tart," a popular lunch or dinner sweet, try stewing the ordinary common dock leaf or, rather, stalk found growing wild in all the country districts, and you will have a dish that not even the most expert connoisseur can distinguish from the savoury rhubarb. It is equally suitable for canning purposes. Next, a vegetable suggestion. Cabbage in summer time is dear and scarce (summer though not yet here is hastening on). "Fat hen" makes an ideal cabbage dish, and if a spinach substitute is desired turnip tops cannot be beaten for this purpose. Last, but not least, young bamboo shoots are quite as luscious as the best asparagus, and the young leaves steamed, not boiled, and made into rissoles with potatoes or baked with breadcrumbs, like tomatoes, make an excellent breakfast or supper dish. Last, but not least, the "curse o' the land," the prickly pear, has its uses. A couple of the leaves stripped of the spines and boiled with a pound of sugar and a quart of water until the whole is reduced to a pint, then strained, will give a jelly which, administered by the spoonful, will cure the most obstinate cough, and the same leaves cut in blocks and soaked overnight in strong lime water will make a most delicious tart or a preserve similar [illegible] jam.

P.L.C.A.

MADE IN AUSTRALIA.

The recent Trade Fair gave interesting glimpses of the possibilities of our own land, along with the solidarity of the resources of our allies. "Made in Germany" carries a new emphasis to our women when we find the figures, in round thousands, of our imports, side by side with the cost of German submarines and German Dreadnoughts.

Few of us are likely to be caught napping for some time, but the ways of commerce are wily and mysterious, and our inclination is increased to keep more steadfastly than ever to the many splendid products and manufactures of our own land and our own Australian firms. Here, at all events, there are ways and means by which we can, if we wish, find out the real constitution of our firms, whether they are truly Empire strengtheners and Britishers in their capital and dealings. Only of late years have we come to realise the splendid resources of Australia, that really it is possible to manufacture in our own land nearly all things necessary for our household use, domestic aids, and furnishings, and last, not least, those dainty goods which, to the feminine eye represent the thing best worth having. Our clever designers have come into their own during the last few months of the turmoil of warfare. It has been impossible in many cases to get models from Paris and Brussels, Vienna and Berlin being quite out of it. Therefore it has been absolutely necessary for our women to fall back on their personal skill, invention, and resource. Results have been in no way disappointing.

Women designers, who can specialise in blouses, skirts, and costumes, have been simply flooded with orders, and the goods have been passed as "chic" and true Parisian in toto. So, too, with our city milliners. To some it has always been an open secret that many of the so-called Continental models have been designed and constructed in our city from the fashion-plates of abroad, and just as beautiful as can be desired are some of these creations of Australian fingers. Most women now realise that our artificial flowers can vie in shade and colouring with the daintiness of any English or foreign manufacture, velvet, silk, and cotton, alike. So far the material for our dainty lingerie and muslin goods has been imported, but the making up is our own, and what is possible of manufacture in America with a high tariff, must also be possible here. Our tweeds are of beautiful texture and colouring. Our khaki is in big demand, and in close connection come our rugs and blankets. Many a soldier off to the front has had reason to be thankful for their comfort. Australian footwear as yet hardly receives the favour of American or English, but nevertheless, the Australian boot and shoe are both good in wear and fit. Only woollen hosiery so far has been manufactured in Sydney—gloves and cotton hosiery are things of the future. Straw and felt hats have long been permanent. There has been a shortage of straw plait of late from Italy, but our by no means to be despised Australian asset, brer rabbit, still guarantees us the felt hat. Handkerchiefs, bags, sachets, cushions, leather goods, and many dainty little accessories are made in the city.

JEAN.

THE COUNTRY TEACHER.

"Minister regrets that there is still a shortage of teachers'" states the Parliamentary report. The correspondence of the country member "regrets that the school at so and so must remain closed until a teacher is available." We do not altogether realise what a real calamity this scarcity of teachers is to many, though those who have had experience of our small country centres will have some idea of the loss involved to the children by the closing of the schools. The consequent lack of education is not the only matter for regret. In the isolated "way-back" community, the teacher is often the single link with the outside world. Her frequent holidays, with their attendant trips to Sydney or other large centres (when she can afford them), keep her, and through her, the residents in touch with the doings of the day. She brings back the fashions (again when she can afford them), though perhaps in a modified form, and can give her sisters of the bush much valuable information as to what to buy and where to buy it. The latest in culinary recipes are passed round, and new housekeeping hints given, also "that new stitch" in fancy work. She is perhaps the only one, down in these enlightened days, who "gets the paper," and it is on her they depend for such knowledge of the progress of the great war as can be gleaned from the cables—the imparting of which is responsible for, incidentally, many intricate geography lessons.

From the teacher the small farmer obtains the market prices and the value of the crops. To her comes the hewer and drawer of wood with his figures. He can measure the length and breadth of his loads, but how many cords is beyond him. The stone-breaker, too—will she work out that heap on the road, so that when the shire engineer comes along the workman will know if he is being rightly recompensed. "And father says, please miss, would you tell him how many acres in that three-cornered piece of land near us?" This is a bit of a puzzler, as triangles (and this piece is so very three-cornered) are not her strong point. But she generally has a big brother who, if written to, will solve the problem if the proper measurements are obtained.

These are just a few of the ways in which the country teacher makes herself useful. And how is she to be done without? In these days of electoral and census cards, referendum leaflets, etc., her services are particularly required. If she be not there to elucidate the mysteries thereof, the language in which they are printed might nearly as well be Greek. The compiler of statistics has, indeed, cause to bless the country teacher. Can nothing then be done in the matter of closing schools? Must all these localities be bereft of their mainstay, and so many children left without education? The Department of Public Instruction recently announced that temporary teachers would be employed, but little seems to have been done in this respect. Surely there are some educated women who could help to fill these gaps, if any effort were made to obtain their services. There are possibly instances where the wife or daughter of the teacher of the larger schools could be appointed to the staff, thereby setting free assistant teachers who could take charge of these remote schools. Every effort should be made by the department, even to the length of making the position more attractive, before schools should be closed down in this wholesale manner.

HOPE.

MATERNITY NURSING.

The Midwives Bill, now before the Victorian House, is being carefully watched by members of more than one women's association in Melbourne. It was drawn up to protect the woman who employs the services of a midwife instead of a doctor and a midwifery nurse. The Women's Hospital authorities state that in the last two years septicaemia cases have increased to an alarming degree. Those in charge blame for this to a great extent the haphazard way in which an unqualified woman can undertake midwifery nursing. Numbers of women cannot afford medical and nursing fees. They usually pay a midwife 30s a week, and, in addition to nursing the patient, the midwife does the housekeeping. This bill is not intended to force such capable women out of employment, but to see that aseptic conditions are regarded, and that the midwife has a knowledge of her work before undertaking it. Very many unqualified women are acting as midwives who have had good experience and know their work thoroughly. In country districts they are invaluable. It would be unwise to penalise such women simply because they hold no certificate. References from doctors who have known them for some time and have seen them at work should suffice.

MARY JONES.

What women say against universal service is sometimes well worth listening to, for it is a poor proposition that will not stand arguing about. Some women own up to dissuading their men from active service, because of the money difficulty. There is justice to this. Soldiers' wives are often left in bad circumstances, and for the woman with a separation allowance pay day is occasionally as long a way off as Tipperary. Then, another objection which one often hears a woman put forward is this: "I won't let him go while Germans have good billets." Turn out all Germans first and then you'll see." The "billet" is indeed the crux of the situation. Women do not care about the prospect of their husband losing his "steady job;" they consider, so they say, the promise of reinstatement in many cases to be of the piecrust order. The same argument is heard concerning the women who will act as substitutes for men on active service. Are those women to give back the situations to the men whom they set free to serve, or are they not? There is a very real difficulty in answering this question. Nobody could answer it offhand. In fact, the whole business of universal service bristles with difficulties. Can anybody wonder that it does so bristle, seeing that it means practically the dislocation of everyday life. But universal service, if compulsory, would not be the cause of that dislocation. It might as justly be termed the effect of it. The war causes all the trouble. It is an extraordinary state of affairs and imperious withal. All other arrangements must give way to the great and pressing need for more men, and for all women to urge those men to serve, and to help them in any way open to women; and many ways are open now.

A SHADY HAT OF RUSTIC STRAW TRIMMED WITH ROSES.

The old stock argument against compulsory service that one volunteer is worth a dozen pressed men, is quoted as though it had what is commonly called a "punch," when in truth it has no force whatever at the back of it. The punch is paralysed by the fact that at the time when the celebrated appreciation of fighting worth was made, the pressgang was actively at work supplying reinforcements to fill in the gaps left by those who would not volunteer, the pressgang, while the non-volunteers were declining to be "slaves," was collecting fighters by all means, foul as well as fair. To supplement the voluntary system by the underhand methods of the pressgang, was an historical example of the fixed determination of the British nation to eat its cake and have it. No evils that could result from the most rigorous and vigorous form of conscription could come within coo-ee of what used to go on when the voluntary system aided by the pressgang was at work.

The best known instance is the case of Mary Jones, quoted by Charles Dickens in the preface to "Barnaby Rudge," from a speech made in the House of Commons by Sir William Meredith in 1777. "Under the Shoplifting Act one Mary Jones was executed, whose case I shall just mention; it was at the time when press warrants were issued on the alarm about Falkland Islands. The woman's husband was pressed, their goods seized for some debts of his, and she, with two small children, turned into the streets a-begging. It is a circumstance not to be forgotten that she was very young (under 19), and most remarkable handsome. She went to a linen-draper's, took some coarse linen off the counter, and slipped it under her cloak. The shopman saw her, and she laid it down; for this she was hanged. Her defence was that she had lived in credit and wanted for nothing till a press-gang came and stole her husband from her; but since then she had no bed to lie on, nothing to give her children to eat, and they were almost naked, and perhaps she might have done something wrong, for she hardly knew what she did. When brought to receive sentence she behaved in such a frantic manner as proved her mind to be in a distracted and desponding state, and her child was at her breast when she set out for Tyburn."

The savage laws of those days took no heed of poverty as an excuse for crime, and when that poverty was caused by a system which flourished under voluntary service to reinforce its weak spots no mercy was shown on that account. The case of Mary Jones stands as a proof that no monetary loss and inconvenience that might be suffered by wives under compulsory service—if any such should be undergone—could possibly be more severe than was felt in the good old days when one volunteer was worth a dozen pressed men.

CHRISTMAS BILLIES.

I saw them being packed—the thousands of bright, shining gifts of love, to the dear boys in Gallipoli, and being a mere woman, and not above a little sentimentality, I allowed my emotions a day out, so to speak.

But who could help a lump in the throat at the thought of what each of those billies represented? Just as I saw the lines and lines of shining tins, I saw, too, lines and lines of khaki-coloured men—each the darling of some woman's heart.

I had packed my billy with great care and deliberation.

What a curious feeling it is—to be choosing presents for an unknown friend—it was not likely that my own Jack would get this particular billy.

Usually at Christmas time, how we mentally revise "Jack's" character and tastes, so that a present for him reveals more or less, what we know of him. But here is a topsy turvy arrangement—we know nothing of the recipient, whereas he has many opportunities of summing us up, by our presents.

Anyway, they can exchange if the contents don't please them. I packed a tin of curry powder, and it worried me to think that my soldier might detest the taste of curry, until it struck me that his mate would probably exchange a pea soup sausage for it. And what about a book? In that respect, above all, one must know one's man. At last I decided to rely upon the truth that "all the world loves a lover," so I chose a most charming love story. He may pretend to his friends that he does not like it, but I know he will read it. Something to wear was easy. I sent a pair of socks, with red, white, and blue stripes across the top. Then, something to amuse. How do I know whether a jigsaw puzzle would amuse or annoy my own particular strange hero? A pack of cards and a Jew's harp, fitted in beautifully, between the book and the slab of chocolate.

Then I sprinkled in a few studs, and some almonds and raisins, to fill up the crevices, and each one, as they showered in, took kind thoughts and best wishes with many grateful thanks, from an Australian woman, to any dear soldier in the trenches.

BALLARAT.

PENELOPE'S WEEKLY NOTES.

The State fish shop in Pitt-street, near the Quay, opened its doors last week, and is now apparently doing a roaring trade. It is, moreover, stretching its feelers beyond the precincts of deepsea fish. Australia's home foe, the rabbit, is offered there, fresh and dressed all ready for the cook to try her hand upon, at 8d each; also eggs at 2d a dozen less than the price at which most of our other tradesmen dispense them.

Many disappointed customers, however, could testify that this shop, doing so well now, would do very much better were its staff and counter space more adequate.

The pamphlets freely issued by the salesmen there, for would-be customers to help themselves to, urge us to save money by eating cheap fresh deepsea fish instead of dear chops and steaks. But the compiler of the pamphlets did not seemingly recollect that time is also monetary value to most of us, and that the precious minutes one is forced to lose while waiting to be served must be put into the balance and weighed when one is considering the saving effected in buying, say, 2lb of fish at 5d a lb. instead of 1lb. of steak at 1s 2d.

"Penelope," an interested onlooker, worked while waiting a mental subtraction sum, or a problem in economics, which ever you may choose to call it. In an invisible pair of scales she placed on the one side 2lb of nannygai at 5d a lb. (less the bones and fins and heads and tails of the nannygai and 15 minutes of golden time) and on the other 1lb of 1in thick rump steak at 1s 3d a lb. (less only 2oz of fat and bone).

Alas! The minutes alone detracted so deleteriously from the nannygai that thrift urged true economy lay in eating, not cheap trawler fish, but dear rump steak. Strange that cheap things are frequently so very expensive to obtain! However, probably in the near future our central State fish shop will show improvements as regards accommodation for customers and number of salesmen.

Some of our fishmongers are showing very good salt salmon at 1s a lb, and fillets of cod at the same price. Flathead appear very plentiful; but a good-sized fish costs 1s 3d. Garfish at 1d a piece are worth buying, particularly for the appetite that requires to be "tempted." Schnapper is 1s a pound, and of good quality at present. Inquiry at one of our most important stores proves cheese and bacon to be both still abnormally scarce. There is what may be called just a showing of both Bodalla and Hawkesbury College cheese—each at 1s 2d a lb. Many people have a liking for good Canadian cheese, and that is with us now at 1s 6d a lb. English Cheddar, an old favourite, costs 1s 9d.

The price of lard is apparently declining. A week or two ago it was as much as 1s 6d a lb—and almost unobtainable even at that price. To-day it is being quite freely offered at 1s 4d, so is the outlook for the pastrycooks improving. Butter is still at last week's price, 1s 6d a lb, but eggs unfortunately have, in a few days, grown dearer. They are now 1s 4d a dozen.

Most of the fruit shops are now proudly displaying loquats at 6d a pint. A pint of loquats, it must be confessed, when robbed of their waste parts, makes but a very small pie or pudding. The economical are therefore advised to wait awhile if desirous of buying this fruit. Cape gooseberries have also put in an appearance. But they also are very dear, 1s per small box. Good sweet oranges from the Paterson River are being offered at 6d and 1s a dozen, and a quite exceptionally delicious orange, grown at the Pera Bore, a "blood" orange, is for sale at 1s 6d and 2s a dozen. Some newly-arrived very rosy and clean-looking American apples are brightening our fruiterers' windows this week, being offered everywhere at the rate of 3 for 1s. Granny Smith apples and good Josephine pears may be bought for 1½d apiece. Strawberries have grown very dear. A basket of such berries as a fortnight or so ago cost us 1s 9d, to-day are as much as 3s; smaller baskets, of smaller fruit, are 1s 9d and 2s 6d each. Large fine grape fruits (come over probably with the rosy apples) from America are 3d, 4d, and 5d each.

The new feature in the vegetable shops is the broad bean. While fresh and young it is best worth buying. Boiled like peas, and served with parsley sauce it is a delicious vegetable.

Tomatoes are coming in more freely. Their price to-day runs from 9d to 1s 6d a dozen. Peas are 1s 9d and up to 2s 6d a peck. French beans, hardly worth buying now, are 1s 6d a peck. Asparagus runs from 9d to 1s 9d a bundle, and cabbages from 4d to 6d each.

IN THE SHEARERS' SHED.

Lying on the floor in sprawling attitudes among the loose wool, leaning on one another, perched on sacks, in every conceivable position sat the shearers and rouseabouts; while behind them stood a number of older men, who included such different types as the bearded old driver of the bullock team, and the smart young engine-man.

A couple of wool bales in the centre made an impromptu platform, and on one of these sprang the speaker—a clever, good-looking man, whom we recognised as our local police magistrate, and outside a band blared out "Tipperary," for the first time in the history of the station.

We women had not been invited—as we ought to have been—to attend; but we filled one corner of the picturesque looking hut, and clapped and cheered with no less enthusiasm than the men themselves. We did not sport the latest thing in fashions, but we made a very good show of colour; and there was but little suggestion of "Sandy's Selection" about us. The shearers' clothes were in one or two cases conspicuous rather for their absence than otherwise, one well-built young fellow seemed intent on showing as much as possible of his finely-developed chest measurement. The first speaker uttered a well-thought-out speech with repressed vigour, and made appeal to head rather than heart. With dark eyes seeking to grip the men, clenched hands, and quiet force, he told them of the absolute necessity for every manly fellow to be at the front. After having appealed to the decenter element among the crowd he addressed, he reminded the shirkers of the probability of conscription.

His short fine speech ended, a tall man of different ilk sprang on the "platform." From the first he compelled the attention of even the most wandering mind, he threw himself about, gestured, appealed, and put everything in a most popular way. How would the men feel if they saw the Germans pouring over the plains of that station? The men expressed what their feelings would be by muffled growls and execrations, and all through this speech was clapped vociferously when points were made.

A third speaker, who understood the type of men with whom he had to deal, ran over a few points which had been omitted. Then the band blared out again, cheers were given for the King, and then the names of volunteers were called for. There was a little pause in the proceedings, and then a few men came forward, amid acclamation and cheering. Not the number there should have been, and the very curly haired, splendid specimens of youth and strength whom we had picked out as certain volunteers, were the ones not among the numbers.

There were some plucky lads among them, then, and there were some whose ties secured them to home; but we felt, alas! there would have been a far larger number marched away under conscription. Still, on the whole, the recruiting meeting had been successful. The orators had been greeted in a loyal and hearty maner, and we had certainly realised a little more the dignity and beauty of the call to arms.

One of the "rouseabouts" volunteered, in conclusion, not his service to the King, but a highly-appreciated song to the company; a recitation followed, and then we left the men to a little fun and feasting, and the recruiting meeting was over. The motor cars spirited away speakers and band alike, and presently only the noise and whirr of the shearing broke the solemn hush of the lofty hills and wide sunlit plains.

A country worth living in, these young men evidently think; a country worth dying for, too, one would imagine.

HOME AFFAIRS.

COOKING WITHOUT GAS.

North Sydney, with its gas strike last week, rose to the occasion by cooking its meals without gas. These gas strikes resemble beetles, which were made, we are told, for some beneficent end, for they teach housewives how very foolish it is not to have a second string to their bow, and as an alternative fuel in the kitchen range. But it is just a little strange that even large villas are built now without accommodation for any other kind of stove except a gas stove. In such establishments, the fire in the backyard with three bricks for hobs seemed the only alternative when the gas went out. In the early hours of Friday morning, the youngest boy stood by to watch the kettle, while father foraged for more chips. If the kettle slipped into the fire, then all was lost for breakfast, save tinned fish and cold milk. The fireless cooker was found to be of no use without a fire to start the cooking. Indeed, without going so far as to say that a haybox fireless cooker makes an excellent refrigerator, it is a fact that much disappointment arises from the use of a fireless cooker when it is asked to perform the impossible.

Housewives felt themselves in luck when they possessed a useful one-fire stove, which makes very little more trouble than the gas stove. A good stove of this sort cooks everything to perfection. Soup, stews, curries, all dishes that require gentle simmering were found to be "just right" when so cooked. Another friend in need was the primus. But to set one going there are needed kerosene and methylated spirits, which, perhaps, are not to hand, being the sort of commodity housewives do not keep unless absolutely necessary. The oven of the kerosene stove is not so usual as the boiling apparatus, but it answers the purpose well, though those cooks who used one last week found that they must give the meat more time to cook than would be the case with a gas stove.

A DAINTY LINEN GOWN.

An ingenious device was adopted by many who were without an alternative to the gas stove, by lighting a fire under the copper, and pouring in enough water to stand several billies and pudding basins in. By this means, several dishes could be prepared at once, and with the very delicate flavour which a water jacket gives. The water was afterwards used for washing up. The copper way finds many adherents among those who must go away and leave things to cook slowly. By making first a good fire under the copper, and placing in the things as above, they will be found ready after an hour has elapsed. Most cooks use too much fuel for cooking, no matter whether that fuel be gas, coal, wood, or kerosene. To get just enough, and no more, is only possible where the derivatives are used. But to do the work with as little fuel expenditure as may be is an aim well worthy of attainment by the beginner in the culinary art.

MARTHA.

DETAILS OF SANITAC.

The material is jute hessian, or other strong, light material. The measurement, when complete, should be 22 inches by 14 inches. In making, at least one inch turning should be allowed in the seams, which should be well sewn by hand or machine with strong twine. Mouth should be left open, and if not a selvedge the material should be turned over and hemmed. A piece of string, 2 feet long, should be fastened to the outside of the bag, 3 inches below the mouth, to close the bag when filled. If of light-coloured material, the bags should be dyed with coffee or other harmless liquid.

SEASONABLE RECIPES.

A Quickly-Made Suet Pudding.—Take two breakfast cups of flour, one cup of suet, finely minced, one or two minced apples, a little sugar, about a tablespoonful, a small teaspoonful of baking powder. Mix all well together, and make into stiff dough with luke warm water. flour the outside of the pudding, tie loosely in cloth, and boil for two or three hours. A piece of mosquito net is a good thing to boil suet puddings in. This pudding can be varied by using sultanas or dates, instead of apples, and can be formed into dumplings, which must be dropped into fast-boiling water, either tied in mosquito net or as they are, and cooked for one or two hours—one hour will cook them, but they are better cooked for two. A nice sauce to serve with suet puddings is made by mixing the juice and grated rind of a lemon, with some boiled arrowroot or maizena, sweeten to taste, always remembering that both take quite five minutes boiling to cook thoroughly.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Addressing parcels for troops.—E.M.: Send parcel c/o Mesdames Glanville and Reid, Eastways, 320 George-street, Sydney, if it is for troops. If for an individual port, in the usual way, if the parcel is under 11lb. The address you quote is sufficient.

Beryl.—You have omitted name and address.

To A.B.'s query.—You should find out if there are any vacancies at present. If so, yes.

An exhibition of antique and modern needlework held last year at the suggestion of Miss Macdonald, was so very much liked that the girls' auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Association have decided to repeat it. Several spinning wheels will be shown and explained; wool in every stage from its natural state to the homespun sock will be on view. Miss Macdonald is president of the W.M.A. The exhibition will be opened in the Y.W.C.A. Hall on Thursday week.

A SOLDIERS' MATINEE.

Nothing goes with any swing now unless soldiers are assisting. Our boys in khaki work overtime in the social sense, for they are invited to everything that is got up, either for their own benefit or to swell the coffers of a deserving charity. These lads are the life and soul of the city. Whatever gaiety there may be, centres round the men from the camp or the returned heroes. These returned men wear their new-found laurels just as we might expect they would wear them—with careless ease and nonchalance. They submit to being admired with admirable patience. They laugh and chaff with all the pretty girls at all the "tea fights" and "hen parties," as they irreverently term the entertainments, which, although they may perhaps beg to have the ordeal cut short, they punctiliously attend, perhaps knowing that their presence or absence makes or mars the function. Good spirits prevail wherever they may be. They fully enter into the spirit of the thing, and only promoters and organisers know what a great help it is when people willingly, and even eagerly, fall in with plans made on their behalf.

At the Warren, Marrickville, on Saturday, the A.S.C. had a carnival, and the result of the day was a sum of £150 towards the depot of the comforts committee, a gift which shows beyond doubt that the A.S.C. appreciate what is being done for them as a corps. On Monday afternoon the matinee at the Palace resulted in another £150 for the same cause; the performance with all its characteristics may be taken as typical of a soldiers' matinee in Sydney to-day. Back rows of dress circle were all in brown, and the same colour met the eye at every turn. The usual features of a matinee obtruded themselves, girls selling sweets and flowers, much rushing about on the part of tired organisers, everybody feeling more as if it were a private party than a public show; loud applause of every item in appreciation of the artists' kindness in coming forward and helping to make the afternoon a success.

Much of the attraction was behind the footlights, but there was just as much in front of the stage. The audience showed a tendency to let its presence be felt. Was it noisy? Well, yes, just a little. The boys—they were all lads—were really rather like a bunch of jolly undergrads., only not nearly so "obstropulous." It was great fun sitting quietly at the back of the circle and listening to it all. When the orchestra played the "High Jinks" Waltz the A.S.C. joined in, and the rest of the interval they enlivened by making choruses of the various "rags" played by the band. The audience insisted on encores.

"Encore," the khaki boys cried.

"Do we get an encore?" asked one-half of them in chorus.

"We do," answered the others.

"When do we get it?"

"Now," came from every tongue.

And "now" was the right time. The artists seemed only too pleased to come back again and give the boys "some song."

A battle of flowers raged in the interval. The girls' baskets were emptied in less time than it takes to tell it. Competition was keen for favoured blooms. "Beat that," they called one after the other, holding up an outsize in floral sprays or a big bunch of roses. They all wished for these. "Give me a rose," they sang à la the Arcadian girl. They held their caps out, and got them piled high with flowers. It was all just for the fun of the thing. When voices grew a little too loud somebody would call "Order," and the lively A.S.C. settled into quietude like a Sunday-school.

When it was all over they assembled on the pavement, and gave "three hearty British cheers" for Miss Hilda Caro and Miss Lottie Gilbert, who, as hon. secs., had worked perhaps the hardest to organise the matinee.

MELBOURNE NOTES.

* * * * *

The woman rifle shots of Australia subscribed for a motor ambulance for use in connection with Australian sick and wounded soldiers. This was recently handed over to Lady Helen Ferguson at Federal Government House.

* * * * *

Progressive women here are suggesting the advisability of having women included in the board that is to be formed for the business management of Red Cross affairs in Egypt.

* * * * *

At the last monthly meeting of the National Council of Women at the Austral Salon, Mrs. Gladys Taylor-Hain spoke on the "Legal Status of Women after the War." This interesting lecturette was attentively listened to, and many voiced a favourable opinion on the educational value of these addresses.

An enthusiastic spirit marked the twenty-fourth Melbourne "Henry George Commemoration" social recently held at the Austral Salon. Mr. W. B. Griffin, designer of the Federal capital, spoke at some length on the present war crisis, and the teaching of Henry George. Miss A. Lambrick gave a fine estimate of the character of the author of "Progress and Poverty."

Lady Bridges' appeal for gifts for nurses at the front (as Christmas greetings) is likely to receive a good response. One cheque for £50, another for £5, and a number of smaller contributions have been received to purchase gifts. It is suggested that gifts certain to be appreciated are perfumes and toilet requisites of all kinds, handkerchiefs, sweets, biscuits, writing materials, and cheerful reading matter.

A very well-known resident of Dunolly (Victoria), Mrs. Isabella Lawson, who recently died, aged 81, was a native of Ayrshire, Scotland, and arrived in Victoria with her husband in 1854. Mrs. Lawson left a family of one son and three daughters, including Lady McBride, wife of the Victorian Agent-General in London.

A memorial stained glass window, the subject of which is "The Light of the World," was unveiled and dedicated by the Rev. J. B. Sharp, at St. Matthew's Anglican Church, Cheltenham, to the late Mrs. C. Keys, one of the pioneers of that district, who had reached the age of 94 years. The window was subscribed for by the nearest of Mrs. Key's numerous descendants. Her late husband had a station there, when Melbourne was little more than a village.

An important feature of the work of the Domestic Arts School at Bell-street, Fitzroy, is the establishment of evening classes for instruction in needlework, cookery, millinery, and dressmaking for girls and women who are employed during the day. The attendance exceeded 100 during the first two terms. A second Domestic Arts School has now been established at Vere-street, Collingwood.

* * * * *

The school in Bell-street is used during the day as a "School for Feebleminded Children." Much interest is centred in this experiment. There are 80 mentally-unfit children in regular attendance, and efforts are being made to impart at least some knowledge of book-learning and sloyd work to them. Specially-selected teachers are chosen for the work of instruction, and in some instances marked improvement is shown. It is the intention of the Education Department to establish another school on similar lines in another suburb, where 60 pupils will be admitted. When it is understood that we have 6000 mentally-afflicted children in Victoria it will be seen that but a small percentage receive attention. But the school is as yet in the experimental stage, and hopes are entertained that it will justify its existence in the future by a better understanding of how to treat and train these unfortunate little ones.

The employees of Foy and Gibson Pty., Ltd., entertained the troops at Royal Park last week. An extensive programme was given before a crowded audience. The Salvation Army Institute was placed at the disposal of the artists. These entertainments are to be repeated weekly.

VERONICA.

FROM NEAR AND FAR.

Her Excellency Lady Helen Munro Ferguson has consented to preside at the annual meeting of the C. of E. Deaconess Institution, to be held in the Town Hall vestibule next Wednesday, at 3 p.m. The trustees are anxious to proceed as speedily as may be with the building of the new Deaconess Home, the present building being a rented property, and inadequate. The council is the owner of a suitable piece of ground in St. Paul's-road, opposite university, and hopes to build there in the near future.

The Commonwealth Patriotic Association held a meeting on Friday in Vickery's boardroom, when the speakers were Mrs. Edgley and Miss Ruth Beale; and Mrs. Callaway was in the chair. The association has now secured a room at M'Donell House, Pitt-street, where information may be obtained by persons interested in the subject of Australian manufactures. It is hoped that a scheme to register manufacturers and shopkeepers, who sell Australian goods, may soon be in working order, and may bear good fruit. The room at M'Donell House will be used from time to time to hold exhibitions of locally-made articles. The C.P.A. is now affiliated with the N.C.W.

The patriotic resolve to accept certificates instead of book prizes this year was made by the pupils of Miss M. A. Carter's Killarney School, Mosman. The certificates were distributed by Mrs. Bogue Luffman, at a concert got up by Killarney girls at the Mosman Town Hall on Thursday. Mr. P. B. Colquhoun presided, and congratulated the girls on the results of their efforts, on behalf of the fund for Allies' Day, which was augmented by the sale of programmes, daintily painted by the pupils, and sweets. Scenes from "Pickwick" were given by Misses Ailsa Cullen, Ruby Cole, Marian Paine, Joyce Colquhoun, and Bettie Aliport, and music was contributed by Mr. F. Miller, the Misses Miller, J. Colquhoun, D. Baverstock, and Mrs. Martin. Miss Elsie Dumoin and Miss Hope Ross gave recitations. There was a large attendance.

The Citizens' Association are interesting themselves in the subject of hostels for working girls. At the monthly meeting to-morrow morning the matter will come up for discussion.

A HOLIDAY IN NORFOLK.

(BY THE WRITER OF A "WOMAN'S LETTER.")

NORWICH (Norfolk), Aug. 13.

It has been difficult to find quarters at any interesting seaside places this year. The naval and military authorities occupy most coast towns. Indeed, so stringent are the rules that one cannot enter any town directly on the east coast without a permit. Spies are rife, now that I am come into what is more or less a war zone. I hear many details of interest which do not stray beyond local limits.

This country is always interesting. It is the home of high farming and the breeding of fine stock; the people do not move about, but remain on their farms and tenements, singularly unlike the Southern people, or those in the west country. I was much struck as I ran through Suffolk and Norfolk with the beautiful old farm houses and cottages, more or less washed a beautiful tone of pink, with thatched roofs and the fine old chimneys so characteristic of these eastern countries. They peep out from under beautiful trees, and are set in gardens ablaze with ramblers in every shade of crimson and pink; Delphinium over seven feet high, and as for Hollyhocks, one must see their beauty and their profusion to express them. No wonder townsfolk envy country people their glorious gardens.

England is far more gladdened with gardens than France, Belgium, or Germany. We are not credited with a joyous spirit, but if flowers are any cut to the feelings and emotions of a country, I think we come out on top in this section of the things that tend to make life happy.

The timber in Norfolk is remarkably fine. It was in this country, as well as Suffolk, that artists like Gainsborough and Constable, worked. You find the reflections of the trees in both counties in their pictures. One always regards Norwich more from the Cathedral City than from any other point of view. As a rule, it has all the dignified calm that attends such hallowed places. This year I awake to the sound of soldiers on the march. It chances that a battalion of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers is billeted here, and, as the men go out on route marches they sing part songs, which sound splendid—Welshmen always accompany their doings with song. See them playing in the international football match. The lookers-on, who travel all night and spread themselves all over London with leeks stuck in their button holes, sing as they watch the match—sing in the train till the great fight is over. The Glamorgans were here a little time back, and sang as they marched along the magnificent highway—more boulevard than road—which leads to Newmarket. It is the best residential site in Norwich. The trees are magnificent; houses stand back set in fine gardens; altogether, a very charming place for family life.

To-morrow I take leave of my friends and push on to Lowestoft. Two nights ago a Zeppelin flew over this well-known old sea port town. We heard the news in Norwich yesterday, but no details were forthcoming until this morning, when we find several people were killed and injured; but the Zeppelin was run to the waterline by our aircraft on this side, and by the French aviators from Dunkirk. She was broken by their gunfire and went down, exploding as she sank.

SHI-NOLEUM WILL ADD BRIGHTNESS TO YOUR HOME.

The housewife who takes a pride and delight in keeping her home spotlessly clean, bright, and fresh is invariably a keen Shi-noleum enthusiast.

And little wonder—Shi-noleum is a universal favourite. It does away with drudgery—makes polishing mere child's play—and quickly brings up a brilliant shine that is remarkably durable and effective. Best for linoleum, furniture, tan boots, and all leather goods.

Try a tin—get Shi-noleum. Refuse imitations. If not in stock at your storekeeper's, send your name and address for a free sample tin to the Paget Manufacturing Co., Ltd., 109 Regent-street, Sydney.

THE TURF.

Pony and galloway racing will be the attraction at Kensington this afternoon, when the customary seven-event programme will be played out, but owing to the number of horses engaged it will be necessary to run six of the races in divisions, and a start will be made at 1 p.m. The usual service by tram will be in vogue, the special service being supplemented by the ordinary traffic, and visitors will be landed at the racecourse gates. The track is good going, interesting sport should be witnessed, and the results may be anticipated as under:—Encourage Stakes: First division, Wa Wallon or Phast Lad; second division, Pure Gold or Flying Angel. Fourteen Hands Handicap: Footprint, My Dove, Secrete. Flying Handicap: First division, Lady Dominant or Selbrook; second division, Doongar or Prince of Arragon. Fourteen-one Handicap: First division, Lady Liddell or Princess Leonie; second division, Landscape or Carey Moore. Approved Stakes: First division, Loud Report or Persian Queen; second division, Kidwidgel or Sophora. Fourteen-two Handicap: First division, Speedometer or China; second division, Miss Carbeau or Ash Tray. Kensington Handicap: First division, My Peggy or Canley; second division, Pomeroo or The Sheave.

Owners and trainers of horses engaged in the principal handicaps or the classic events of the A.J.C. Spring Meeting are reminded that at 4 p.m. to-morrow (Thursday) final forfeits for the Derby, Epsom Handicap, The Metropolitan, and the Breeders' Plate fall due, and all horses remaining in after that hour incur the full liability for the stakes. The second forfeit for the Gimcrack Stakes must be paid before 4 p.m. on the 5th prox., the day before the race.

Messrs. H. Chisholm and Co. hold their annual spring sale of blood stock at their stables, Randwick, on the 11th prox., the Monday after the A.J.C. Spring Meeting, and a lengthy catalogue, which includes brood mares, stallions, racehorses in training, and untried stock, is now in course of compilation. The racehorses Gigandra, Secrete, Simon Frisco, Clash of Arms (imp.), Master Paul, Mount Wollmar, Merv's Pride, Mirzan, and Lady Denmanto are already listed. The blood stock owned by the late Mr. A. M. White will also be brought under the hammer on that occasion. They include several high-class brood mares and the following racehorses:—Br f M.E.W., by Kenilworth (imp.)—Lady Kingsley, 3yrs; ch c Flavidian, by Kenilworth (imp.)—Flavine, 2yrs; ch m Maoria, by Flavus (imp.)—Moa, 4yrs; and br g Coominya, by Taree—Fibre, 6yrs. The compilation of the catalogue will be furthered by intending vendors sending particulars of their stock as soon as possible.

The monthly meeting of the A.J.C. committee takes place this afternoon.

Mr. Edwin Woodbury, secretary, invites nominations up to 4 p.m. to-morrow for the half-dozen events on the card for the Menangle Park race meeting on the 7th prox. The prize-money aggregates 350 sovs., of which 100 sovs enriches the Menangle Park Handicap.

S.P. (Darlinghurst).—(1) Challenge Crosse was scratched for the Epsom Handicap at 2.25 p.m. on the 23rd inst. (2) Do not know.

Owners and trainers in this State gave liberal support yesterday to the Spring Meeting of the Victoria Racing Club, the general entries lodged at the office of the A.J.C. totalling 441, of which upwards of 50 were those of Melbourne-owned horses now visiting Sydney for the spring campaign at Randwick, and over a dozen are nominations of New Zealanders, also having spring engagements at headquarters. The entrants for the w.f.a. events include Carlita, First Principle, Cetigne, Wallace Isinglass, Cagou, Sir Alwynton, Westcourt, Lingle, St. Carwyne, Gringo, Ulva's Isle, Red Dennis, and Mountain Knight, while the Victorian-owned candidates for that class number among them Woorak, Kingsburgh, Uncle Sam, Hayston, and Lilyveil, and New Zealand is represented by Reputation. In the principal handicap events the names of Carlita, Lardner, First Principle, St. Spasa, Aurifer, Ornato, Flash of Steel, Red Dennis, Gringo, Allaru, Canzone, Panacre, and Ravello appear as well as those of the Melbourne-owned horses Woorak, Blague, The Lintie, and company. Over 30 two-year-olds have been nominated for the events in that class; the hurdle racers include Jack Rice, Rushcutter, and Minteroo, as well as the New Zealanders, North-east and Diavolo, the cross-country nominations comprise Briarberry, Minteroo, and Torone, and the New Zealanders Tim Doolan and Scots Guard.

The Gosford Racing Club holds its next meeting on the 12th prox., and the six events on the card carry in the aggregate 270 sovs. prize money. Entries will be received by the secretary, Mr. H. R. Evans, up to 4 p.m. on Tuesday next, the 5th prox.

R.H. (Newtown): The starting price of Sinderry in the Fourteen Hands Handicap at Wollongong on Monday was 2 to 1 on.

RANDWICK TRAINING NOTES.

BRILLIANT GALLOPS BY MOUNTAIN KNIGHT AND FLASH OF STEEL.

A very large crowd put in an appearance at Randwick yesterday morning for the semi-final gallop in connection with the A.J.C. Spring Meeting. A strong Victorian contingent was headed by Messrs. L. K. S. Mackinnon, C. L. Macdonald, and P. A. Connolly, and among the many New Zealanders on hand were Messrs. W. Casey and J. Gleeson, the owners of Colonel Soult; G. M. Currie, owner of Common Law; E. Alison, the owner of Housewife; F. Minnimy, V. Casey, J. Williamson, M. Deeble, and Mountain Knight's owner, E. J. Watt. Among local owners present were Sir William Cooper and Messrs. J. S. Brunton, T. A. Stirton, A. E. Cordeaux, J. J. Garvan, J. S. Agnew, T. Hannan, J. O. Peterson, V. M. White, K. T. Austin, and the part-owner of Carlita, who races as "Mr. J. Rivers." F. Musgrave was back from a hurried visit from Victoria, and brought with him the Vasco colt Francis Foy, who is the property of Mr. Mat. Ellis, and is still in the Derby. Other horses that have joined the forces at headquarters are Ballista, Machine Boy, and Cathedral.

The middle grass track was again in use, and very favourable to the watch, as most of the moisture had departed, and heavy dust was raised by the galloping horses on the stretch between the half-mile post and the distance. A special fee was paid for Ulva's Isle and Carlita to gallop around the course proper (one mile three furlongs). Their course lay outside two treatles, and Carlita beat the Positano horse by nearly three lengths in 2m 27s; the last mile and a quarter in 2m 12s, and the last six furlongs in 1m 18½s. This was rightly regarded as one of the best gallops over the distance ever seen on the course proper, but opinions differed as to whether it was equal to a mile and a quarter run later in the morning on the middle grass track, by Mountain Knight, who accounted for the distance in 2m 10½s. Mountain Knight was closer to the inner rail than was Carlita and her mate, but as a set-off against that be carried McLachlan—something in the vicinity of 9st—certainly a much heavier weight than Carlita or Ulva's Isle had in the saddle. That the middle grass track was fast going, was well illustrated by that ancient son of Sir William, Eric, who beat Giddy Boy over a mile and a quarter in 2m 12½s; and St. Spasa, who could have done better, ran it in 2m 13s. He was accompanied by William the Silent, over whom he had the call, and ran the last seven furlongs in 1m 30½s. The best mile gallop of the morning was executed by Flash of Steel, who beat Aleconnor by two lengths, and Amata by eight over that distance in 1m 42s, which is within half a second of the track record; but, since last week Flash of Steel has been shod with concave shoes, which, though as heavy as his old flat foot-gear, gives him a better grip of the ground. Colonel Soult shaped well over six furlongs which he ran in 1m 16½s. Cagou covered a mile in 1m 42½s, but carried a very light weight. Rue Victoria and the New Zealand filly, Housewife, were bracketed for a ten furlongs gallop, and the latter won by a length, in 2m 14s. Woorak was not asked to go full against the watch, but ran a mile in 1m 45s, a time performance which Blague equalled, and carried a comparatively heavy weight. Nombi went about a mile, as did Silver Lad. Miss Bob got over six furlongs in 1m 18s. Cetigne worked usefully; and The Pole went a mile and a quarter in 2m 20s.

Radnor, ridden by Lewis, and Wallace Isinglass, who carried little Barden (a very light weight), went off at an easy gait for a mile and a half gallop. They hardly made three-quarter pace for three furlongs, but ran the last ten furlongs in 2m 18s. The pace was never full on till they reached the straight, and, at the finish Wallace Isinglass was a couple of lengths in front of the Victorian crack. Gringo went single-handed over a mile and a quarter in 2m 14½s, but Royal Parade, who beat Emden by at least 20 lengths, carried a light weight over the same course in 2m 12½s, accounting for the last seven furlongs in 1m 31½. Fend managed a mile in 1m 45s without extra effort, and Golden Hop, with a light weight up, galloped a furlong less in 1m 30½s. First Principle, ridden by F. Hickey, was let off with a working gallop over a mile, which occupied 1m 48s, and Reputation did similar work over a mile and a quarter. After a ding-dong finish at the close of a mile and a quarter, Lineage beat First Lesson a length, and Robert the Bruce four lengths, in 2m 14s; and Gai, with a light weight up, defeated Three Star (Townsend) over six furlongs in 1m 18s.

Secret Service and Cordon Rouge were together at the close of seven furlongs, run in 1m 32s, and Narivo beat Flippant over nine in 2m 2s. Royal Rufus and Torone accounted for a mile and a quarter on the tan in 2m 18½s. Little and Canzone were too good for Agincourt, in a run over a mile and a quarter, which occupied 2m 14s, and Sir Alwynton made similar time over that distance; while Waltz and Lardner traversed a mile in 1m 47s, and Simon Frisco did a working gallop. At the end of a mile, well run in 1m 45s, The Fortune Hunter was half-a-length in front of Allaru. This pair each carried flat shoes. St. Carwyne went about a mile and a half at a solid pace, and made 1m 50s for the last eight furlongs. Westcourt and The Christian Brother covered a mile in 1m 46s, and Speedfast six furlongs in 1m 18s. Well Dressed slipped over seven furlongs in 1m 30½s. Tofua spurted, and a mile in 1m 47s went down to Football and Alasco. Ravello, however, ran that distance in 1m 45s, which was two seconds better than Lord Malt and Pink and Blue made. Golden Ale, with a good weight up, galloped six furlongs in 1m 19s, and nine furlongs in 2m 2½s was the best Plasticine and Onazer could do.

Kandos accounted for 10 furlongs in 2m 15s, and Sea Pink had no trouble in running eight in 1m 48½s. Gigandra was on the easy list, and Bhanavan beat Thoolomi over six furlongs in 1m 20s. The Mogul ran seven furlongs in 1m 32s, and Athenic carried McLachlan over six furlongs in 1m 16½s; while Kingsburgh stayed with Capelletti in a run over six furlongs, which occupied 1m 19½s. Giru went exceptionally well on the tan, where he ran a mile and a quarter in 2m 12s, and did it well. Lilyveil galloped around the tan (a few yards over a mile and a quarter), in 2m 20s; and working gallops were done on this rink by Uncle Sam and Limelight; while Hecate ran seven furlongs on it in 1m 33s; and Tim Doolan did some useful pacing.

After breakfast, Sister Satellite joined with Migandra and Agathon for five furlongs on the course proper, and The Welkin's daughter beat them cleverly in 1m 4s. Sister Satellite is trained by James Scobie, who left for Melbourne last night for the V.R.C. October Meeting on Saturday, but will return to Sydney in time for Sister Satellite's race—the Breeders' Plate—run on Monday.

At Victoria Park, Garlin had the use of the course proper, and with a good weight—probably his Epsom impost—in the saddle, he was kept well out, and accounted for a mile in 1m 44s, the watch showing that the first furlong occupied 13s, two furlongs were cast behind in 25s; three furlongs in 38s; half-mile in 51s; and five furlongs in 1m 4s; and he completed the trip in fine style, pulling up well. Other horses to work usefully at the Park were Barlow, Ileen Alwyne, and several youngsters, including Santa Sabina, War Tax, Comedia and Vicacre.

CRICKET.

OPENING OF THE SEASON.

In the history of Australian cricket no season has been entered upon with such gloomy prospects, both from the players' and spectators' standpoints, than the season of 1915-16, which will open on Saturday. The controlling bodies have abandoned premiership competitions and the interstate fixtures. The New South Wales Association was the first to move in this direction; South Australia followed, and then Victoria fell into line, but the last-named body, recognising the fact that all cricketers could not go into the fighting line, however much they might desire to do so, suggested that the interstate matches should be gone on with, and that the money accruing therefrom should go to patriotic funds. This was, however, turned down, and the players will now take the field with nothing to anticipate, except the benefit derivable from the physical exercise. There will be no individual promotions to be won, and no club honours to be achieved.

Many familiar figures will be absent from the playing grounds, and all the clubs will be weakened more or less. Death has removed the great Victor Trumper, and the war has claimed many prominent players. Amongst the public favourites who have enlisted are—R. J. A. Massie, D. E. P. Barbour, Dr. N. M. Gregg, and Dr. R. B. Minnett (University); C. Kelleway and Albert Cotter (Glebe); H. L. Collins and Dr. C. Tozer (Sydney); J. Randell (Middle Harbour); H. G. Pratten (North Sydney); J. S. Norton (Petersham), and J. B. Lane (Western Suburbs). Central Cumberland has lost the Rev. E. F. Waddy, who is now in England attached to the teaching staff at Eton.

In the absence of such fine exponents of the game, it cannot be expected that the high standard of district cricket will be maintained this season. But cricket is full of possibilities and surprises. Men have made their reputations in this game in an afternoon, and there is no reason why some of the younger players who will necessarily come forward this season should not at least leave behind them the promise of future excellence. They will take the field without emotion and the nervousness that overcomes the majority of debutantes, and for that reason they should bat more freely, and attempt many things with the ball that the strain of higher competition would restrict.

The following alterations in Saturday's draw are notified:—

First Grade: Balmain v Middle Harbour will play at North Sydney instead of Balmain.

Third Grade: Randwick have forfeited to Marrickville. Balmain v Western Suburbs will play at Marrickville instead of at Balmain.

CYCLING.

The amateur cycle racing at the North Sydney Friendly Societies' sports last Saturday produced good sport, and it is to be regretted that the N.S.W. Union is compelled to suspend open racing owing to the war. Scratchings were few, and some of the riders showed form exceptionally good for so early in the season. G. A. Halpin, the youthful Redfern rider, qualified for the finals of the other events from scratch, and rode both his heats in the fastest time of the day, his half mile heat being 5s faster than the time of the next best man. It is unfortunate for Halpin that there is so little prospect of good racing ahead to enable him to show his form against the rest of the amateur cracks. C. N. Hansen, who won the double, is a new rider, and was very liberally treated by the handicapper. None the less, he rode two very plucky races.

Entries close on Saturday for the New South Wales pacers' race, which is to be held on the Homebush course on October 9. The event is open to all riders who acted as pacers in the Dunlop interclub contest, with the exception of riders in the final.

Next Monday professionals will be catered for with a liberal programme of events at the Eight-hours Day sports, under the auspices of the League of Wheelmen.

The amateur cycling championship of the world was recently decided in America, and resulted in a win for H. Ohrt. The heats of the world's professional classic were won by Kramer, Lawson, and Kaiser, of America; Goullet, Grenda, M'Namara, and Spears, of Australia; two Italians in Verri and Moretti also qualified. The final will probably be won by Kramer or Goullet. The last-named rider is now leading Kramer by two points for the American championship.

The City Cycle Club will decided a 20 miles members' road championship over the Bunnerong course on Saturday, and the club's week-end run will be to Maroubra.

SAILING.

WHY SCRATCH BOATS SCORED.

KISMET'S LIGHT WEATHER VICTORY.

It is not often that the scratch boats account for their rivals as early as they did in the 18-footers race, under the joint auspices of the Flying Squadron and Sydney Club, on Saturday. Not only was it a day which called for the highest skill of the helmsmen, but one on which lightness of gear and the best sails played an equally important part. These were the main factors which put Kismet, Nimrod, and Australian ahead of the rest before reaching Shark Island, but there was another which made their task easier, and that was that the E to ENE breeze gave more windward work than is usually the case when the leading handicaps are given.

The real contest as between the backmarkers and their handicap rivals was decided on the long stretch from the start, coupled with the board or two which had to be made to windward to reach the New Light. The nearer the boats got to this object the more patchy the fickle breeze seemed to be, and it was here that the three boats named were able to turn to still better account the advantage which they in common with a few others gained by keeping up to windward and getting the best of the breeze as it came away from the eastern shore. Sunny South was the only one of the handicap boats to make any sort of a showing against the scratch boats, but, although she was 2m 14s ahead of Kismet at the Light, it was recognised that she had little or no chance of maintaining her lead, and she was soon overhauled.

Seldom has Kismet carried such a light crew as she did on Saturday, and it was Dunn's judgment in this respect, coupled with his skill and the smartness of his for'ard hands, which put her ahead of Nimrod and kept her there. Kismet's win was, of course, full of merit, but it was a pity that Australian did not get away with her at the start. In the light of what subsequently happened, it would at least have been a great battle between them. As for Nimrod, Duncan would have got more out of his boat had he sailed her a bit freer on the wind, a fact which was most noticeable on the beat to Taylor Bay. This would not, however, have enabled Nimrod to do more than finish second, as she did.

Although the figures are not yet final, it seems that there will be something between £80 and £90 to be divided between the late Mr. J. G. Carter's widow and Mr. G. S. Cronin, as a result of the opening race. The first prize of £5, won by Golding, was generously handed back to the fund, as also were the second and third prizes won respectively by Australian and Kismet.

FOOTBALL.

RUGBY LEAGUE GAME.

A RETROSPECT.

One need not give any lengthy review of the 1915 League football season, in order to show that it has just passed through a campaign which was entered upon under the most trying and discouraging circumstances. Admittedly the call of war did not attract the first-grade players as freely as those in the less-important sections of the 13-aside code. More recent developments at the Dardanelles have, however, thoroughly convinced many of these prominent players that their physical prowess and undoubted courage are wanted in the front line of the greatest game Australia's manhood has yet participated in. The big men of the game are now answering the call with a willingness that goes far to counterbalance their earlier indifference. At the opening of the season the war, while having no marked depression on the first-rank teams, nevertheless reflected itself unmistakably in the hearts of supporters of the game. Each successive Saturday as the season progressed witnessed a distinct falling off in attendance, while towards the close the "star" games only attracted crowds of between three and five thousand spectators. Financially, the season, judged, of course, by previous years' returns, was not a success. Still, the controlling body can reflect with satisfaction that they did much towards augmenting the different patriotic funds, besides providing an excellently equipped motor ambulance for use at the front.

From a purely football point of view the season was most satisfactory, as throughout its fluctuating periods the standard of play was consistently good. The premiership laurels fell to Balmain, after a fine record of successes. Their performances are too well known to need any dilating upon here. Sufficient is the fact that the team led by William Kelly came through a most exacting campaign with an unblemished record—a remarkable accomplishment, such as was never before known to followers of the Northern Union game in Sydney. The City Cup winners, Eastern Suburbs, fully deserved their second year's success in this competition, as they conclusively proved to be the cleverest and best conditioned side at the close of the year.

A gratifying feature of the season's football was the springing into prominence of such youthful exponents of the game as McGowen and McKellar, of Eastern Suburbs, Doerner, of the Glebe; Johnson, J. Craig, and Burnicle, of Balmain; and Oxley, of South Sydney. These men in more than one championship tussle demonstrated that they possess ability above the average, and with a little more experience will surely make names for themselves in the history of the code. The tendency in the grade clubs to encourage the development of youthful talent has been most marked, and if persevered with will go a long way towards bringing the standard of play back to that high water mark which was reached in 1910-11-12, but lost in the following years.

On reflection, the only real blot on the game during the season just concluded was the mediocre standard reached by the majority of referees. The retirement of Mr. T. McMahon from Sydney football early in the season was indeed a big loss to the game. His successors fell considerably below the excellent standard set by him, not only in matters pertaining to the laws of the game, but in general firmness of control.

ASSOCIATION.

The intrusion of local championship tournaments into the minor leagues naturally held up league fixtures, and, moreover, in the second division of the Club League an impasse was reached when Pyrmont Swimmers, who have won the league championship), Rozelle Fernleigh and Sunlight each attained a position which was fraught with the possibility of second division honours. Consequently, matches had to be arranged to assist in arriving at a solution, and, although the major leagues had closed down well within bounds, a late season in the minor leagues was inevitable.

Last Saturday, at the Royal Agricultural Ground, the two firstnamed met, and, as Pyrmont Swimmers won, a match with Sunlight is imperative. The game was stubbornly fought, each side displaying sterling form, but Cullen settled the issue with the only goal scored, in the first 45 minutes' play. A feature of the match was the sterling defence of Rozelle Fernleigh.

At the same convincing ground, an attempt was made to decide the State Junior championship, the occasion marking the third meeting of Balmain Juniors and Pyrmont. Again a draw (one all) resulted. Pyrmont were fortunate to equalise, scoring as they did within one minute of full time, but against that good fortune must be recorded the fact that Balmain Junior's goal was hardly legal, as Wallace fouled the ball before he shot, and the referee—who ably controlled the game—was not in a position to penalise the offender. Johnstone's goal was the result of a very smart piece of work. Having striven so hard to declare superiority (three drawn finals is a record) it would have been a graceful act to declare the contestants joint-holders of the honour, as the M.R.U. did with Glebe and University in 1901, but neighbourly rivalry has made the lads keen, and a fourth attempt will be made at Clyde Oval next Saturday.

Albert Park sustained their first defeat for the season in the replay of the Dockerby Challenge Cup final, as Melbourne Thistle garnered the honours with a 2-0 victory. Although the winners started with all the advantages winning the toss gave, the first half was scoreless, Barnett playing brilliantly in the losers' goal. The second half produced magnificent football, Traynor, Goodson, and Benn (the victors' halves) eventually proving the rock which split Albert Park's hopes. Harris and Benn scored, and the winners were led by Albert Raitt, who visited this State in 1914.

Amongst the latest batch of players to enlist was Jack Carey, who is generally admitted to have been the best Australian-born exponent the game has produced. He visited Queensland in 1898 with the State team, and during his career was the dominant player of the Volunteer, Glebe, and Pyrmont district clubs. Pyrmont Church (Club League) have made a big contribution to the ranks, but three of the club now being left, and Annandale, Y.M.C.A., and Pyrmont have been still further depleted by enlistments.

METROPOLITAN ASSOCIATION.

The final of the Charity Cup competition will be played on Saturday between Balmain Caledonian and Sydney. In the first round these clubs drew, but in the second round Balmain Caledonians won by 4 goals to 2. Saturday's match is exciting very great interest, and if Balmain team is successful the club will have gained all the honours of the season. So far it has won the First League competition, Dewar Cup championship, and the Reserve League competition.

The Newtown Club will tender a welcome home to Sergeant Payne, an old member of the club, who recently returned from the front, at the Christ Church Hall to-night.

SWIMMING.

The annual meeting of the Sydney Swimming Club will be held at the New South Wales Sports Club to-night.

At the Panama Exposition recently, H. J. Hebner, of Chicago, who won the 100 metres Olympic back-stroke championship, carried off the 100 yards back-stroke event, doing the distance in 1m 53 2-5s, which is 1-5s better than M. Weekesser's (Belgium) time when he established the world's record in 1910. The two other principal events were won by Duke Kahanamoku, the 50 yards in 24 1-5s, and the 220 yards in 2m 26 2-5s.

BASEBALL.

It is understood that four of the leading teams which played during the winter under the auspices of the New South Wales Baseball Association have entered the summer competition of the National Baseball League, in spite of the fact that the original organisation has decided also to run a summer programme. Entries for the League were to have closed last Saturday, but will now be accepted up to the end of this week, the opening of the season having been postponed till October 9.

Entries for the New South Wales Association's fixtures close to-morrow.

BOWLS.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

To-morrow night will practically, although not finally, decide some of the important problems of the government of the game. The annual meeting is an enlargement of the parliament of bowls, for, whereas each affiliated club has only one delegate at ordinary association meetings, the metropolitan clubs send one, two, or three representatives to the annual gathering, according to their club membership.

Mr. H. A. Scott's motion for an expression of opinion on a long or short pennant season will provoke an animated discussion. If the meeting avoids a definite affirmative or negative it will amount to an instruction to the pennant committee to arrange the season's programme in the form of a compromise. The opinion has already been expressed in this column that if raising the standard of bowls to at least a near approach to the Victorian level appeals to the meeting it will solidly declare in favour of a long pennant. In the past we have given the other side fully—the plea for an increased number of social games in order that the clubs shall not be arbitrarily divided into two sections, one consisting of the fortunate pennant players, and the other of the "outsiders," who have to take their chance of a game. We have also pointed out that bowls can be maintained at a satisfactory standard only by competitive games, and that whether the pennant be long or short exactly the same area of playing space is available—hence the number of men playing is regulated by the number of rinks available (not by the association programme), and if any rinks should be unused the weakness would be in club secretarial management.

We also believe that once the long pennant is regarded as an institution the secretaries will soon get into the swing of their duties, and arrange more matches for non-pennant players than they did in 1914-15. Probably, one-third of the players of any club will never rise to A form, and probably one-fourth will never be equal to B form—the impossible task is to make them realise it, and also to realise that it will not improve their position if they or their champions enforce a short pennant, in order to free the first-class players to engage in games with them. Some of the cracks would certainly go to the greens for the social games—others would not, and gradually it would be forced upon bowlers generally that for some reason the game was languishing. The standard would drop, and it would be found that reliance on social games, and the set-back to keen play, were undermining the sport. In the prolonged sweetness of social engagements, the game would die of inertia—matches that matter as against casual matches that don't matter, supply a tonic that is essential. Nor, can we believe that the 1914-15 prescription was too strong—the clubs had the finest season on record.

It would be to the point if, at the annual meeting, some reference were made to the Australian Council having rejected a proposal that a toucher that goes beyond the boundaries of a rink be "dead." The decision of the "High Court" was a mistake, and the bullet should be fired again.

The difficulty of dealing with the subject of green fees is to take action that will lead to a definite result. It would be easy, and tempting, to carry a motion suggesting an interclub discussion. This would leave the problem "in the air." Nothing but a referendum will finally decide it. If a referendum of each club is taken there should be nothing hazy about it. It should be in something of this form:—"It is proposed to abolish the existing custom of green fees. You are asked to vote for a continuance or for one of the following alternatives." Then would follow the alternatives, and to frame them will be some work. Even a referendum might leave things mixed, but nothing else offers the least hope.

It is not unlikely that some one may suggest that the pennant competitions, as well as the carnival, should be dropped, owing to the war. We have always urged the advisableness of declining to conduct the carnival, but there is no need to interfere with the local programme. Bowlers to their regret are not of an age—speaking of the vast majority—to go to the war. Bowls means something more than trying to win the pennant. It means an exercise that is necessary to health, and the mild competitive keenness given by playing for a flag stands only for a desire to get the best out of the game—this we are entitled to do. What the meeting might well do is to express such a definite opinion regarding trophies that any bowler in any club who wins a prize, and does not donate it for the benefit of a war fund, will be marked by all bowlers as guilty of an offence against honour. No prize should be in any form but a certificate of nominal value until the war ends.

President Spence will be president for 1915-16, and there will be no change of vice-presidents.

The spring weather conditions are already bringing about an improvement in the attendances at the greens, and the matches on Saturday showed that players are getting nicely into form. There will be a break in October and November for top-dressing, and the pennant games will then be entered upon. Whether Wonnona will be admitted as a metropolitan team will have to be reconsidered. The admission of the team in 1914-15 does not supply a sound argument; a concession is not a precedent that is binding. Chatswood will probably be somewhat weaker than for some years past. North Sydney will be a shade stronger. In the western district, Ashfield has gained a fine player in Yeo. Kuring-gai will doubtless see the wisdom of making W. Donaldson a skip. City, Randwick, Mosman, Parramatta, St. George, and Waverley are other clubs that are watching the form of their players in expectation of putting strong teams in the field.

A vote at Ashfield that may deprive the association of the services of J. Harrison is deplored by metropolitan bowlers generally. No delegate "on the floor of the house" is better appreciated for his clear-headed and vigorous work. He has made big sacrifices for Ashfield Club, and has been an ideal local "chief of staff" to President Spence. Had the president not been a member of the same club, Mr. Harrison would have held higher positions in the association. For many years he has been one of its pillars of strength, and some country club will doubtless be glad to get a delegate of such calibre. Ashfield has appointed him a "representative" at the annual meeting, and it is expected that he will warmly defend the long pennant system, which he introduced last year.

Mr. J. Carson, one of the foundation members of the Ashfield Club, has resigned. He occupied the presidential chair for several years, and although he left the district some years ago, he has continued on active membership with Ashfield until now. Mr. Carson said farewell to his old club-mates on Saturday, and in the tea hour adjournment Mr. Spence, president, on behalf of the members, handed to Mr. Carson a gold medal suitably inscribed, which indicated his long connection with the club. Miss Carson, who accompanied her father, was the recipient of a gold bangle.

AMATEUR SPORTSMEN'S FUND.

The chairman and directors of the New South Wales Sports Club entertained the executive of the Amateur Sportsmen's Fund, the hon. organiser, Mr. T. H. Eslick, and the lady stallholders and assistants connected with the recent Cafe Chantant bazaar, at the Town Hall yesterday afternoon, at Farmer's, when the tea-room was well filled with guests. The spokesmen of the occasion were Mr. E. S. Marks, who announced that the sum resulting from the bazaar was nearly £680, and Mr. James Taylor, who made a presentation to Mr. Eslick of a silver inkstand. Much gratification was expressed at the splendid financial result of the Cafe Chantant and fancy dress ball, which will go to swell the Amateur Sportsmen's Fund.

LAWN TENNIS.

NEWS FROM GOBERT.

It is seldom that news comes directly from any of the lawn tennis players engaged in the Great War. Too frequently the first intelligence of them appears in the casualty lists. It is, therefore, a welcome change to read a letter from A. H. Gobert, the French international representative, dealing as fully as can be permitted with his share in the conflict, as observer in the aviation department.

The letter, which is written to Mr. S. W. Merrihew, editor of "American Lawn Tennis," and published in that journal, was dated July 13. The following are some extracts:—"Still alive, and fit and well, my dear Merrihew. (I sincerely hope to be able to write this for months.) I have just received the June number, and, as it is pouring rain to-day, I have read it from A to Z. You can't imagine how pleased I feel when I read your paper; when I have under my eyes the real proof that there are men still living as before, still enjoying themselves, still playing tennis, and especially when I see in your paper names not unknown of one, as dear old Craig Biddle, as Dick (i.e., R. N. Williams), and so many others, I feel twice as much pleased. For 13 months I have never left this country, unknown entirely before of me, not seeing for 13 months a single friend, a real good one; no one of my family, nobody besides any chiefs. Well, all this together will explain to you easily why I feel pleased when I can talk, by the post naturally, with friends. For us letters have taken an importance, unknown before. As I told you in my last letter, I have entered in the aviation as observer. It has been for me quite a change of life. First of all, it is awfully interesting work, by all means. The danger is less than most people think, not to be compared with anything I had done before. Secondly, we are free when the work is finished. Sometimes it is never finished, but when it is raining, for instance, we have our liberty. Thirdly, life is more agreeable because we are well lodged. I have a good bed, which is very appreciable, you may think. I have often enough slept on straw to appreciate a good pillow, smooth blanket, and white sheets. Fourthly, we are in contact with high-placed officers, and know many more things than is usual when you hardly know what happens two miles from you. We see many more things than on dear old earth. This makes our work far more interesting."

Gobert then tells of how he found in the garden of a villa "a sweet, hard court, surrounded by big trees; a little river next to it, where we go bathing and swimming after the game." Balls and rackets had been sent to them, and Gobert and others usually had a few sets every day, which he described as a splendid distraction, leaving them fit and well."

A postscript to the letter adds: "I had, three days ago, a pretty hard combat and narrow escape with a German flying machine. It lasted half an hour, with an interruption, and we exchanged 200 to 300 shots at 8000 feet high. My engine was touched in five places, but we came back safe home."

It seems strange to treat an adventure like that in a brief postscript while going so fully into matters relating to lawn tennis. Evidently, as indicated in an earlier portion of his letter, it was a relief to the writer to create an atmosphere of sport for his mind. Wholly admirable, too, is the absence of repining that he is not competing in the game of which he is one of the leaders, and the genuine expression of delight, free from envy, that his American friends are able to enjoy their sport as formerly.

Like her rival Mrs. Wightman, Mrs. T. C. Bundy (formerly Miss May Sutton) has made her reappearance in competition this season for the first time since her marriage about three years ago. She chose the Southern Californian championship tournament for her re-entry into the game, which was marked by complete success, for the ladies' singles championship was won by her in her old convincing style, no opponent in five rounds winning more than three games in a set. The national ex-champion, Miss Mary Brown, was beaten 6-1, 6-2, by Mrs. Bundy.

It is no novelty for California to produce a youth of great ability, else greater surprise might be manifested in the performance of Roland Roberts, aged 17, who won the men's singles championship at the same tournament. Roberts has been regarded as likely to take a higher place for the last year or two, as he was about the best player in a club that has for its object the fostering of youthful talent. In the final, the winner beat Bundy, who won the first two sets, but could do no more. The latter was suffering from badly blistered feet.

"Fifi" Germot, the famous French lawn tennis international, has been wounded at Lingekopf (according to the "Sporting Life"). While on sentry duty he was struck in the hand by a fragment of shell, and the wound is of a nasty nature. With Max Decugis as his partner, Germot has represented France in Davis Cup contests, and last year beat Roper Barrett and T. M. Mavrogordato in the second round by 3 sets to 1.

ILLAWARRA SUBURBS ASSOCIATION.

The annual tournament, of which the proceeds are to be given to the Australian Wounded Soldiers' Fund, was continued on Saturday, with the following results:—

On Thornleigh Court.—Men's singles handicap (open): E. Turner (owe 30) beat D. Chernick (scr.), 6-2, 4-6, 6-3. Ladies' singles championship: Mrs. Wallace beat Mrs. Heath, 1-6, 8-6, 8-6. Mixed Doubles' Handicap: Mrs. Smithson-M. Smithson (owe 15) beat Miss Swanton-D. Chernick (scr.), 6-0, 6-2.

On St. George Court.—Men's (B grade) singles' handicap: W. Riddell (owe 15.2) beat C. Fripp (owe 4), 6-1, 6-5. Men's singles' handicap (open): C. Kable (owe 15) beat V. Street (owe 15), 6-1, 6-2. Men's doubles handicap (open): D. Fripp-C. Fripp (owe 4) beat A. Robertson-H. Herbert (owe 15.2), 6-0, 6-1.

On Hillcrest Court.—Men's doubles championship: W. Woodhouse-D. Ryan beat L. Garside-G. Allen, 7-5, 8-6; Ladies' singles championship: Miss O'Sullivan beat Miss Jury, 3-6, 6-3, 8-6.

On Apsley Park Court.—Men's singles handicap (open): D. Fripp (owe 15) beat C. C. Dawson (owe 40), 6-0, 6-2. Men's (B grade) singles championship: L. Turner beat S. Cook, 6-2, 6-1.

WOLLONGONG TOURNAMENT.

The South Coast Tennis Association's tournament, in aid of the Australian Wounded Soldiers' Fund, played at Wollongong on Wednesday and Saturday last week, resulted as follows:—

Gentlemen's Singles Championship.—Semi-final: Harrigan v Colquhoun, 50-39; Sheppard v Wiseman, 50-40. Gentlemen's Doubles Championship.—Semi-final: Caldwell and Harrigan v Wells and Parsons, 50-30; Henry and Sheppard v Wigley and Wiseman, 40-44.

Mixed Doubles Handicap.—Third round: Wiseman and Mrs. Lasce received forfeit; Harrigan and Miss Johnson (5) v Westwood and Miss Benjamin (10), 50-47; Sheppard and Miss Carey (30) v Frost and Miss E. Chapman (15), 50-41; Parsons and Mrs. Wiseman received forfeit.

Gentlemen's Doubles Handicap.—Second round: Gray and Westwood received forfeit; McClymont and Staff (15) v Dyer and Frost (30), 60-55.

Gentlemen's Singles Handicap.—Reickelman (scr.) received forfeit; McClymont (15) v Phillips (5), 60-59; Winley (5) v McClymont (15), 60-50.

Ladies' Singles Handicap.—Miss M. Campbell (15) v Miss R. Campbell (scr.), 40-27.

POLO AND THE WAR.

INTERNATIONAL PLAYER MENTIONED.

Another distinguished international polo player—Captain J. Hardress Lloyd—has been mentioned in despatches for gallant conduct at the western front. Captain Lloyd captained the England team against America in 1911, when America won the first two matches. In the second, Captain Lloyd played through six periods with only two ponies. He has several times represented England against Ireland, and was a member of the famous Roehampton team, which won the Champion Cup in 1905-6-9, and the Ranelagh Cup in 1904-5-6-7.

The death of Mr. A. M. White, of Bolivia Station, removes another great polo player from the ranks of the popular clubmen who have foregathered at Kensington for the Countess of Dudley Cup carnivals. The Glen Innes Club has sustained a loss that, apart from the old combination view point, a personality has gone that did so much to maintain local interest in the game, and to please the spectators abroad.

Mr. "Archie" White represented the Glen Innes Club at the Lady Denman Carnival, at Muswellbrook in 1914, when he played No. 2 against Tamarsy. Later on at the Glen Innes Carnival he played No. 3, against Mindaroo, Moree, and Muswellbrook. The game against Muswellbrook was a splendid exposition of polo, and Glen Innes "No. 3" was the best of the four throughout. Coming to Sydney Mr. White continued in the No. 3 position, and his last game was that in which his brother, Major J. F. White, led the country team against Sydney B.

ATHLETICS.

TRACK SEASON OPENS.

The track season was officially opened by the New South Wales Amateur Athletic Association on Saturday, when the affiliated clubs held a combined meeting at the Sports Ground. Everything was favourable for fast times being established, and some of the sprinters showed speed. R. F. Cripps, the Newington College boy, to whom reference was made in this column last week, was credited with 10 seconds from the 4½ yards mark in the Olympic Club's 100 yards event. J. Crump won the East Sydney Club's 100 yards in 10 1-10s from 5 yards, and also carried off the 220 yards with a handicap of 13 yards. In the latter event, however, he occupied 23 2-5s, whereas Cripps on the previous Saturday won the Great Public Schools' championship, a scratch event, over the same distance in 23 4-5s.

Two open events were arranged for Saturday, but the 120 yards was so poorly supported that it was decided to abandon it. The mile handicap, however, attracted a big field, the race going to L. J. Fathers, of the Redfern Harriers, who started from 90 yards. It will be some time before the Sports Ground will be available for athletes on Saturday afternoons, as the ground has been secured for baseball competitions.

On Saturday there will be a great gathering of athletes at the Liverpool Showgrounds, when the sports carnival for members of the Expeditionary Forces will be held, the full programme for which was published in the "Herald" last Wednesday.

A combined sports meeting will be held at the Sports Ground to-night, when the following events will be decided:—

Eastern Suburbs A.A.C.: 75 yards, one lap, 880 yards, and broad jump.
Redfern Harriers: 100 yards, one mile, and 16lb shot putt.
Botany Harriers: 75 yards, 880 yards, and three standing jumps.
North Sydney A.A.C.: 100 yards, 220 yards, running hop, step, and jump.
Hurlstone Park Harriers: 100 yards, 220 yards, 880 yards, running hop, step, and jump, 12lb shot putt.
Walkers' and Field Games Club: 880 yards handicap walk.

The Eight-Hour Day events should produce some close finishes, and it is difficult to solve some of the problems set by the handicappers. In the 120 yards handicap, the following should win their heats:—W. Hunt (7½ yards), J. Crump (6½ yards), J. M. Flattery (7 yards), H. A. Baker (7 yards), R. F. Cripps (5¾ yards); and the final appears likely to be won by Cripps or Hunt. The open 440 yards final may bring out C. Jackson, J. H. Wicks, and J. J. Walsh. F. Role, R. H. Laycock, and T. Coles seem to have the best chance in the 120 yards hurdle race; and E. E. Austen (19s), W. Sweeting (60s), and R. F. Stokes (15s) in the one mile walk. The mile run should be decided by R. Piggott, G. D. Dark, H. Etherton, and J. W. Cain.

At the Athletic Association of the Preparatory Schools' meeting held recently at the Sydney Grammar School grounds, the championship was won by the Church of England P.S., with 66½ points, the runners up being Chatswood P. S., with 64½ points.

At a general meeting of the Walkers and Field Games' Club, held at the Sports Club, Mr. E. E. Austen was elected hon. secretary, Mr. R. L. Bonham vice-captain, and Mr. F. Delaney, hon. auditor.

The Olympic Club will not be in the field at the Sports Ground to-night, owing to the club's general meeting at the Sports Club, Hunter-street. A new hon. secretary and delegate to the A.A.A. is to be elected.

ROWING.

HANNAN'S DEFEAT.

The defeat of J. Hannan at the hands of W. Webb at Wanganui on Friday last may mark a new era in the sculling world, as Charles Towns is anxious to meet the winner in his old rival, Webb.

It is understood that Towns can find backing to the extent of £200 on this side to meet Webb either on the Parramatta or on the Wanganui, the man giving way as to course to receive £50 expenses.

Webb is not likely to leave New Zealand to come to Sydney to row, so it seems that if Towns wants a second match with his conqueror, he will have to go over to the Dominion, and settle the matter of superiority there. It may be found that Webb will object to the amount of expenses claimed, but he and Towns would draw one of the largest gates ever known on the Wanganui, especially after their great race of 1907, when Webb won after a tremendous race for a mile and a quarter, and only after two fouls had occurred up to the distance named. All aquatic men are looking forward to a second match, and as it is understood that Towns is willing to row Webb in New Zealand, the race may be arranged.

On Saturday evening last the Leichhardt Rowing Club entertained some of their soldier members at a smoke concert in the Petersham Town Hall. Mr. C. Watts, late returned wounded from Gallipoli, was present, and was given a very hearty reception. The Leichhardt Club's honour roll has now reached just on 50 members, the latest names thereon being L. Elliott, F. Johnson, H. Bush, J. Lewis, L. Thompson, G. Quinlan, H. Hauenstein, and H. Thomas.

On Saturday afternoon a club four-oared race was held to mark the occasion of the visit of a number of the club's members at present in camp with the Expeditionary Forces to the shed. The race resulted:—1st beat: C. Kayser, G. Burton, F. Bingham, A. Soutar (bow), beat A. Clifford, S. Byrne, N. Riedel, T. King (bow), by 3ft. 2nd beat: J. Cogle, E. Rencuf, L. Davies, E. Bunyan (bow), beat C. Campbell, G. Nicholls, F. Wheeler, W. Robinson (bow) by a quarter of a length. In the final Kayser's crew rowed a dead heat with Cogle's, which will necessitate a re-row. J. Hoskins (scratch), who is in camp with the Field Artillery at National Park, obtained leave of absence for the purpose, defeated T. H. King (12s) in the semi-final of the club's skiff handicap. This leaves J. Hoskins (scr) and S. Byrne (4s) in the final to be rowed off as soon as the former can arrange his leave. R. W. Thompson who was hon. secretary of the club when he enlisted in October last, and was since wounded at Gallipoli, has cabled from England to the effect that he is now at King George's Hospital and convalescent.

BOXING.

Eddie McGoorty has won three successive contests in as many weeks, and, as not one of them has lasted half a dozen rounds, it can be assumed that the qualities that seemed so lamentably absent when he met Darcy have not declined after all. Those who took the M'Goorty-Darcy match most seriously, and asserted that the Australian was a better man than M'Goorty had ever been, are now turning to the explanation that it was making weight that weakened M'Goorty and caused his downfall. Prior to his contest with Darcy, there were reasons to doubt that M'Goorty was a legitimate middleweight, but the fact that he made the poundage on the occasion, supplemented by the knowledge that he only weighed 11st 9½lb in costume, at catchweights, against Reeve, suggests that he can strip as a middleweight and be strong. He was by no means fine-drawn last Saturday. A return match with Darcy will be an interesting event, and, in view of M'Goorty's recent work, even the stanchest admirers of the Australian champion will hardly expect their man to win so easily as he did before.

Herb M'Coy will defend his title of lightweight champion of Australia against Tommy Uren on Saturday next, at the Sydney Stadium. The contestants are under forfeit of £100 not to exceed 9st 9lb ringside.

Les Darcy will meet Fred Dyer on Saturday week, and after that Jimmy Clabby—once more in Australia—will be his next opponent.

Jack Read will have an opportunity of retrieving his recent poor showing against McCoy when he meets Fernand Quendreux the French-Brisbane. From all accounts the Frenchman was having the worst of his contest against Red Watson when the latter was disqualified last Saturday, but the American was half a stone heavier, which was a big handicap.

POULTRY.

Questions relating to fancy or commercial poultry-keeping, diseases, etc., should be addressed to "Ancona," "Herald" Office.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Alpha.—The fowls you inquire about have appeared at several competitions, but have never been included among the first 20 or 25 pens.

New Arrival.—You can advertise for a poultry farm as a going concern, or may find the sort of place you require in the business columns of to-day's issue. In last Saturday's "Herald" there were quite a number of apparently liberal offers in this line.

S. Coast.—You do not say whether they are fowls, ducks, or turkeys, young or old. If you give particulars, and how fed, remedial measures will be suggested. All fowls when ill look dark about the head.

F.E.S.—Half a teaspoonful of Epsom salts dissolved in warm water given to each fowl may effect a cure.

Inquirer.—There are two quite distinct types of Langshans. One, the show type, is tall and reachy, like British Game, and poor layers. The other variety is short in leg, and softer in feather, and includes some most prolific strains, known as Croads, from the name of the first importer of the breed in England.

Table Poultry.—There are a number of pure breeds which will give you better results as table poultry than crosses. There are the Sussex, in several colours, Langshans, Indian Game, Rhode Island Reds, Plymouth Rocks, and others. When the varieties of fowls were few, crossing was more resorted to than at present.

Mrs. S. Redshaw, Roseville, reports what may be accepted as a week's record from six hens. All but one yielded an egg each day—that one gave six—41 for the week. For the four winter months, besides rearing several broods of chickens, the six birds gave their owner 462 eggs. They are Langshans.

Those interested in the Hawkesbury College egg-laying tests, by writing to the Under-Secretary, Department of Agriculture, can have a copy of the 1914-15 competitions post free.

The best news for poultry farmers at the end of last week was a further drop in mill offals—bran to 1s, pollard to 1s 3d, while the limit price for wheat is 6s 6d. Still lower rates may be expected.

During the past week or two there has been a rush by poultry farmers to stock up and prepare for a great increase in the season's output of young stock. Incubators, including some of the largest sizes, are being regularly sent to the suburbs, while those desirous of being earlier in the market are purchasing newly-hatched chickens at prices up to as high as 1s 3d each, ducklings going several pence higher. Although the past season was a good one for turkey rearing, they are now at extreme rates, and will be dearer before Christmas.

The current rate for eggs, two or three pence per dozen above the usual September rate, is already being felt by the cold store proprietors. So far, the quantities presented fall far short of the numbers for September of last year. In last season over 507,000 dozen were stored, but it is considered that this year's quantities will not reach two-thirds of this amount.

The past year has been one of prosperity, as far as the Parramatta and District Poultry, Pigeon, and Canary Club is concerned. At the late annual meeting the report stated that there was a membership of over 100, while the number of exhibits at the annual show was a record. The society raised £58 for Australia Day, and closed the year's business with a credit of over £50. The meeting voted an honorarium to the hon. secretary, Mr. W. Hemsworth, and to Mr. C. M. Miller, hon. treasurer, who were, with the president, Mr. H. E. Huddrill, re-elected for the ensuing year.

NORFOLK ISLAND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—While the children of the British Empire are coming forward nobly from all parts of the world to help the motherland, may I say a few words in reference to the little band of people who occupy the greater part of Norfolk Island, that bright gem of the Pacific. Their history is well known. Most of them were born on Norfolk Island; some of the old Pitcairners are still living. Their loyalty is unsurpassed. Fifteen years ago they sent their little handful of men to South Africa. They played the game in the firing line. One received a captaincy. He is now at the front with more of his fellow-islanders, some of whom have been wounded. One (John Evans), a direct descendant of Evans, of the "Bounty," has fallen. They have also given in money their little offering. Their forefathers broke the law; much has been said for and against their action. But when Britain discovered their children, 20 years afterwards, on a lonely island, she took them, like a forgiving parent, under her care. Now, after a century has passed, their descendants are striking a blow for the land they have been taught to love. Once again the poet's prophecy is fulfilled—

> For though we wandered far, and seemed
> To break the ancient tether,
> Time yet shall bring the Motherland
> And far-flung child together.

THE KENNEL.

NOTES.

Mrs. Hope, of Neutral Bay, reports that she has disposed of most of the field spaniels in her Lindley Kennels. A promising dog puppy by Lindley Bonnie Brilliant and the bitch Bonnie Lassie has been secured by a fancier in Western Australia. A lady in Manly has purchased one of the field spaniel bitches.

Mr. R. L. Baker has now a kennel of about ten dogs of different breeds, most of which he purchased at the auction sale in connection with the patriotic show.

The annual dinner to interstate visitors, given by the Bull Dog Club of New South Wales, was held on Friday at the Imperial Hotel, Wynyard-square. Dr. F. H. Furnival presided, and about 50 fanciers attended. The visitors included Mrs. Wildman (Queensland), Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Potter (South Australia), Mr. J. Wardle (Victoria), and Mr. H. M. Somer (Royal Agricultural Society). The toasts were: "The King," "The Bull Dog Club of New South Wales," "The Board of Control," "Ladies," "Press," and "Judges." Mr. Potter, referring to the board of control, said that its good work was exemplified by the interstate representation of high-class dogs, and by bringing into touch fanciers in the different States. A musical programme was successfully carried out.

Mrs. Colls, hon. secretary of the King Edward Home for Dogs, Dowling-street, Waterloo, writes that stray dogs are collected from the Sydney streets. If hopelessly diseased they are painlessly destroyed. Other cases receive veterinary treatment. Healthy dogs are retained and sold to the public. The committee has expended considerable sums for the accommodation of the dogs at the home, which is supported by voluntary subscriptions.

A Campsie fancier has obtained from Mr. James Grant, of Bowral, a well-bred 10 months old Australian terrier dog, which has a rich tan and a hard coat. A lady at Ashfield has secured from Mr. Grant a Sydney silky terrier bitch, by champion Kinvara Standard.

Mr. Lee's imported bulldog, Silver Chief (imp.), after winning at the recent Queensland National Show, died in his box in the train on his way home.

Printed copies of correspondence between the Fox-terrier Club of New South Wales and the Kennel Club of New South Wales have been circulated amongst the members and also sent to prominent fanciers in other States. The subject of the letters relates to the "debarring some of the F.T.C. members from exhibiting at any show which the K.C. of New South Wales may in future hold under its club rules." Commenting on the correspondence, the "Australasian" says that, "reading between the lines gives the impression that the senior club has been dictatorial in the past, and is taking rather too much upon itself."

BULLDOG CLUB SHOW.

Last Saturday's show of the Bulldog Club of New South Wales can challenge comparison in entries and quality with any show of the breed held in the State. The interstate competition was gratifying to the club, and the visitors were rewarded by securing the two grand open championships against the leading Sydney dogs, and other wins.

The veteran Tommy Burns, from Adelaide, had a great run, and secured the Australasian-bred, open No. 2 (over 45lb), the grand open, and the veteran classes. A typical dark brindle bitch, Failsworth Pride (imp.), from Perth (W.A.), won in limit, open No. 4 (over 35lb), and grand open. Mrs. A. D. Wildman came from Brisbane, and won a couple of puppy classes with White Monarch. Local exhibitors had a bad time in the principal competitions. Caractacus did best in the dog section, and Khaki Lubra was runner-up to the champion bitch.

Details of the awards in some of the classes follow:—

Dogs.—Special puppy and puppy: A. D. Wildman's (Q.) White Monarch, 1; J. H. Potter's (S.A.) Broadway Knight, 2. Novice: F. Seymour's Cecil Slipstone, 1; Mrs. M. O'Brien's (Maitland) Maseru (imp.), 2. Australasian-bred: J. Arthur's gd ch Tommy Burns, 1; R. Walker's Sir Patrick, 2; Mrs. Tell's Lord Bobs, 3. Limit: Mrs. L. Wilkins's Caractacus (imp.), 1; J. Arthur's (S.A.) The Maluka, 2; C. Pullen's Texas Jack, 3. Open, No. 1 (45lb and under): Sir Patrick, 1; Rich and Wilkins's Don Centurion (imp.), 2; Maseru (imp.), 3. Open, No. 2 (over 45lb): Tommy Burns, 1; Caractacus, 2; Hol Briton (Rich and Wilkins's), 3. Grand open: Tommy Burns, 1; Caractacus, 2; Sir Patrick, 3.

Bitches.—Special puppy: J. Lobb's Margate Dodo, 1; J. H. Potter's (S.A.) Broadway Nance, 2; M'William and Baker's Scylla, 3. Puppy: R. Geddes's Denver Queen, 1; H. Jagelman's Peggy Pride, 2; H. Barraclough's Fresno Jane, 3. Novice owners and novice bitch: Mrs. Hughes's Ilford Lady Liege, 1; Denver Queen, 2; Fresno Jane, 3. Australasian-bred: F. M'Williams's Khaki Lubra, 1; H. G. Lamb's Melrah Stripes, 2; J. A. Cussen's (W.A.) Lodden Queen, 3. Limit: J. A. Cussen's (W.A.) Failsworth Pride (imp.), 1; Melrah Stripes, 2; Lodden Queen, 3. Open, No. 3 (35lb and under): A. D. Wildman's Gnome Douglas, 1; R. Comley's Cordelia, 2. Open (over 35lb): Failsworth Pride, 1; Khaki Lubra, 2; Melrah Stripes, 3. Grand open: Same placings as previous class.

HIS MEXICAN WIFE.

CHAPTER XV.—Continued.

George Boddington did not reply at once. He was staring at his father with unbelieving eyes. In the horror of the accusation levelled at him he was forgetting that he had been tempted to steal, that he had nearly taken those old-fashioned rings—telling his conscience that one day they would be his.

"Answer me!" Sir John cried, his voice rising with rage and shame. "The man waiting downstairs is a private detective. I don't want to have to bring him up to question my son—though he knows—God help us."

And Sir John Boddington, too, overwhelmed by his sense of mistrust, had temporarily forgotten his own shame.

"Who accuses me?" He put his back to the bedroom door, his hand on the handle.

His father noticed the movement. And then it occurred to him that his son had been standing all the time with his back to the door. He remembered that he had kept him waiting a long time. His eyes surveyed the room. Lying on the floor between the armchair on which he had been sitting and the table, he saw something white lying. George saw it at the same moment. They both stooped to pick it up; the younger man was the quickest. But his father saw what it was, a tiny scrap of lace and linen—perfumed.

"Who's in that room?"

George moistened his lips. "That's my business."

"You're hiding a woman there."

"Well, perhaps I am," he replied doggedly. "If you'd been alone it might not have mattered, but I saw another man with you. She's a lady I met coming back from the races."

Sir John laughed harshly. "It's no use lying to me now. The woman you're hiding in that room is your confederate, the woman who was with you in my study last night. Do you know her name? Out with it. Do you know who she is? Out with it quickly, the truth, everything you know, everything you've done, or, by God, I won't be responsible for my actions."

Sir John had lost mental balance. Fear combined with shame swept him off his feet. He had no longer control of his feelings. The woman from the past had lit that flame in his breast which now burst into a furious conflagration. Had Seth Amery and Joe Laronde been there then they would have seen a touch of the old J.B., the primitive man they had known in New Mexico.

"I'll answer you, father, then—I think you'd better go." Unconsciously George had dropped his voice until he scarcely spoke above a whisper. "I went to your safe. It's no use going into explanations or trying to make excuses now. You accused me of stealing—well, it's not true. If anyone saw me——" He stopped.

"The woman in that room?" Sir John Boddington was fingering the bedroom door.

George did not hesitate now. "I've told you."

Sir John took a step forward. "Let me see her."

His son blocked the way. It's nothing about your jewels. I tell you there was no one in the study last night. I was alone. No one went near the safe but me. That's all I've got to say, father."

The door of the sitting-room had opened so quietly that Slippery Sam was standing close to the two men before either of them saw him.

"Forgive me for intruding," he said quietly. "But I could hear your voices on the landing below. I could hear a great deal of what you were saying, Sir John. I know you don't want this little affair to become public property. Now, if Mr. Boddington will be so good as to tell us the name of the young lady who I understand is in the adjoining room——"

George Boddington stepped forward. "I don't know who you are," he said between his teeth. "I don't want to. I didn't ask you into my rooms, but I do ask you to get out. Quickly, do you ——"

Hesketh shrugged his shoulders. He did not move. Though he was not a big man, yet he could tackle this middle-weight jockey pretty easily.

"I am here at your father's request. I shall only leave at his request."

There was a heavy hunting-crop on the wall. Without another word young George took it down, then he opened the door.

"Get out!" he said quietly.

As he spoke he heard the key turn in the lock of the bedroom door.

CHAPTER XVI.

Mr. Samuel Hesketh realised that George Boddington meant business. There was something in his face and something in his voice which warned him that mere weight and size—so much avoirdupois of bone and muscle—might not mean victory if it came to a tussle with young Boddington. He looked anxiously at Sir John, and edged closer to him.

"I should advise you not to add assault to your other crime," he said quickly. "I haven't forced my way to your rooms; I'm here at your father's request, is that not so, Sir John?"

Sir John Boddington hurriedly acquiesced. He was beginning to feel unnerved.

And George was beginning to lose his temper. He felt unable to defend himself, and his father had good reason for suspecting him. While he hesitated, the hunting-crop gripped fiercely in his hand, glaring with eyes grown bloodshot at Samuel Hesketh, the bedroom door opened, and Miriam Guryado entered the room.

Samuel Hesketh smiled like a man who is tempted to say, "I told you so." George nearly sent the lash of his whip across Slippery Sam's face; but he glanced at his father, and throwing the whip on to the table, he crossed to his side.

For Sir John had collapsed. He was staring at Miriam with a mixture of loathing and horror.

"Father, what's the matter?" Sir John waved him away. "Think what you like of me, but this lady's perfectly innocent. . . . What I said is true; I met her coming back from the races—we happened to talk—grew interested in one another. . . . Oh, I don't suppose you'll understand, because people don't do that sort of thing in Little Pennington. They do in the world outside, the world that matters."

Sir John recovered himself. He gave a brutally sarcastic laugh.

As George turned to speak again, Miriam interrupted him. "Don't trouble to try and explain, Mr. Boddington," she said in a voice he scarcely recognised, it was so full of venom and bitterness. "Sir John and I have met before. He knows me better than you do. As for this gentleman—" withering Slippery Sam with a glance, looking from the toes of his ungainly boots to the top of his shiny head.

"We, too, have met before, Miss Guryado," Hesketh interrupted blandly. "And I think we also know one another—now."

Miriam turned her back on him. And even at that moment George realised what a wonderfully expressive as well as beautiful back she possessed. It expressed her contempt for Slippery Sam more eloquently than words could have done.

George could not resist a little gurgle of joy.

Every moment his admiration for this strange woman, who had so mysteriously entered his life, increased. He knew he was fascinated, but was quite unaware how completely he had fallen under her spell. Her personality was so intense, so vivid.

Sir John Boddington took a few unsteady steps to Miriam's side. "What am I to understand?—that my son is in ignorance of the real object of your visit to Crowhurst Hall?"

Miriam Guryado nodded. She was smiling at Sir John in a maddening way. The latter turned to his son.

"Then you know nothing about this woman, except that you picked her up in a railway train?"

It was Slippery Sam's turn to smile now. George flushed angrily. "Her name is Miss Guryado, and she's my guest, father, so I shall be obliged if you will treat her with respect."

"Bah!" Sir John turned impatiently.

"I'm no longer a boy," George continued. "My home is no longer under your roof—these are my rooms for the present——" He broke off suddenly, and laughed—"Though the brokers may return at any moment. If you can't treat my guests with respect, I must ask you to go."

Miriam laid her hand for an instant on George's shoulder. "Thanks," she said. "But don't say anything more, you don't quite understand." She looked at Sir John with a challenge in her eyes. "You ought to be proud of him."

Boddington crossed the room, looked into the bedroom, then shut the door. "You must have overheard our conversation just now," he said to Miriam. "I accused my son of being a thief."

"You accused me this morning."

"Apparently with very good reason," Hesketh ejaculated. He found keeping silent a great strain. "We know that Mr. George Boddington was not alone in the study last night after Sir John went to bed."

George turned on him in a flash. "That's a lie! I was alone except for a few minutes: if it had not been for this lady——"

Samuel Hesketh spread out his hands with a gesture of satisfaction. "Ah, we have it at last, Sir John. Your son is not the real criminal, but—your guest."

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

THE MARGARINE MENACE.

Although the interests of dairying under ordinary conditions render the reforms embodied in the Dairy Bill now before Parliament a necessity, at the present time it is impossible to view the measure in a true perspective unless the menace of margarine competition is kept in mind. It is, undoubtedly, the most serious problem confronting the industry, and one that has to be overcome. As there is now an extraordinary endeavour on the part of some reactionaries to discount the margarine peril, it is well worth while considering some opinions among many that have been expressed by authorities in the dairying world of recent years. A couple of years ago there appeared a unanimous agreement in co-operative circles as to the margarine danger. It is interesting to note that our report of the co-operative dairy factories' managers and secretaries' conference, held in 1913, stated:—

Mr. Sweaney moved a motion, the terms of which expressed alarm at the increase in the manufacture and sale of margarine on the London market, which had been so instrumental in lowering the price of Australian butter during the present season, and that support be given to the steps being taken towards having legislation passed to prohibit colouring of margarine. . . .

Again, in its annual review of the London butter market for the season 1913-4, the New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Co., Ltd., stated:—

"One of the principal drawbacks to the successful marketing here of Australian is the large proportion of indifferent and inferior quality exported. . . . Much has been written at various times regarding the increasing competition encountered here in the case of butter of inferior quality from margarine, a factor which should provide further stimulus to the maintenance of a high standard of quality."

In co-operative circles leading men, including Mr. Meares, have strongly directed attention to the serious nature of the margarine problem. Mr. Osborne, a leader of the co-operative movement in Victoria, returned from England convinced that our one hope of fighting margarine was in the improvement of our butter. The feeling then was accurately expressed at an annual reunion at Kyogle in 1913 by Mr. D. Mahony, a director of the Kyogle Co-operative Dairy Company, when he said: "Suppliers should awaken to the fact that the days of second-class butter were numbered, as margarine was gradually taking its place. The last reports from London showed that second-class butter was being rejected, the Health officers declaring margarine to be more nutritious and wholesome."

About twelve months ago, in an interview published in the "Herald," Mr. G. Sutherland Thomson, ex-Government Dairy Expert in Queensland, who is recognised as one of the leading dairy authorities in the world, and who possesses an intimate first-hand knowledge of both the London market and Australian conditions, said:—

"Every pound of inferior butter that is shipped from Australia to Great Britain is a gain for margarine. Margarine is being welcomed by the British public, and Australia need not look for British legislation that will interfere with its legitimate manufacture and sale. . . . It is certainly clear that prompt measures should be taken by Australia to give the British consumer the choice produce which the States of Australia are capable of providing."

Now we are told that the margarine menace is a myth, "a red herring drawn over the trail." Yet within the last two years the margarine problem has intensified. If it was a danger then it has grown infinitely more serious since, inasmuch as circumstances have strengthened its position. Under normal conditions we had to recognise the fact, unpalatable from a dairying standpoint, that the margarine trade was growing at a rapid pace in the old land, where we depend upon selling about half the butter we produce. Its good average quality and cheap price were commending margarine unquestionably to more and more householders, who in the ordinary way would be consumers, more or less, of our butter. The position had been reached when it was foolish to ignore the fact that good margarine was a better article of food than poor class butter. The undeniable truth was that we were forced to the recognition that improvement of our butter generally was a necessity to meet the expanding consumption of margarine, which could be sold for about half the price of butter. This position was serious enough to demand the careful thought of all concerned. It has been brought to a head by the war. During the last twelvemonths the margarine trade has strengthened its hold in Great Britain enormously. The increasing cost of living and the scarcity and dearness of butter were two factors that helped the trade. There are thousands of consumers who must have adopted margarine as a regular part of their food supplies during the last year who formerly were regular butter eaters. Those at the head of this great and wealthy trade are shrewd enough to take every step to produce an article of good quality and a regular grade, and it will be a tremendous task later on to attract any large proportion of that lost custom back again to the butter trade. We cannot hope to meet the margarine people on an even footing as regards prices. Our only chance is to offer a more attractive and nutritious article and to do that means a considerable improvement in the general quality of our butter. The only means of securing the improvement is by compulsion and a strict supervision of the whole industry. The alternative is to delude ourselves with the notion that we may get the British Government to interfere with the great margarine trade in our interests; a trade that possesses the formidable combination of concerning enormous vested interests on the one hand, and as well a legitimate place in the domestic considerations of thousands and thousands of consumers. Even from our standpoint it is not reasonable to expect any Government to obstruct the production of what is admittedly a cheap and wholesome food. We have to depend upon open competition and therefore must be well equipped, by offering a better article.

LAND FOR SOLDIERS.

Dr. Richard Arthur, M.L.A., writes:—This question of land for returned soldiers requires to be grappled with at once. I am not in a position to speak about the possibilities in wheat growing west of Wyalong and elsewhere. It may be that men who are accustomed to farming may gladly welcome the opportunity of taking up selections in these districts. But I have in mind both those who have had no previous experience and those who by reason of physical disablement, are therefore unfitted for the strenuous physical demands of wheat farming. I have discovered that lately quite a number of persons have been taking up small blocks of Crown lands at French's Forest, to the north of Middle Harbour, and are making a living on from three to five acres by growing fruit (especially passionfruit) and vegetables, and by keeping poultry. Those who have gone there are enthusiastic about the district, and look forward with confidence to the future. At least 50 additional settlers could be placed there on Crown lands, so the primary cost would be nil. It would be, therefore, possible to build a small home for each settler, with fowl run, a pig sty, and fence the blocks, at a cost of about £150. An acre or two of the land might be broken up by the plough, so that spade cultivation might be more easily started, and the Government fruit and vegetable experts might give advice as to the best use to which the land could be put, and supply young trees, seeds, and fertilisers. If a man got a start in this way he should, with the aid of his pension, and without very hard work, be able to make a comfortable and pleasant living, and in the course of time get married if he wishes to do so.

I am very strongly of the opinion that these brave men who have returned from the Dardanelles maimed, and therefore handicapped in the social struggle, should not be denied the common human happiness of family life. Rather is it most desirable and necessary for the community that these men should hand on to future generations the qualities of which we are so rightfully proud. With a home of his own, with fruit and vegetables and eggs, not only for the use of the family, but for sale, and with possibly a cow or pigs, the support of a wife and children would be quite practicable. I have spoken to Mr. J. C. Watson on this proposal, and he was favourably impressed by it, and has promised to visit the district. In the meantime the metropolitan surveyor is ascertaining what amount of land is available and the character of it. I should be glad to be informed if there are any other similar areas of Crown lands in the vicinity of Sydney.

SUPPLY OF TRUCKS.

Mr. W. E. Abbott (Wingen) writes:—I have read the statement by the Railway authorities on this subject in your issue of the 25th instant, and now wish to say a few words with your permission. I have supplied the information asked for as to the refusal of trucks for fat stock for the Sydney market, and am wondering why it could not have been got from the well-managed Railway Department. The comparison by the authorities of truckings of wool at this date last year and this year is amusing to those who know that at this date last year the German cruisers were off our ports, and graziers were directed to hold their wool on the station. Also, I would like to know if "invoicing trucks" is the same thing as supplying them at the points where they are wanted. It seems to me easy to "invoice," if that were all that is wanted. If, as the authorities say, "there is no congestion in the working of the Railway Department," the conclusion I am driven to is that the officials were quietly punishing me by putting me to as much inconvenience as possible for daring to publish through the press at the end of last year the fact that by alloting all the stock trucks to the big meat export companies they had put producers in the position that they must sell to the companies at their price, and on their terms, or not at all, thus giving these big meat companies a buying monopoly; also for having dared to publish through the press the fact that they had held up my hay at the Wingen Station for 53 days, the said hay having been sold to feed starving sheep in Riverina a few months back before rain fell there, the only reason given being that "the Railway Department would not supply hay trucks for Albury," to which station my hay was consigned. If this be so, all I can say is that I am not yet repentant, but am waiting with considerable amusement to see how the authorities will wriggle off one horn of this dilemma without becoming impaled on the other.

A BATLOW ORCHARD.

PIONEER PROPERTY SOLD.

It is reported that Mr. O. C. Barberie, who is looked upon as the pioneer orchardist of the well-known Batlow district, has sold 50 acres of his improved orchard to a Sydney architect for the sum of £10,000. The orchard is in full bearing.

ROYAL SHOW.

RINGS FOR PIGEONS.

The poultry committee of the Royal Agricultural Society has decided to adopt recognised rings for pigeons in the young bird classes. This is being done at the request of the associations, and intending exhibitors should take note that it will be necessary for them to obtain these rings, and for the young birds to wear them at the Royal Show in April next. The rings adopted will be a ring recognised in the homer classes, and C.O.A., and M.C.A. for other birds. It is also notified that young birds must compete only in their own classes.

SUPER LAND TAX.

Mr. Francis Bacon writes:—I was very much astonished to see that the Government are bringing forward their Super-tax on Land Bill this session. In spite of one of the worst seasons on record, in which the farmers and landowners suffered unprecedented losses, the area in all the States of Australia under cultivation has been largely increased this year, and owing to the timely and bounteous rains there is every prospect of a record harvest being reached. The farmers in New South Wales, besides having a very bad crop, were penalised by their wheat being seized by the Government at 5/ a bushel, which if they had been left free to sell would probably have realised from 6/ to 8/, and thus help them through the very bad time. Notwithstanding all this, they patriotically went to work with extreme difficulty owing to the drought and the enormous cost of forage, and managed to sow a largely increased area.

It is expected there will be extreme difficulty in harvesting the crop, and it is quite certain that it will take the Railway Department almost the whole of the time from this harvest to the next to bring the crop to the seaboard. I see by the Melbourne papers that freights are 95/ per ton. That means at least 2/6 a bushel, so that the price is not likely to be more than 3/6 or 4/ at the port. Upwards of 100,000 men have now enlisted and gone to the front, and yet the Government brings in this bill, which either forces us to largely increase the area under crop or else be penalised by paying a tax on the land, which would make it unprofitable to hold. It is utterly untrue that the landowners are unwilling to sell their land. I myself with others bought a large estate near Inverell 7½ years ago of some 30,000 acres. We subdivided it, and it is now occupied by 20 settlers, a large area of which is cultivated. If the Government really wants land in districts where there is a certain rainfall, and where people can do fairly well, I say that there is plenty of land available for purchase at reasonable prices; but the lesson they are learing at Woodlands, near Dandaloo, will show them the impolicy of putting returned soldiers or other men without much capital on those regions of uncertain rainfall. Wheat farming to be profitable must be conducted on a fairly large scale, and with plenty of horses or machinery. It is no poor man's game. But I think I am voicing the opinion of nearly every man in the country who knows the circumstances that it is highly improper and unfair to bring forward this bill, which is almost confiscation at the present time. We are all working hard to keep the Commonwealth going. Our sons are at the front, and many of them have now passed away, and it will take us all we can do to repair the losses of the past disastrous season and make enough this year to pay the excessive taxation of the States and the demands of the Commonwealth for taxes to prosecute the war and to carry on many of their undertakings, which might, like this Act, be postponed till better times.

GRAFTON EXPERIMENT FARM.

VALUE OF THE SILO.

In a report dealing with the Grafton Experiment Farm, in our issue of the 7th inst., we stated: "It is significant that the silo is not used now, and the manager does not regard the building of them necessary on the coast, as either pasture or green feed can be grown so easily." The farm manager, Mr. Haywood, points out that his remarks to our reporter were evidently misunderstood, as the impression he desired to give was that the silo is not to be given more than its relative importance in a scheme of dairy-farming, which should also embrace the more important factors of improvement of pastures, laying down of introduced grasses, legumes, etc. The improvement of pastures should precede the erection of silos, and the practice should be to supplement the pastures with fodder crops, such as sorghum, maize, and lucerne, wheat, Indian cane, etc. Under normal conditions on most coastal farms such crops can be grown for nine months of the year, and are thus available for the tenant farmers, many of whom have not the necessary length of tenure or sufficient capital to allow of the erection of a silo. But the value of the silo as an insurance against periods of drought is not to be underrated, and the farm silo is actually being drawn on at the present, and some 50 head of young stud Ayrshires are being fed daily on chaffed sorghum silage. With one exception, the silo has been used continuously during the last eight years. Silage is very useful in providing the balanced ration for dairy stock.

WE have received instructions from the Directors, to sell as a going concern the business of the Golden Palace, Limited, Beach and Dolphin streets, COOGEE.

TENDERS are invited and will be received at the undermentioned address up to 12 o'clock noon on WEDNESDAY, the 6th OCTOBER, 1915, for the purchase of the following ASSETS, viz.:—

LOT 1.—PROPERTY, valued at .... on which there is an existing Mortgage of £5000, which could be transferred to any purchaser.	£10,000 0 0
LOT 2.—PLANT, comprising Soda Fountain, Biograph, Generator, Dynamo, Catering requisites, Furniture, and a quantity of Picture Show Apparatus, etc.	667 17 5
LOT 3.—FIXTURES AND FITTINGS	170 11 9
LOT 4.—ELECTRIC LIGHT INSTALLATION...	179 17 0
LOT 5.—STOCK-IN-TRADE, valued at	75 0 0
LOT 6.—WINE LICENSE, GOODWILL	800 0 0
	£11,893 6 2

This is a first-class opportunity to acquire a very valuable property, in addition to a good business, as a going concern. There is no more popular suburb than Coogee, or suitable site for a seaside Refreshment Palace than the water-frontage block owned by the Golden Palace, Limited, at the corner of Beach and Dolphin streets. It is on the water's edge, and commands an uninterrupted view of the ocean.

The increase in population and the rapid building operations are unsurpassed in any of Sydney's suburbs, whilst the property values are the best criterion of the financial soundness of the district.

A Lease has already been granted for the Main Hall for three years at a good rental, which would be transferred to the purchaser.

All information may be obtained on the premises or from our offices.

Tenders may be submitted for the purchase of the above or for a Lease for a term to be arranged, and must be upon our printed forms, accompanied by a Deposit of Ten Per Cent.

The highest or any Tender not necessarily accepted.

LAW REPORT.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly and a jury of four.)

CLAIM ON A RESUMPTION.

Boyle v Sydney Municipal Council.

Mr. Wade, K.C., and Mr. Pitt, instructed by Messrs. Monro King, Dowd, and Barry, appeared for the plaintiffs; and Dr. Brissenden, instructed by Mr. Perry S. Dawson, City Solicitor (of Messrs. Dawson, Waldron, and Glover), for the defendants. This was an action brought by John Boyle and James Boyle, administrators of the estate of Kate Boyle (deceased), against the Municipal Council of Sydney, to have assessed by the jury the value of a leasehold property at Pyrmont resumed by the defendants for the purpose of widening the Pyrmont Bridge-road.

The jury assessed the value of the property at £555.

A CHIMPANZEE'S ESCAPADE.

Russell v Fox.

Mr. O'Reilly and Mr. Crawford, instructed by Mr. F. S. Moore, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Boyce, and Mr. Lloyd, instructed by Messrs. Deane and Deane, for the defendant. This was an action brought by John Henry Russell, bread carter and administrator of the estate of his late wife, Emily Russell, against Thomas Fox, to recover under the Compensation to Relatives Act for the loss of deceased, whose death was caused, as he alleged, by the negligence and want of care on the part of the defendant in the keeping of a chimpanzee. Plaintiff's case was that on December 6 last, between 7 and 8 p.m., the animal which was known as Casey, escaped from defendant's residence at Meek's-road, Marrickville, close to where plaintiff also resided with his wife and seven children. The chimpanzee, which was at once pursued by defendant and his wife, one armed with an iron bar, and the other with hot water, took refuge on the roof of a house. The police also joined in the pursuit, and Mrs. Russell was one among a large number of people who were in the thoroughfare. Suddenly a cry was raised that the chimpanzee was about to make an attack, and Mrs. Russell sustained such a severe shock that while running away she fell upon the road and subsequently died. A policeman fired at the animal and disabled it sufficiently to permit defendant and his wife to secure it and remove it to their home. Before the occurrence Mrs. Russell was in excellent health, and plaintiff attributed her death to the shock caused by the fear of an attack from the chimpanzee. He sued on his own behalf and for his children, for the loss of the wife and mother, and claimed £1000. In cross-examination, the plaintiff admitted that deceased was of stout build, and somewhat excitable.

Defendant pleaded not guilty.

IN DIVORCE.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon.)

DECREES ABSOLUTE.

In the following suits his Honor pronounced absolute the decrees nisi granted by the Court:—Ernest Robert Long v Isabella Fletcher Long, Victoria Elizabeth Baird v William Harold Baird, Zillah Kennedy v Charles Kennedy, Sydney John Dernelley v Alice Dernelley, Ethel Mary Elizabeth Doyle v William Francis Doyle, and Henry Hixson Gover v Harriett Isobel Gover.

BEGG v BEGG.

His Honor granted a decree nisi, returnable in six months, in the part-heard suit brought by John Begg against Selina Mary Begg. Messrs. Kershaw, Matthews, and Lane appeared for the petitioner.

O'CONNELL v O'CONNELL.

In the part-heard suit Annie O'Connell v Edmond O'Connell his Honor granted a decree nisi, returnable in six months. Mr. Perry (instructed by Mr. Thomas Arkins) appeared for the petitioner.

JACKSON v JACKSON.

James Loftus Jackson petitioned for a divorce from Elizabeth Maud Jackson (formerly Wilson) on the ground of her misconduct with Peter Herbert, who was joined as co-respondent. The parties were married on November 8, 1900, at Newcastle, according to the rites of the Presbyterian Church. Mr. Robert W. Fraser appeared for the petitioner. There was no appearance for the respondent or the co-respondent. His Honor granted a decree nisi, returnable in six months.

HUGHES v HUGHES.

Bert Hughes petitioned for a divorce from Marjorie Hughes on the ground of her refusal to render conjugal rights. His Honor reserved his decision, pending the production of the marriage certificate. Mr. Robert W. Fraser appeared for the petitioner.

ATHOLWOOD v ATHOLWOOD.

Ethel Ruby Atholwood proceeded against James Brown Atholwood for the recovery of £67 2s 6d, alleged to be due on an order for permanent alimony and maintenance made in November, 1908. Mr. McKean (instructed by Mr. Joseph J. Jagelman) appeared for the petitioner. His Honor issued a warrant of attachment, which, however, is to lie in the office until such time as the respondent fails to meet the order for £2 a week, together with £1 a week in reduction of the arrears owing.

COMMERCIAL CAUSES COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring.)

CLAIM UNDER A WHEAT CONTRACT.

THE WHEAT ACQUISITION ACT.

Great Western Milling Company, Ltd., v Delaney.

Mr. Kelynack, instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell, appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Broomfield and Mr. P. Halse Rogers, instructed by Messrs. Perkins, Stevenson, and Co., for the defendant. This was an action brought by the plaintiff company against Albert Edward Delaney to recover the sum of £150 paid by plaintiffs to the defendant under a contract made between them on the 12th October, 1914, and claimed to be repayable to them under the following circumstances as stated by Mr. Kelynack. On May 16, 1914, a contract was entered into whereby Messrs. Pike Brothers, of Coolamon, sold to Delaney, of Melbourne, 6000 sacks of New South Wales wheat, season 1914-15, at 3s 8½d per bushel, delivery to be by trucks at Darling Harbour or Darling Island, at the rate of 2000 sacks each in January, February, and March; terms, net cash. That contract was entered into through Messrs. Mulholland and Co., brokers, of Sydney. On October 12, 1914, an assignment of the benefit of the contract was made by defendant to plaintiffs. This transaction was carried out by Mr. Harold Cropper, of Messrs. Cropper, Lind, and Co., brokers, who handed the assignment to the plaintiffs. Subsequently the plaintiffs paid Cropper £150 under the contract, and it was duly handed over by the broker to defendant. The case turned upon section 8 of the Wheat Acquisition Act of 1914, sub-section 1 of which provided that "every contract made in the State of New South Wales prior to the passing of this Act, so far as it relates to the sale of New South Wales 1914-15 wheat, to be delivered in the said State, is hereby declared to be, and to have been, void, and of no effect, so far as such contract has not been completed by delivery." That sub-section, counsel said, applied to the first contract which was made in Sydney by Mulholland. Then, sub-section 2 of the same section provided, "any transaction or contract with respect to any wheat which is the subject matter of any contract or part of a contract which is hereby declared to be void, shall also be void and of no effect, and any money paid in respect of any contract hereby made void or of any such transaction shall be repaid." The plaintiffs had paid £150 in respect of the original contract, which, under sub-section 2, had been declared void; and plaintiffs, counsel contended, were entitled to get their money back in respect of the assignment of that contract, by reason of the provisions of sub-section 2. None of the wheat was delivered.

His Honor said he had come to the conclusion that both contracts were made in Melbourne, and, therefore, did not fall within section 8 of the Wheat Acquisition Act. That being so, the verdict must be for defendant.

The various unions interested were represented by Messrs. M. J. Connington, Stuart Robertson, Turner Corbitt, Coote, Gillette, Carbines, Dengate, and Worrall.

The case stands part heard.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Docker.)

LOSS OF A RACING MARE.

Miller v Sheehy.

Judgment was delivered in the case in which Alfred James Miller, of Gordon-street, Mascot, claimed £200 from Thomas Sheehy, managing overseer of the Rosebery Park Estate, for the loss of the racing pony La Jaconda, which, it was alleged, had been caused by the wrongful act of the defendant.

The plaintiff's case was that on August 1 last his father and brother were each leading a racing pony, one of which was La Jaconda, on the Rosebery Park Estate. Two other ponies came on to the estate, and they each tried to catch one. While so doing, the defendant, it was alleged, struck La Jaconda, which broke away and galloped off to the stable, on entering which it collided with something, and sustained injuries, from which it subsequently died.

The defendant's version of the affair was that the plaintiff, while holding La Jaconda, tried to rescue the two ponies, which he (defendant) was seeking to impound for straying on the estate, with the result that La Jaconda broke away and galloped off. He denied having struck the pony.

His Honor said the conflicting evidence between the two sets of witnesses did not result from imperfect observation or defective recollection; the complications arose from wilful and deliberate perjury on one side or the other, which, to his mind, was the solution of the contradictory evidence.

Plaintiff was non-suited.

Mr. Parker, for Mr. E. R. Abigail, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Leslie Gannon for the defendant.

(Before Judge Backhouse.)

SALE OF DARLING POINT PROPERTY.

Brodie and Co. v Bateman.

William Alfred Brodie and Benjamin Dreenup Brodie, trading as "Brodie and Co.," auctioneers, of 105 Pitt-street, Sydney, proceeded against John Bateman, hotel-keeper, of 432 George-street, Sydney, for the recovery of £87 10s, alleged to be the commission due to plaintiffs by the defendant under an agreement.

Mr. Monahan, instructed by Mr. W. D. Schrader, appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. H. E. Manning, instructed by Messrs. Read and Read, for the defendant.

The defendant pleaded never indebted, and that the property was given to plaintiffs to sell, subject to his tenant giving up his option of purchase, which option was not relinquished.

His Honor found a verdict for the defendant.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Murray and Juries.)

Mr. Herbert Harris, Crown Prosecutor.

SENTENCE DEFERRED.

Charles Seymour, 28, pleaded guilty to a charge of feloniously receiving 37½ yards of serge, the property of Robert Reid and Company, Ltd., at Sydney, on August 2. Mr. J. W. Abigail, who appeared for Seymour, asked that he be allowed out as a first offender, but his Honor said that he could not legally see his way to accede to the request. Seymour was bound over in recognisances to come up for sentence if called upon.

THEFT ON NEWCASTLE BOAT.

Samuel Lawrence, 40, and Charles Tallar, 31, were found guilty of stealing £2 from the person of John Charles Burgess, on board the steamer Newcastle, when on the high seas, on September 17. Lawrence, against whom there were several previous convictions, was sentenced to three years' hard labour in Bathurst Gaol, and Tallar to 12 months' imprisonment with hard labour in Goulburn Gaol.

CONVICTED OF RECEIVING.

Frederick Joseph Robinson, 36, was convicted on a charge of receiving 80lb of lead, 21lb of pewter, and 3lb of brass, the property of Edward Machin, at Alexandria, on August 14, and was remanded for sentence.

ARMY SUPPLIES.

ALLEGED CONSPIRACY.

OFFICERS AND CONTRACTOR CHARGED.

In the High Court, sitting in criminal jurisdiction, yesterday, the hearing was continued, before Mr. Justice Isaacs and a jury of 12, of the charge preferred against Arthur Kidman, Major Frederick William Page, Major Arthur George O'Donnell, and Sergeant Edward Leslie, of having conspired to defraud the Commonwealth of large sums of money, by procuring that the Government should pay excessive prices for the supply of goods for the Commonwealth armed forces.

Several tenders in the handwriting of the defendants were put in by Mr. Rolin, but exception was taken to one of them in the name of A. James, by Mr. Lamb, K.C. (for Kidman), as there was no suggestion that the tender had in any way been carried out, because James' tender was rejected. Therefore, it had nothing to do with the charge. Whether people did or did not put in tenders in other people's names—

His Honor: I hope not: you don't say you defend that?

Mr. Lamb: I am not called upon to do so. We have quite enough to do without that. This has nothing whatever to do with the question which we set out to try—whether there was a conspiracy between these officers and Mr. Kidman, by which, as I understand the Crown alleges, the defendants were attempting to defraud the Government.

Mr. Rolin: The Crown's case is that these tenders came before the Tender Board, and that the handwriting of the tenders struck the board as being singular. The defendants Page and O'Donnell thereupon made some inquiries, and Kidman afterwards admitted that all these tenders were his own. Part of the story could not be cut out from the rest of the story.

His Honor said he would admit the document, but would prefer not to give his reason then.

A series of documents dealing with shipments of goods by the steamer Berrima was tendered, his Honor remarking that whatever evidence had so far been given did not incriminate any of the defendants, except Kidman.

The case remains part heard.

LAND VALUATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your correspondent, Mr. J. K. Harrison, raises difficulties which are more imaginary than real. There is no suggestion "to fix values of land for the future." All valuations are based upon market conditions at the time of valuation. The idea of a Government valuation of all lands is to establish one standard as opposed to the conflicting values now made by numerous taxing authorities. The difficulties suggested by Mr. Harrison already exist, and are made much more complex and confusing by the fact that many different authorities may be valuing from different points of view. The banks and financial institutions who advance upon the security of land values have to face the same kind of difficulties which Mr. Harrison sets up against a system of Government valuations. No valuator, if sane, would base his value upon the rent-producing power at the moment, but would be guided by an experience extending over a reasonable term. One booming harvest would not determine land value. The probable average yield over a term would be considered. It would be quite easy to follow Mr. Harrison's reasoning until it might be argued that there is no recognised value of land, which would be absurd. The fact is that men are continually dealing in land values, borrowing and lending upon them, and assessing their estates upon such values. The information employed in these transactions is available to a Government valuator, who has generally gained his experience in commercial occupation. The point is that no greater difficulty will face the Government assessor in seeking to establish a uniform valuation for the whole State, than now faces half a dozen different authorities, in doing the same thing. All the conditions mentioned by Mr. Harrison now exist, and have to be overcome by the present rating authorities. They will still exist to be overcome by the one rating authority. The advantage will be that, instead of paying rates and charges on half a dozen valuations, the land-owner will have one assessment upon which to estimate his taxable liabilities.

I am, etc.,

ALLEGED ENEMY TRADE.

SHIPMENT OF SAUSAGE CASINGS.

In the summons division of the Water Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Love, S.M., Franz Zavier Hundsdorfer, Otto Gemeinhardt, George Doereng, Max Riescke, and James Gardner were proceeded against, at the instance of Customs-officer Donohoe, with having attempted to trade with the enemy, on or about September 16, 1914, at Sydney, by shipping sausage casings by the steamer Houtmann for the benefit of Schaub and Co., carrying on business at Hamburg, Germany. Mr. Flannery, instructed by the Commonwealth Crown Solicitor, appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Milner Stephen, instructed by Messrs. Hughes and Hughes, for all the defendants except Doereng, for whom Mr. L. Gannon appeared.

The Crown case having been concluded, Mr. Stephen submitted that no case had been made out against Riescke and Gardner. The magistrate agreed, and both these defendants were discharged.

The defendant, George Doereng, stated that he was a German by birth, but was a naturalised British subject since 1904. Before being employed by this firm he advanced to the capital of the business £200, for which he received interest. He looked upon it as a sort of guarantee that he would be employed by the firm. His only position in the firm was that of accountant, for which he received a salary of £5 per week.

The case was adjourned till to-day.

PRISONERS' AID ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL MEETING.

His Excellency the Governor, Sir Gerald Strickland, presided at the annual meeting of the Prisoners' Aid Association held on Monday in the Town Hall vestibule.

In the fourteenth annual report, which was read by the president, Mr. W. Robson, M.L.C., the council of the association pointed out that the granting of assistance to the wives and families of prisoners, which was commenced two years ago, had met with marked success. In several instances employment was found for the wives. Applications during the year were received from 473 prisoners, of whom 435 were men and 38 women. At the end of the previous year there were 32 applications that had not been finally dealt with, so that the total under consideration for the year numbered 505. Of these, 191 were from first offenders, 75 from those who had been convicted on two occasions, and 239 from prisoners who may be regarded as old offenders, as they had had three or more convictions recorded against them. Included in the latter were 12 inebriates, some of whom had been in and out of gaol on numerous occasions. As in previous years, the council gave careful consideration to each application. The fact of an applicant being an old offender did not debar him from assistance, if it was shown from the report of the gaol authorities that he had exhibited signs of reformation, or expressed what seemed to be a desire to amend his life.

His Excellency, in moving the adoption of the report, said the work of the association, apart from other considerations, deserved to be considered in connection with its bearing on the war. It would seem that in New South Wales crime had decreased since the commencement of the war. Still, this should not lessen their appreciation of the care the association bestowed upon the wives and dependents of men who had paid the penalty of their offences against the law. That the association was right in helping prisoners who had served their sentences all who desired their reformation would admit.

Mr. Justice Harvey moved, and Mr. Justice Pring seconded, that Mr. B. H. Chapman be elected president, and that Messrs. K. W. Street, H. M. Stephen, A. R. J. Watt, and V. P. H. Rogers (all members of the Bar) be added as new members to the council.

Mr. Justice Harvey said he had the authority of all his brothers on the Supreme Court Bench to state that the association was one which commended itself to their Honors as a valuable adjunct to the administration of justice.

Mr. Justice Pring said it was a great relief to him as a Judge to know that there was such an association to look after discharged prisoners.

TEMPERANCE AND RECRUITING.

It is earnestly to be hoped that the discussion on the effect of excessive drinking on the health and efficiency of our troops will not be allowed to end without producing some practical result. The present discussion was initiated by an interjector at the meeting of the Universal Service League in the Town Hall, but the subject has for a long time been present to the mind of everyone who knows anything of the city of Sydney and of the conditions of camp life. Such people must know that recruits are subject to great and constant temptations; that every night many of them are made drunk, and that their breach of discipline has in many cases led to their infection by some foul disease, which would never have been contracted had they remained with their self-control unimpaired. To admit these facts is not to libel our troops, or to say that they are less well-conducted or endowed with less self-control than their fellow-citizens. To attempt to hide the facts by posing as a champion of the honour of our soldiers is to use a method of controversy which has a recognised place in party discussions, but will not be used by men who know that an evil exists, and are seeking for a means to put it right. It would be as foolish to generalise about the sobriety of soldiers as about the conduct of merchants or professional men. The expeditionary forces are made up of representatives of every type of character, distinguished from their fellow-citizens only by their willingness to sacrifice themselves for their country. But it would be equally foolish to deny that they are subject to special temptations. Many of them are new to city life and to intercourse with so many companions as are found in a camp. All of them are the heroes of the hour, and the welcome guests of anyone who wishes to show his goodwill to the defenders of his country. If goodwill were always accompanied by forethought, this sentiment would be entirely creditable, and might do a great deal of good. But in Australia, where the treating habit still exists, and where deference to rules, either of health or of morals, is treated as a social defect, it does a great deal of harm. Soldiers are induced to drink by some alleged patriot, either because he is genuinely anxious to express his admiration, or because he wishes to be seen in martial company. When this act of hospitality has been performed, each soldier very often thinks it necessary to show his own good-fellowship and his own contempt of orthodox rules. The result may be seen by anyone late at night in the streets, at the railway station, or at the quays. No one blames the soldiers, many of whom are mere boys, and who are liable to be punished. But every man with eyes and a heart must blame the people who escape punishment, the fools who take part in the treating, the publicans who serve men who are not sober, and the Ministers and legislators who in all these months have done nothing to lessen temptation and opportunity.

We have mentioned one defence which has been put up by the advocates of things as they are. It has been said that discrimination, or indeed any legislation, would be an insult to the soldiers whom it was designed to protect. Another argument equally futile is that the temperance party intends to make use of the war to carry through legislation which would be defeated in time of peace. The politicians who make use of this argument will never understand that in war time every proposal must be tested on its merits. If a plan can cure an admitted evil it should be adopted, even if it originated in the brain of the Emperor William himself. Temperance advocates will very likely draw a moral from the measures adopted in Russia, in France, and in Great Britain to check the national consumption of alcohol during the war. When we are considering measures necessary to increase the efficiency of this State, they will naturally compare the amount spent on liquor with the money appropriated towards education. They will be answered by those general considerations which have been advanced by some of our correspondents. The present problem is to devise a temporary expedient to meet a special case. In the eyes of State Ministers, no doubt, the problem presents this disadvantage, that it is peculiarly within their jurisdiction. It is almost the only aspect of the war on which, in their official capacity, they can do practical work. In his efforts to promote universal service Mr. Holman speaks as a private citizen. As a recruiting agent we must assume that he is carrying out the wishes of the Federal Government. In the regulation of the liquor traffic Mr. Holman would be acting within his own province. Yet neither he nor his colleagues have done anything. Their inaction is the more surprising because the House of Assembly, following the example of Victoria, has already passed a resolution in favour of the earlier closing of hotels. Something might, no doubt, be accomplished if publicans were forbidden to serve soldiers except within certain hours, a restriction which might be opposed by the Federal Government, with the approval of the trade. But the real problem of the regulation of hours is for the State Ministry. It is for them to say whether New South Wales is to have the distinction of having done nothing to check the sale of liquor. It is for them to say whether the opening of hotels at six and their closing at eleven is necessary except for the sale of liquor to men who do not need it. A rational change of hours would no doubt cost the Ministry some very useful support. But it would have the approval of a majority in Parliament, and would be a more valuable contribution to the success of our arms than many recruiting addresses.

BASIS OF CONFIDENCE.

The cables tell us that the success of the Allies on the western front has been well received on the London Stock Exchange. On the local Exchanges, though there is no great increase in business, holders of all securities feel in better heart, and are less ready sellers. Investors are liable to look at these matters through somewhat different spectacles from those generally used by the public at large. They know that military success is an essential to the speedy termination of the war. But they, or, at least, the better informed of them, look behind mere military success to the factors that tend to make such success possible. They are apt to consider in a closer way than most other sections of the public the way that the finances of the various belligerents are standing the strain, as they realise that the monetary situation is all important, that a great war cannot be conducted without a vast outlay of capital, and that the task of providing the necessary money in a conflict so widespread as the present is one that exceeds all past experiences. When they hear, therefore, that the Allies have, in spite of strenuous opposition, succeeded in placing a substantial loan in the United States, while making great provision out of their internal resources, they see that the position from our point of view is both healthy and encouraging. Sir George Paish, a recognised authority, recently pointed out that Great Britain had during the first year of war succeeded in exporting goods to the value of £347,000,000, and so, although her imports reached the unprecedented total of £678,000,000, due, largely, to the heavy shipments of munitions from America, the adverse trade balance did not exceed £331,000,000. A good deal of this balance was settled by the disposal abroad of securities, and by exports of gold. In normal years Great Britain invests at home £200,000,000 in new houses, factories, etc. Since the war broke out in a large measure this kind of investment has ceased to be made. Great Britain in normal times finds some hundreds of millions sterling per annum for foreign investments. These, too, have been materially reduced, if we exclude the assistance that she has given to her Allies. Sir George Paish goes so far as to assert that all the available evidence shows that Great Britain, after a full twelve months of war, is just as wealthy as she was before the war began, and that she has met the full cost of the war out of the money she would otherwise have saved, out of extra savings and out of increased income. She is really about £400,000,000 less well off than she would have been but for the war, but is no poorer than she was before the war. This may be an optimistic view, but it is the view of a man who is so highly thought of in London that his services were secured by the British Government immediately war broke out, to give the Treasury financial and economic advice.

Now, what is the position of our chief enemy? For a long time Germany has in a financial sense been organised with a view to war. The public credit of the people of the Fatherland has been mobilised and militarised very much in the same way as the German railways, the German postal and telegraph departments, and German factories. Every bank in the country was placed under a sort of tutorship of the Reichsbank, and they were made to so carry on their business that they could at any moment sustain and finance any military offensive which the Imperial Government desired to carry out. The whole basis of the scheme was promptitude of action. They hoped to take their enemies unawares. They hoped that their scheme of finance would be sufficiently strong to enable them to carry on without the aid of foreign capital as long as need be. But the essence of the scheme was that it was not to be a permanent arrangement, but merely something to serve the immediate purpose. How has this worked out? A Swiss banker, writing recently on the subject, says that this war organisation of finance has enabled the Imperial Government to preserve among the German masses an unbounded confidence in the issue of the war, but he considered that this could not alter the ultimate result, which could be nothing less than national bankruptcy, which would inevitably occur as soon as the Imperial war loan fund was called upon to effectively reimburse in cash the great mass of paper money, which represented merely fictitious capital. The organisation, perfect as it was in the early stages of the war, is now showing signs of wearing out. Prices are advancing in a way for which there is no parallel in any of the Allied countries, and despite the fact that the Imperial Government is taking the most strenuous steps to increase its gold reserves, the position is becoming more and more acute. This is well recognised in those neutral countries in which financiers can look at these matters in anything like a detached way.

DISABLED.

STEAMER YEDDO DRIFTING.

EUCLA RETURNS.

AN UNSUCCESSFUL SEARCH.

The cargo steamer Yeddo, which was recently reported to be in distress 200 miles south-east of Albany, has not yet been picked up, the search steamer having returned to Albany.

On Wednesday last Captain Lowe, marine superintendent for Messrs. Andrew Weir and Co., was informed by telegram of the vessel's condition. The message stated that it was understood that her tail shaft had been broken, but that the steamer Eucla had gone to her assistance in response to the captain's request for a tow.

Yesterday Messrs. R. W. Cameron and Co. received a telegram from the Harbour Master at Fremantle stating that the steamer Eucla had returned to Esperance without finding the Yeddo. The message also stated that the Adelaide, Albany, and Fremantle harbour masters were instructing all steamers to look out for the vessel.

Captain Lowe also received a telegram yesterday which read as follows:—"Steamer Eucla returning to Albany. Captain wires from Esperance this morning 'Can find no trace of Yeddo.'"

Captain Lowe stated yesterday that the vessel, which does not carry wireless, has sufficient provisions on board to last the crew for five months, so there need be no worry in that regard. The Yeddo has 40,000 cases of oil, and was to have called at Fremantle to discharge part of her cargo. From there she was to have proceeded to Java and Colombo. She also has 1000 tons of coal, between 300 and 400 tons of this being on deck. This would be sufficient to take her on to Java and Colombo.

The Yeddo (4553 tons) left Sydney on September 1, and called at Melbourne and Adelaide, leaving the latter port for Fremantle on September 15.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson, accompanied by Lady Doris Blackwood, and attended by Captain Foxton (Military Secretary) and Captain Haskett-Smith (A.D.C.), will arrive in Sydney by the Melbourne express this morning, and will be in residence at Admiralty House during their visit. Their Excellencies will be present at the launching of H.M.A.S. Brisbane at Cockatoo Island on the 30th inst.

The Rev. H. R. Rycroft, a Methodist missionary, and his wife, stationed at the Solomon Islands, will leave for Fiji by the Levuka to-morrow.

The passengers booked by the Mataram, leaving on Friday, include Major de Hamel, who is going to Batavia, and Sub-Lieutenant T. Nixon, R.N., and Mr. D. M'Fayden, who are going to Singapore.

Mr. C. Holdsworth, managing director of the Union Steamship Company, will arrive from New Zealand by the Manuka on Tuesday.

Mr. F. W. Flanagan, Valuer-General for New Zealand, who has been in Sydney for several weeks, will leave on his return to the Dominion by the Ulimaroa to-morrow.

The Baptist Union of New South Wales held a demonstration in the Burton-street Tabernacle last night, as a farewell to the Rev. Walter and Mrs. Barry, and the Rev. T. C. and Mrs. Kelly, who are proceeding to Comilla, Eastern Bengal, to engage in missionary work.

The Rev. T. P. Brown, S.J., died yesterday morning at Loyola, Greenwich, in his 70th year. About three years ago he had a paralytic stroke from which he never quite recovered. The deceased, whose circle of friends was a very wide one, held many positions of responsibility in his order. As a young man he was made Provincial of the Jesuits in Ireland. For many years he was Rector of Xavier College, Melbourne—one of the great public schools—and for some time before his illness he was Superior of the Jesuits in Australia.

The funeral of the late Mr. Frank Ellis, of May-street, Eastwood, took place at the Field of Mars Cemetery on Sunday afternoon with full Masonic honours. The deceased, who was 51 years of age, was a prominent Mason, and was at one time Worshipful Master of the Ryde Lodge, an officer of the Mark Masons, and steward of the Grand Lodge of New South Wales. Among those present were Worshipful Grand Master W. Thompson, M.L.A., and all the Grand Lodge officers, and officers and members of the Ryde Lodge. The late Mr. Ellis was manager of the Rack-a-rock works at Marsfield, which were destroyed in a tragic manner 10 years ago, when a lad was burnt to death, and Mr. Ellis received serious and permanent injury in saving life, almost sacrificing his own. Mr. Ellis was one time Mayor of Eastwood.

COPPER AND ZINC.

AUSTRALIAN INDUSTRY.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

During to-day two conferences were held between the Attorney-General (Mr. Hughes) and representatives of the copper and zinc interests respectively. Mr. Hughes subsequently stated that the object of the conference was to arrange for the treatment of copper ores in Australia, so as to produce metallic copper, and manufacture in Australia all the copper goods required in Australia, particularly wire cables, tubes, and sheets. The point was not settled, and the conference adjourned until October 12. With regard to the zinc conference, Mr. Hughes laid before the conference a certain proposition to which the representatives of the companies present cordially approved. The matter is to be submitted to the directors of the various companies, and a further conference will be held on October 12.

MAN WHO SOWED THE FIRST GRAIN.

The Premier states that, at the request of the Australian Natives' Association, he has made a small sum of money available for renovating the grave of James Ruse, sower of the first grain in Australian soil, whose remains lie buried at Campbelltown. "Action should be taken," wrote the association, "to perpetuate the memory of Australia's first independent farmer."

TREATING.

SOLDIERS AND LIQUOR.

A WOMAN'S MOVEMENT.

Some of the Red Cross ladies have very strong views on the liquor question, and at the last meeting of the general committee reference was made to it. But, as the chairman of the New South Wales division, Mr. Hanbury Davies, pointed out in explaining the constitution of the society, the Red Cross exists for a specified purpose, and to identify itself with any outside movement such as the early closing of hotel bars would be quite outside its scope.

"But we do feel very strongly on the subject," said one lady yesterday—so strongly, indeed, that if we cannot move in the matter ourselves, we are determined to get somebody else to move in it. It isn't that our boys want to take so much liquor; the trouble is that they are made to take it—they cannot escape it. It is all due to the vicious habit of 'treating.' But, of course, it is due also to the people's admiration of the way our soldiers have fought in Gallipoli. To see a soldier now is to 'shout' for him, and the poor soldier can't get away from it. One man in uniform told me that he was practically pulled into eighteen hotels—he counted them—while walking from Circular Quay to the Railway Station, and when he got to Liverpool camp he was hauled over the coals for having taken too much liquor. I say it's a shame—every mother says it's a shame!—and I would commend the fine lines of Sir Owen Seaman on the subject to those who think it is a kindness to 'treat' our boys in this way. If we can't have the hotels closed at 6 o'clock, then let them be closed at 9. The sooner the Government wakes up to the fact the better for it and for all."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The enclosed poem I read in an American paper (the "Toronto Star Weekly"), and, as the "shouting for soldiers" question is so much in the public mind at present, I thought it might prove of some small interest to your readers.

I am, etc.,
MAUDE C. ROBINSON.
Sept. 21.

Would that every hotel proprietor and every man who feels inclined to invite a soldier to drink could appreciate the force of the following lines written:—

And you—a patriot in your prime,
You waved a flag about his head
And hoped he'd have a high old time,
And clapped him on the back and said:

"You'll show them what we British are,
"Give us your hand, Old Boy, to shake!"
And took him round from bar to bar
And made him drunk—for England's sake.

That's how you helped him. Yesterday,
Clear-eyed and earnest, keen and hard—
He held himself the soldier's way,
But now they've got him under guard.

That's nought to you. You're all right,
Your easy conscience takes no blame.
While he, poor boy, with morning's light
Just eats his heart out—sick with shame.

Why should you care? You understand
Nothing of all his bitter pain.
YOU have no regiment to brand,
YOU have no uniform to stain.

J. LANNING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I am told that the phrase "soured temperance reformer" in my letter about alcoholism and the war has hurt the feelings of a number of devoted workers in the cause of temperance. Will you permit me a further word?

It has always seemed to me that there are two classes of temperance reformers, viz., (a) temperance reformers; and (b) soured temperance reformers. For the former I have, and always have had, unstinted admiration; they are the dauntless regiment that has had vision enough to see the perilous places on civilisation's battlefield, and selflessness enough to eternally fight there even if winning only an inch at a time. Even if one does not actively join such a regiment one may warmly admire its courage and persistence.

The latter, class (b), I regard as I do the extremists in many a good cause; it is their tactics that lose the half-inch of every inch that the more far-sighted regiment wins. The thought behind my pen, however badly expressed, was that in a time of extreme national peril the sheerly thoughtless person, as typified by myself, and the over-thoughtful person, as typified by the "soured temperance reformer," must put aside their differences of temperament and work in single-mindedness for the common good and the common safety.

I am, etc.,
ETHEL TURNER.

THE BRISBANE.

LAUNCHING ARRANGEMENTS.

A GREAT FUNCTION.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Fisher), the Attorney-General (Mr. Hughes), the Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce), the Minister for the Navy (Mr. Jensen), and the Postmaster-General (Mr. Spence) left to-day for Sydney to attend the launching of the Brisbane on Thursday. The vessel is to be named and launched by Mrs. Andrew Fisher.

Among the distinguished personages to be present will be his Excellency the Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson, his Excellency Sir Gerald Strickland, and their staffs, the Prime Minister, the members of the Federal Cabinet and the New South Wales Cabinet, the Premiers of New South Wales, Queensland, and South Australia, and others.

Three platforms have been arranged, the central platform to accommodate about 150 guests, the starboard platform to take about 500, and a large platform on the port side to accommodate about 3000.

After the launching ceremony there will be an official luncheon. As accommodation at the official lunch cannot be found for all attending the launching, arrangements have been made for light refreshments to be provided for those attending other than those invited to the luncheon. The workmen at Cockatoo Island Dockyard will also receive light refreshments. The toasts to be proposed at the luncheon are as follow:—"The King," proposed by the chairman, the Prime Minister (Mr. Fisher); "The Governor-General," proposed by the chairman (Mr. Fisher), responded to by his Excellency Sir Ronald Crawford Munro Ferguson; "The State Governor," proposed by Mr. W. M. Hughes (Attorney-General), responded to by his Excellency Sir Gerald Strickland; "The Royal Australian Navy," proposed by the Governor-General, supported by Mr. Cook, M.P., responded to by the Minister for the Navy (Mr. Jensen) and the Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce); "The Builders of H.M.A.S. Brisbane," proposed by the Premier of New South Wales (Mr. Holman), and responded to by Mr. J. J. King Salter, general manager of the Commonwealth Naval Dockyard.

RANDWICK HOSPITAL.

MR. GRIFFITH'S STATEMENT.

Mr. A. Griffith, Minister for Education, on Friday last visited the Randwick Military Hospital for the purpose of ascertaining what facilities have been placed at the disposal of the wounded soldiers.

Mr. Griffith states that he ascertained that there are already a hundred more wounded men than there are beds available. Though the military authorities have made all arrangements in the way of providing beds, bedding, etc., the difficulty is that, while the children continue to occupy a large portion of the building, space is not available to meet the Military Hospital requirements. On Saturday morning last Colonel Perkins, M.D., and Lieutenant-Colonel Crawford Robertson, M.D., called at the Treasury to point out the difficulties of the position, and to request that the bill now being inquired into by a select committee of the Legislative Council, abolishing the trust and making provision for the children, should be pushed ahead.

Mr. Griffith states that it was a scandal and a disgrace to New South Wales that men who had risked their lives and been maimed in the service of their country should be unprovided for in the matter of hospital accommodation while an immense building so entirely suitable is withheld from occupation. Mr. Griffith adds that he has written officially to his colleague, the representative of the Government in the Upper House, to see if anything can be done to overcome the deadlock there.

Temporary repairs having been executed, the Mutlah will leave Thursday Island for Brisbane on Wednesday.

OVERLAPPING.

PATRIOTIC FUNDS.

NEW SCHEME ADOPTED.

An important conference took place at the Town Hall yesterday of representatives of the Lord Mayor's Patriotic Fund, the Red Cross Society, the Citizens' War Chest, and the National Relief Fund. The last-named fund represents the old Patriotic Fund and the National Disasters Fund, which have now been amalgamated, and are in the hands of the Public Trustee.

It has been recognised for some time past that a necessity existed for preventing overlapping in the distribution of relief, and the conference was arranged by Mr. Nesbitt and Mr. Layton, hon. secretaries of the Lord Mayor's Patriotic Fund, with a view to arranging some scheme which would meet the case. Various instances of overlapping were given, and the whole matter was discussed at length, with the result that a new scheme was adopted.

In some cases applications for relief had been made by the same people to those administering the different funds. It is very necessary that an inquiry shall be made into the bona fides of each case; and, by way of simplifying matters, it has now been decided that monetary relief to sick or wounded soldiers and their dependents shall only be given by the Lord Mayor's Patriotic Fund. No such assistance will in future be given by the Red Cross Society. The Red Cross will provide any artificial limbs or other surgical appliances that may be required; it will care for men in the convalescent homes that have been established under its auspices, and it will see that boarding accommodation is provided for returned soldiers after they leave hospital, and until such time as they are otherwise provided for; but it will not give money.

So far as the War Chest is concerned, it is intended primarily for the benefit of soldiers at the front who have not been wounded, and though in the past some assistance has been given out of its funds to some soldiers in Sydney, whose cases seemed deserving, this will be the case no longer.

The National Relief Fund has given assistance to certain persons, at the request of the War Chest Committee, but this will be done no longer.

These arrangements are, of course, of a tentative nature only. The administration of the various funds will doubtless come up for revision later on.

SAVINGS BANKS.

INTEREST INCREASED.

The Commissioners of the Government Savings Bank of New South Wales—the State savings institution—announce an increase in the rate of interest on deposits to 3½ per cent. per annum on balances up to £500 on accounts opened under the conditions of the Government Savings Bank Acts, and up to £200 on accounts opened with the late Savings Bank of New South Wales. The new rate will take effect from October 1.

WELCOME HOME.

NARRABRI, Tuesday.

An enthusiastic reception was accorded Privates Iredale and Hodgson last night. The Mayor (Alderman Adams) presided, and welcomed the soldiers. They were presented with gold medals, and a purse of 30 sovereigns was also presented to Private Hodgson, who is totally blind. A fund was started in the room to provide a pension for him. Pte. Iredale, who hopes to return to the front, made a stirring appeal for recruits to go back with him.

CHRISTMAS CHEER

FOR ABSENT BLUEJACKETS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The chaplain of the Tingira some weeks back made an appeal through your columns for literature, smokes, etc., for the men of our Australian fleet, and a large and varied assortment of things reached the Royal Naval House, which co-operated with the chaplain as a receiving depot. No appreciable quantity of smokes came; not enough for one smoke for the men of one ship! Not enough pipes for one men's mess. Not enough socks or handkerchiefs for the men of one cutter's crew. Not enough sweets or biscuits for one sick bay, and these latter mostly included in a large donation of gifts collected by Mrs. John Waugh, of Parramatta. One cheque only was sent, and this from the stewards of the steamer Moeraki, and 10s in postal notes.

In the matter of literature, on opening a few of the parcels it was found that some contained new books and magazines fit to send to our friends, and some large gifts of late numbers of magazines, which were most acceptable. But, alas, and alack, and oh, the pity of it! many whole parcels were full of old and torn magazines, soiled and coverless, while some huge parcels contained only back numbers of daily and weekly papers, which it is not intended to offend our sailors by sending to them. Piles of them, on which freight and cartage had to be paid, were committed to our refuse destructor. But, Sir, it is not yet too late. The idea was to reach the men of our fleet by Christmas, and the naval authorities, who are co-operating in the matter, and arranging for packing-cases, freights, etc., say that it is not yet too late.

Surely some worthy effort can yet be made by the people of this State? No citizen can forget the great generosity displayed on Belgian Day, or the magnificent results of the efforts put forth on Australia Day for our gallant soldiers, and the many battalion funds and sheepskin vest funds, etc., all most richly deserved by the men who have enlisted. But, now, here is a chance to remember our bluejackets.

When the recent appeal was made, I ventured to think that the Naval House would have been bombarded—not with rubbish for the fire, but with substantial cheques from the great and wealthy financial, insurance, and shipping institutions, which to-day are able to open their doors and do their work as if we were not at war at all, and that because of the work of our navy. The Hon. the Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) has plainly shown by his speeches in the House what a huge debt we owe to the Royal Australian Navy and the ships of France and Japan in these seas, but especially to our own splendid flagship and the other ships of our Australian fleet.

It has been shown to be literally true that

The child may sleep safe in its cot of nights,
And the trader may plot and plan,
For under the stars, on the rolling deep,
Stands the vigilant Handy Man.

What is the use of singing and shouting just because it goes to a fine swinging tune.

Jack's the king of all,
For they all love Jack.

unless this opportunity is seized, jumped at, in fact, to prove that the singing of these words is not just a hollow pretence.

Yes, Sir, I thought that the Royal Naval House would have been taken by storm by the postman and by friends with their loads of parcels for the man who keeps the grand old flag flying over their heads; that the vans from the shops would have been blocking Grosvenor-street in their efforts to deliver the gifts which even common gratitude had prompted folks to buy and send along for the men of the navy. But there is a fortnight yet before we must close our packing-cases, and deliver them to the naval authorities for two of the ships, and yet more time to spare in packing for other ships, so we dare venture to hope that those who should will yet remember Jack's Christmas.

Cheques may be sent to Mr. Alfred G. Milson, hon. treasurer of the Royal Naval House, or to myself. We would, however, prefer that donors would spend their own money, and send us their purchases, which, we suggest, should comprise among other things:—

- Razors, strops, and shaving soap.
- Good socks (say 3000 pairs), good handkerchiefs (3000 at least).
- Small hairbrushes and combs, tooth brushes and paste.
- Pocket knives.
- Cigars, cigarettes, wood pipes (about 3000).
- Writing paper, envelopes, pens, and pencils.
- Games, cards, hornless gramophones and records.
- Christmas puddings, biscuits, and sweets, all in small tins (says about 3000 of each).

May I now appeal to the banks, companies, firms, private persons, orders, or societies to make use of this opportunity—this once—to do something practical for the grand men of "The Senior Service," our "Sure Shield and Defence," as it is called by his Majesty the King, who himself, with the Princess Mary, did for the men of the Royal Navy at last Christmas what we are asking your readers to do this year for the men of our own fleet, which has proved itself to be "a genuine gilt-edged investment" by the Commonwealth of Australia?

I am, etc.,
JOHN S. SHEARSTON,
Superintendent Royal Naval House, Sydney.

FURTHER PROGRESS IN THE WEST.

BIG BATTLES RAGING.

RIGA.

RUSSIAN BOMBARDMENT.

HELP FOR GREECE.

The Anglo-French advance on the western front was made on the eve of Sir John French's birthday.

A French communique says: "The enemy made only the most feeble effort against our new positions in the Artois. The struggle in the Champagne district continues.

"The Allies' capture exceeds 70 guns, of which number the British took 23.

"The German offensive in the Argonne was stopped four times, with heavy enemy losses."

The Russians, according to a Petrograd communique, bombarded and silenced the enemy's land batteries in the Gulf of Riga. "A stray enemy projectile," the Russian official report continues, "fell on one of our ships, killing seven persons, including the commander and the captain, and wounding eight."

A Berlin communique says that a German airman attacked a Russian war vessel, including a ship of the line, in the Gulf of Riga.

It is officially reported in Rome that a surprise advance in the Carso region enabled the Italians to make marked progress in the direction of Peteano.

Athens advices state that the Allies have informed Greece that in the event of an attack on Servia and Greece they will land a fully equipped force and also render necessary financial assistance.

A War Office report states that recent operations at Gallipoli have been mainly confined to artillery bombardments, aircraft attacks, and some mining.

DARDANELLES.

RECENT OPERATIONS.

WAR OFFICE REPORT.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

The War Office states that recent operation in Gallipoli have been mainly confined on both sides to aircraft attacks, artillery bombardments, and some mining. The Turks on one occasion directed a heavy artillery fire on the Suvla and Anzac fronts, being apparently a prelude to a general attack. Only an attack by a small force followed upon the right centre at Suvla. Our rifle fire easily dispersed the enemy. The same thing happened twice, subsequently. Enemy aeroplanes more than once attacked our aircraft base and dropped bombs, but without damage. We counter-attacked, when our bombs blotted out a hangar and damaged shipping at Burgas. The Turks on the night of the 24th let loose some watch dogs against a French patrol. The dogs were all shot.

ARMENIAN ATROCITIES.

Count Bernstorff, the German Ambassador in Washington, declares that all reports of the Armenian atrocities are pure invention. No atrocities, he says, have been committed by the Turks.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

INDIA'S REPRESENTATION.

OTTAWA, Sept. 27.

Canadian newspapers are unanimously favourable towards India's representation on future Imperial Conferences.

The "Free Press" declares that India has earned such a concession even more by her conduct in peacetime than her loyalty in war time.

The "Montreal Star" considers that the Dominions should take particular pains to assure the Imperial Government of their great pleasure at India's representation. Lord Hardinge (the Viceroy) need not fear that the overseas attitude on Indian immigration will cause the Dominions to hesitate for a moment.

EASTERN FRONT.

GULF OF RIGA.

ENEMY'S LAND BATTERIES.

SILENCED BY THE RUSSIANS.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 28.

A communique says: Four German attacks westward of Vileika (eastward of Vilna) were repulsed. We captured 1000 unwounded Germans and 13 guns, including five of large calibre. We compelled the enemy near Deliatiaschi to fall back with great losses.

We surprised an Austrian battalion at Labusy, on the Shara, bayoneting a number, and taking 361 prisoner. The remnant were forced beyond the river.

Fierce house-to-house fighting ended in our capturing Sliesnits, in the lower Stokho region. Nearly all the defenders were killed.

Austrian reinforcements compelled us to evacuate Novo Alexinatz (near the Galician frontier). We counter attacked with the bayonet, expelled the enemy, killed many, and captured 1000.

We bombarded and silenced the enemy's land batteries in the Gulf of Riga. A stray enemy projectile fell on a Russian ship, killing the commander, Captain Viazemsky, also Captain Svinine. Our other casualties were five killed and eight wounded.

It is unofficially reported that fighting of extraordinary violence is in progress round Dvinsk. Russian cavalry defeated a strong enemy column near Lake Tchichiry. Strong enemy artillery forced the Russians back to the lake district, which is a veritable labyrinth. The Russians lured the enemy into marshy ground, and surrounded them on three sides. Half the Germans were exterminated, and the remainder were taken prisoner, including three complete companies of guards. Their artillery was also captured.

Reports from the Austrian front state the Russians have reached Kovel. The Austrians have evacuated Brody and suspended the fortification work in other towns in the government of Volhynia. During their retreat the Austrians threw much artillery, machine-guns, ammunition, and forage into the River Stry.

IMPORTANCE OF DVINSK.

A French official wireless message states:—"Recent orders addressed to Germans operating at Dvinsk stated: 'Tens of thousands of your comrades who courageously pierced the Russian front at Sventziany, and are moving eastward, are endangered whilst Dvinsk remains Russian. It is absolutely necessary to take the town.'"

The wireless message adds:—"These wishes seem unlikely to be realised."

M. Nadeau, a French war correspondent with the Russian headquarters, telegraphing to his journal, reports considerable Russian successes south of Polesie. "The Russians are progressing constantly towards the west and methodically regaining the watercourses which the Germans previously captured at enormous cost. The Russians are everywhere advancing between Polesie and Roumania.

There was not a German north of the Dwina on the 25th.

It is reported from Berne that General von Mackensen has been ordered to withdraw his forces lest he be surrounded.

AUSTRO-GERMAN REPORTS.

A Berlin communique says:—A German airman attacked Russian war vessels, including a ship of the line, in Riga Bay. Hits were observed upon the ship of the line and a destroyer. The Russians hastily steamed northwards.

We captured another position south-west of Dvinsk, and took 1300 prisoners.

Fighting is proceeding along the entire front.

An Austrian official report reads: The Russians' counter offensive has been broken in Volhynia. They evacuated positions north-west of Dubno, and retired near Lutsk in an easterly direction. The bridge head at Lutsk is again in our hands.

WOUNDED SOLDIERS.

SYSTEM OF TREATMENT.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

The reorganisation of the system of dealing with the Australian wounded is being completed. The wounded are being drafted to central hospitals. There are 503 patients at Harefield, 416 in the War Hospital, Epsom, 435 in the Convalescent Home, Epsom, 598 in King George's, 280 in the 3rd London General Hospital, 198 in other London general hospitals, 215 at Hampstead, 188 at Bethnal Green, 184 at Fulham, 148 at Endell-street, 114 at Lewisham, 100 in Reading, and 150 at Birmingham.

Colonels Syme and Maudsley are posted to the 3rd London General Hospital to attend to the Australians, and other Australian medical men will be attached to other hospitals when available.

Major Buckley has arranged for a number of convalescent Australian officers and some civilians to assist in visiting the wounded and motoring the patients from the stations.

Eighteen hundred recovered in ten days.

The convalescent home for Belgian soldiers is to be opened immediately at King Albert's villa in Nice. The sum of £5000 has been subscribed, including Tasmania's contribution of £500 and many Australian subscriptions. The Belgian Government is subsidising the home, which will accommodate 100 convalescents, and 100 consumptives will be housed in huts.

GERMAN CRIMES.

WOUNDED SOLDIERS MURDERED

LONDON, Sept. 27.

The French Foreign Minister has published in English a volume detailing the German crimes. It contains about one hundred documents, affording convincing evidence that the Germans murdered wounded soldiers and prisoners with savage brutality. The heads of many victims were reduced to pulp.

The book reproduces General Stenger's orders to massacre the prisoners, adding, "No living enemy must be left behind us." Ghastly stories are related of outrages and massacres of civilians in Belgium.

DR. DUMBA.

WITHDRAWN BY AUSTRIA.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.

WESTERN FRONT.

ALLIES' ADVANCE.

STRUGGLE CONTINUES IN CHAMPAGNE REGION.

FEEBLE GERMAN EFFORT IN ARTOIS DISTRICT.

ENEMY LOSE HEAVILY IN THE ARGONNE.

LONDON, Sept. 28.

The Allies advance, which was made on the eve of Sir John French's birthday, aroused enthusiasm in Britain, but there has been nothing approaching "Mafficking." The Stock Exchange has a more cheerful tone, and war loans rallied sharply. A military parade in Throgmorton-street was the occasion for patriotic demonstrations. Colonel 'aude is of opinion that, with reasonable luck, the Allies should drive the Germans to the Rhine within two months. Other critics deprecate undue optimism, as the present are only opening moves in the game which will continue for days and weeks, but there is general relief at the apparent end of the period of waiting, which pessimists construed as paralysis.

The "Pall Mall Gazette" expresses the opinion that the advance on the Ypres-Menin road is not serious. The operations north of La Bassee are also a "holding" attack. The real British objective is Lens, where at least there are two army corps. The French advance in Champagne implies the engagement of at least five army corps. We are now within three miles of the railway in the Souain region, with the small rivers Ain and Tourbe on either flank. Hence we should be able to hold on against the expected strong counter-attacks.

The news aroused the most tense interest in France. Communiques were shown on the cinema sheets in all large towns last night, with portraits of General Joffre and his Generals. The audiences sang the "Marseillaise," but the word "victory" is not used, remembering that the conditions of modern warfare make decisive results extremely difficult. It is generally recognised that General Joffre has ceased nibbling, and it is clear that Neuve Chapelle, Beau-Sejour, and Les Eparges have been eclipsed.

The offensive was opportune, as the Germans are deeply committed by the invasion of Russia, where the fighting covers a front of 700 miles, with the opening of the bad season. The Germans had been expecting an attack, and had been holding up boards in Flanders with the inscription, "We are ready for you on the 20th;" but the Allies' attack did not come on the 20th.

The gunners distributed their favours so impartially that it was impossible to say where the thrust would come. It is not true to suggest the German morale was destroyed. Their guns were numerous, well concealed, and had to be destroyed only by the most thorough bombardment, but they were unable to guess the real storm centre. They must have been sending reserves first to one centre and then to another. It now seems certain that the main thrust is in the Champagne, where there is open, undulating country, without watercourses. If a wedge of the Von Mackensen type is driven in it may compel the Germans to retire upon the Sambre and the Meuse.

Stray facts regarding the fight are coming in to Paris. It is estimated that there are 1,800,000 Germans in the west, and 2,600,000 in Russia. The unwounded German prisoners now exceed 23,000. Eleven trains with prisoners passed Bourget station, Paris, going to the internment camp. The haul of prisoners is unparalleled since the battle of the Marne. A noteworthy feature of the operations is the aeroplane attacks 40 miles to the rear of the German front, interfering with the movement of reservists and supply of ammunition by bombing the troop trains. The effect of these attacks can be estimated from the results at Saarbruck (in Prussia, south-east of Saarlouis), where aeroplanes destroyed the greater part of the strategic railways.

Aeroplanes also damaged the junction at Treves, through which hundreds of thousands of troops have passed from Luxembourg to France. The people in Treves were seized with a mad panic. A bishop was being consecrated in the cathedral, and the clergy and the congregation sought refuge in the crypt until the hurricane of fire had ended. It is manifest that the prime objective of the Allies' attacks were the railway communications with Lens and La Bassee, which are the secondary nuclei of a network of railways only second to those of Lille, and vital to the security of that all-important centre. Hill 70 dominates Lens, in addition to a large tract of country eastward, resembling East Lancashire, and covered with an intricate system of mineral railways.

The attack in the Champagne occurred during a raging rainstorm, which makes the dash of the French Infantry that carried them up to the enemy's gun position before the Germans had time to move them all the more remarkable. The advance was so quick that more than one German pivot point was left behind, and had subsequently to be captured by a minor siege. In these fortified farms and sandbag fortresses the Germans who were cut off held out for some time.

MILLION SHELLS THROWN.

The British and French before Saturday's advance poured into the enemy's lines an incessant deluge of high explosives. It is estimated that 1,000,000 shells were thrown.

The Allies made an air raid on Bruges on Sunday. The village of Sluis was sunk in darkness. It is believed that the Bruges gasworks, from which Sluis is supplied, were severely damaged.

The hardest fighting was in the Souain district, near Auberive. The Germans in the Champagne are peculiarly dependent on the cross line railway between the Argonne and Bezancourt, uniting the Rethel-Vouziers lines, along which alone they are able to rapidly bring up large supplies and reinforcements. The French at Auberive are within three miles of the line. The latter line also maintains German connection with the hills northward of Rheims. Judging by the number of prisoners the German killed and wounded are estimated as almost equalling an Army Corps. It would be difficult for the Germans to bring up the requisite heavy reinforcements, which could scarcely be spared from other parts, in as much as the whole long line was sorely tried. This dependence of one region on another was illustrated on the same front last March, when the French attack at Mesnil and Beau Sejour compelled the Germans to transfer troops from the British front, thus contributing to the British advance at Neuve Chapelle.

An officer who was wounded in Flanders, when interviewed, said that the struggle began in real earnest on Friday. "We had the usual dose of heavy shells all day long. Early on Saturday the fight began under a hurricane of shrapnel, the infantry advancing in short, sharp rushes on the German trenches, which were distant 400 yards. Our fellows went at it with rare spirit. There was some pretty business with the bayonet. Many prisoners were ready with the cry, 'Kamerad.' They promptly threw down their rifles in their eagerness to get captured. The most surprising thing in the whole business is that many of them are old men of the Landsturm and Landwehr, but there is also plenty of young blood. They seemed to be crushed and exhausted, and welcomed the chance of surrendering."

While the Queen of the Belgians was visiting the trenches a lively cannonade opened. Her Majesty took shelter in a dug-out. Several shells burst in the vicinity, but she chatted calmly until the shelling ceased.

The "Daily Telegraph's" Rotterdam correspondent says that the general staff in Berlin has determined to make one more great effort in the west.

The "Petit Parisien" says that the Artois and Champagne battles were fought under abominable weather conditions for attack. There was a deluge of rain.

The New York correspondent of the "Times" says the drive is considered to have been well-timed, and will tend to postpone any movement against the Allies in Gallipoli.

The New York "World" says the assault promises to render Russia vigorous assistance.

FRENCH OFFICIAL MESSAGES.

A Paris communique states:—We have maintained our positions in the Artois, and maintained our advance east of Souchez. Fighting proceeds with bombs and torpedoes at Andechy. The enemy bombarded our positions at Quennevieres. We replied vigorously. Tenacious fighting is in progress on the entire Champagne front. We occupied several positions behind our new front in which the enemy had remained. There is an intense bombardment between the Meuse and the Moselle, also in Lorraine. A violent storm brought to a standstill operations in the Vosges.

The enemy made only the most feeble effort against our new positions in the Artois. The struggle in the Champagne district continues without intermission before the Germans' second line. The Allies' capture exceeds 70 guns, of which the British took 23. The German offensive in the Argonne was stopped four times with heavy enemy losses.

SIR JOHN FRENCH'S DESPATCH.

Sir John French reports:—We repulsed a number of counter-attacks, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy. Our offensive is progressing eastward of Loos. Our captures include 53 officers, 2800 men, 18 guns, and 32 machine-guns. The enemy also abandoned considerable material.

OPINION IN GERMANY.

It is reported from Amsterdam that the Kaiser had addressed the German generals in the west, urging the necessity for increased activity, as the successful issue of the war is dependent on events in the west. Any important success will be considered due to culpable negligence on the part of commanders, who will render themselves liable to punishment for incompetence.

The Berlin newspapers warn the public against exaggerating a temporary German check. The "Koelnische Zeitung" is of opinion that the advances on Lille and Perthes are not surprising, in view of the terrible bombardment levelling the German defences.

The "Volks Zeitung" says the success is not in proportion to the losses the enemy sustained.

The "Frankfurter Zeitung" says:—Our position in Russia is so brilliant that we can send a considerable number of troops westward, and thus we are able to regard the new big battle with the utmost equanimity.

ENEMY REPORT

A German communique says: Warships continue isolated shots at the environs of Middlekerke. The enemy has not renewed his attacks south-west of Lille, where our counter-attacks arrested a great offensive. Severe isolated attacks north and south of Loos collapsed, with English losses. Attacks on both sides of Arras were repulsed with bloodshed. We captured twenty-five officers, 2600 men, and fourteen machine guns. The French offensive at Rheims and in the Argonne has not progressed. Fighting was especially severe on the road between Sommepy and Suippes, also north of Beau-se-Jour farm, where the enemy's attack failed, with very heavy losses. We took forty officers and 3900 men prisoners. We shot down three aeroplanes, including a great French battle aeroplane. Aerial battles have taken place south-east of Ypres and south-west of Lille. Two French aeroplanes were brought down in the Champagne.

The heavy black line conveys a rough idea of the contour of the battle front between Nieuport and Verdun. The main attacks on the present Allied offensive are being made between La Bassee and Arras, in the north, and between Auberive and Ville-sur-Tourbe in the south. The tendency of the Allied line to lap round La Bassee and Lens is clearly indicated.

ITALY'S CAMPAIGN.

SURPRISE ADVANCE.

MARKED PROGRESS MADE.

LONDON, Sept. 28.

A Rome communique states: A surprise advance in the Carso region enabled us to make marked progress in the direction of Peteano. There were small engagements favourable to us elsewhere.

ZEPPELINS.

RECENT LONDON RAID.

ACCOUNT BY PARTICIPANT.

BERNE, Sept. 27.

A member of a Zeppelin crew, writing to the newspaper "Der Bund," says:—London is beyond our range, but it is possible if there is a steady east wind, as we can float a considerable distance and conserve the petrol supply. Unfortunately, the weather is England's best ally. It is either windless, over-windy, or bright moonlight. We took fewer bombs than usual for the London raid, but they were specially larger. We reached the mouth of the Thames unobserved, owing to clouds and the silence of the engines, and until over Tower Bridge, where we crossed on the north side. A searchlight then caught us. Immediately the sky was ablaze with searchlights, and the air rent by a terrific cannonade. The guns at first were unable to reach us. We dropped bombs regularly, but shrapnel begun to play around us.

We could discern dark spots of considerable size amid the glow of light, and we dropped bombs here, but the searchlights hampered us, as they cut off the view of our objectives. The English are stricken with terror by our wonderful Zeppelins. The effect must have been awful. The English land guns are useless, but there are better ones on the coast, so we were careful when returning. They always try to intercept us from Dunkirk in the morning, so we take another direction. The great thing is plenty of petrol when the English aeroplanes are about.

FRENCH FINANCES.

WAR EXPENDITURE.

PARIS, Sept. 28.

In the Senate a memorandum was presented showing that the total credits received and pending were £1,200,000,000. The expenditure for the past three months, including the war, was £74,800,000 monthly. It is estimated the monthly expenditure during the coming quarter will be £83,000,000.

M. Aimond, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, announces that an important loan is pending. Hitherto they had met expenditure without much difficulty, but a more radical solution was necessary.

MERCHANT SHIPPING.

ROLL OF HONOUR.

Lieutenant Jeffrey Parker, of the Dunedin Army Medical Corps, who was attached to a Manchester regiment, has been killed in Gallipoli.

THE BALKANS.

GREECE AND SERVIA

ALLIES WILL ASSIST.

AN ATHENS REPORT.

LONDON, Sept. 28.

A Sofia message states that the Crown Prince has been appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Bulgarian forces, and General Kutintcheff, War Minister.

The "Narodni Prava," the Government organ, says that Bulgaria is not only compelled to prepare for any violation of her interests, but to obtain in the most favourable circumstances what she cannot do without.

The "Mir" declares that Bulgaria must obtain the abolition of the Bucharest Treaty.

It is reported in New York that all Bulgarians in America have been called up to the colours.

The Athens correspondent of the London "Daily Chronicle" says that the Allies have informed Greece that in the event of an attack on Servia and Greece, the Allies will land a fully equipped force, and also render necessary financial assistance.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

LONDON, Sept. 28.

Mr. J. A. Jickell, of New Zealand, attended a recruiting meeting in London. He said he was too old to join the army, but came to England to offer his services as a munition worker. Mr. Jickell's three sons are at the Dardanelles.

London has been practically cleared of aliens of military age. Over four thousand are quartered at the Alexandra Palace. Motor 'buses are used to convey the men to the camps there. The roll call is made at the rear of the police stations, where a vehicle is in readiness. The women are much affected when parting, and the men dejected. All classes are represented, but waiters and the middle class predominate.

Indian merchants in Bombay are seeking direct Government aid for the development of Indian trade and enterprise, to replace Austrian and German goods, and to counteract the efforts of the Japanese, who, during the past year, have dumped enormous quantities of wares in India. Otherwise they say Indian industrial independence will disappear.

It is reported from Kronstadt that General Botha, during a lively election meeting, emphatically declared that if anyone in the next Parliament attempted to introduce a bill to commandeer men for Europe his Government, if in office, would strongly oppose it.

WAR NOTES.

THE WESTERN FIGHTING.

Both the French and British official reports state that the allied offensive is being continued, and this in itself is one of the most significant items of news we have from the front this morning. It shows the attack to be something more than a sudden forward rush into the enemy's first line of trenches, and a settling down therein. After the momentary halt, during which a series of German counter-attacks on the new positions had to be dealt with, the Allies have resumed their assaults, apparently bent upon gaining the furthest limit of ground before the impetus of their offensive dies down. It is to be borne in mind, however, that nothing like a general allied offensive has actually been entered upon so far. The operations now being dealt with in the cables are practically confined to only two points of the great western battle-line—the Arras-La Bassee region and the Champagne district. Fighting is proceeding at many points elsewhere; but, wherever that fighting has been initiated by the Allies, it has been with the object of pinning down as many of the enemy troops as possible to those points, and preventing reinforcements from being sent from them to the two main theatres. The operations opened on Saturday may really be the preliminaries to a general allied offensive, in which they will launch formidable attacks at the half-dozen vital points where General Joffre has so long and so patiently been preparing his ground; but, up till the present, we have absolutely nothing definite to warrant the assumption that such a general move is developing. It is well to let this fact check any hasty conclusions as to what the immediate future has in store.

"BEFORE THE WINTER."

It is clear, however, that there is a fairly general opinion in France and England that something like a general offensive is actually beginning, and we find such an eminent authority as Colonel F. N. Maude declaring that "with reasonable luck the Allies should drive the Germans to the Rhine within two months." It is, of course, purely a matter of opinion, formed in ignorance of the exact driving power now behind the Allies, but it would appear that the colonel is a trifle too optimistic. It is to be noted that in giving a limit of two months he is setting out what the Allies should accomplish with a general offensive before the winter has completely taken the land in its grip. This is exactly one of the things that gives rise to a doubt as to the Allies now making their great general attempt to oust the Germans from France and Belgium. It is almost essential that, having entered upon it, they would have to push through with it within two months—and the task is obviously so tremendous, and must necessarily be marked with by stubborn fighting almost all the way without any of those sweeping movements that characterise the open fighting of the east, that two months seems a perilously small limit to place upon it.

REASONS FOR A "PARTIAL OFFENSIVE."

There are several reasons—and when taken all together they make in the sum a very good reason—why the Allies should at this stage enter upon an offensive in the west which, while not definitely aimed at pitching the enemy completely out of France and Belgium, would yet be fruitful enough. We hinted at these reasons a couple of days ago, but they may be restated. The first is the effect of such an offensive on Bulgaria. One would need to be very optimistic now to regard Bulgaria as anything other than a menace to the allied interest, and it has become important that she should be prevented, if possible, from going definitely over to the other side. However we may have regarded the position in the western theatre, there cannot be any doubt that the long period of immobility there had gone far towards convincing certain neutral States that it was impossible for the Allies to shift the Germans from their line of entrenchments—that matters had come to a stalemate, and that sooner or later some sort of a peace would have to be patched up. This has hampered the allied diplomacy in the Balkans for months, and it has certainly had a good deal to do with Bulgaria's attitude. If proof can be given that the German line in the west is by no means a fixture, this, together with the Russian successes in the southern portion of the eastern front, should assuredly give Bulgaria a somewhat altered viewpoint.

SERVIA AND RUSSIA.

The second reason is to be found in the Austro-German project to crush Servia and win a way through to Turkey. This project has been talked of for some time, and although it does not seem to be exactly imminent, still, if the Austro-German advance in Russia were to come to a dead-stop, we would certainly find a very big force detached from that front for service elsewhere, and an attack upon Servia would be highly probable. There would be some ominous possibilities in such a move, and the Allies might well make a big effort to avert it. And an offensive in the west, demanding the hurrying thither of reinforcements from the Russian front, would seem to be a very effective way of turning attention aside from our little ally of the south. The third reason is that a western offensive would be of immeasurable advantage to the Russians. It would not only draw off a considerable number of Germans from their front, but it would do so just at a time when the Austro-German armies were in a highly disadvantageous position as far as the "lie of the country" was concerned. It is not a question of saving the Russians from disaster—nothing of the kind is now threatening them; but with their present ability to assume the offensive at various points of their line they would be able to make matters distinctly uncomfortable for a weakened German force in front of them. This would be especially the case if there happened to be any new Russian formations ready to take the field, and if, as we have good reason to suppose, the supply of munitions is now greatly on the increase.

FORESTALLING THE GERMANS.

The fourth reason for the Allied offensive is the moral certainty that a new big German effort would be made in the west before the end of the year. The advantages of forestalling such an offensive are obvious. The last reason that may be set out here is a desire on the part of the Allies in the west to break up, as far as possible, the comfortable quarters which the Germans have been for so long preparing for themselves against the coming winter, and to the same end to deprive them of the possession of certain towns, like Lens and La Bassee, which, highly valuable at any time, have a distinctly enhanced value in the bad season. If, as we say, all these reasons—and there are doubtless others if the matter be looked into closely enough—are taken in the sum we will find one very appreciable argument why the Allies should be now making a definite and formidable move forward, even though it be not their intention to attempt to evict the Germans completely from France and Belgium till the spring. At the same time we repeat that we have no definite knowledge as to the exact driving power behind the Anglo-French forces on this occasion. If they were confident that they could, as Colonel Maude suggests, drive the enemy beyond the Rhine within two months they would doubtless attempt to do it. But for the present it is hardly worth while building up any hopes in that direction.

THE RUSSIAN FRONT.

The news from the Russian front this morning is wholly satisfactory. Taking the German communique alone, we find that Berlin merely claims one little success. "We captured a position south-west of Dwinsk," it says—and is eloquently silent as to details of the fighting throughout the remainder of the front. In view of the fact that Berlin has consistently referred to the operations in the eastern theatre as being a "pursuit" of the Russians, there is a certain grim humour in all this. The Austrian communique claims to have brought the Russian offensive in the Volhynia province, just north of the Galician border to a stop, having pressed the Czar's forces back west of Dubno, and near Lutsk; but is also silent as to events elsewhere. Here again the silence is eloquent. The Russians officially admit that Austrian reinforcements compelled them to fall back in one portion of Volhynia; but they fill up the gaps left in the Austro-German despatches with a record of a series of local successes at various points of the long-drawn-out battle-line. In view of the position in the east and in the west, it begins to look as though the Russian retreat is now coming to a definite stop. There is, by the way, a curious message through from Berne, which states that General von Mackensen has been ordered to withdraw his army, lest it be surrounded. This army is operating just to the north of the great Pripet marshes, and on the information available it certainly does not appear to be in any immediate danger of envelopment; though the unofficial report that the Russians in the south have pushed westward as far as Kovel does suggest something of a menace to Mackensen's southern communications. Mackensen has been having a particularly rough time, and has not been able to make much headway for many weeks in the bad country in which he is operating, and perhaps a big proportion of his troops are actually being withdrawn—but the withdrawal will doubtless have more to do with the western offensive than with any danger of a Russian enveloping move.

FALLEN AUSTRALIANS.

Relations of the following men have been informed by the Defence Department of their deaths at the Dardanelles:—

Pte. THOMAS ALEXANDER P. OTHEROE, of Redfern.
Pte. F. DILLON, Portland.
Pte. A. E. NEAVES, Wollongong.
Pte. L. BENTLEY, Tenterfield.
Cpl. A. B. NELMES, Tenterfield.

LATE WAR NEWS.

THE SANT ANNA.

TWO EXPLOSIONS.

ASPHYXIATING GAS FUMES.

LONDON, Sept. 28.

It is reported from Naples that the commander of the steamer Sant Anna, which was reported on the 13th instant to be afire in the Mid-Atlantic with 1600 Italian reservists aboard, says that the explosions were due to asphyxiating gas. Forty passengers were overcome by the fumes, but they recovered. When the first fire was nearly extinguished a second explosion occurred. The heat was so intense that several plates of the liner melted. The captain has 18 pieces of fuse which were found in the water.

STREET CAR EXPLOSION.

GASOLINE TANK IGNITES.

MANY FATALITIES.

TWO CITY BLOCKS RAZED.

ARDMORE (Oklahoma), Sept. 28.

A spark from a workman's hammer ignited the gasoline tank of a street car, resulting in an explosion and fires, and two city blocks being razed.

Thirty-five bodies have been recovered from the ruins. Fifty persons are believed to have been crushed to death under the fall of walls or burned to death while pinned in the debris. A search amongst the ruins is proceeding, the workers centring their efforts amongst a tangled mass of lumber and bricks, which had been a large departmental store, where it is feared the bodies of many girls and women shoppers will be found.

A score of fires was caused by the flaming gasoline, which was thrown for blocks when the car exploded. They were quickly got under control.

Martial law was declared. Panic followed the explosion. Every building on either side of the main street was demolished. Over the splintered buildings for blocks around, flaming gasoline was thrown, starting scores of fires. Rescue parties were quickly formed.

All communication with the outside world was cut off for five hours. Two hundred injured are being cared for, and it is feared that many of them will die.

LONE PINE.

GRAPHIC BATTLE STORY.

TOLD BY A SOLDIER.

Sergeant C. Kirton, who left for the Dardanelles with the First Battalion, and has been in the fighting line ever since, tells the story of the Lone Pine fight in a letter to his people on the South Coast.

"I suppose you are wondering how I am faring with all the casualties of our boys? Well, they have knocked me at last. I will tell you just how it all happened. On Friday morning last (just a week ago exactly to the hour), I was lying on a slope about two yards from the Turks' wire entanglements. We got orders to be ready for an advance that day. We were all supplied with white packs for our back, and armlets, which were to be sewn on immediately. After I had sewn mine on I was detailed to carry water for our water bottles from the beach. By the time we got back it was time to put our gear on. It was then 4.30 p.m., and terribly hot. At 5 our 6in howitzers opened a terrible fire, and started to bombard the trenches in front of us. They had been on and off all day blowing away the wire entanglements in front of the Turks' lines. Our guns were brought in during the previous night. At the start of the battle there were four of our saps blown up, and I was told off for headquarters, Second Battalion, and was to take a telephone, with two more sergeants, across with the second line of advance. At 5.20 p.m. all our boys were in the firing line, and the orders were passed along to get ready for a charge. The artillery had no sooner ceased than the whistle was passed along (the signal to charge). The first line was climbing the parapets. Our 'phone ran out a good fifty yards in a sap, so we started down the sap, and as it was a tunnel we could hear the thumping on top, also the cheers from the first line. When we got to the hole where our saps had blown out, there were two chaps shouting out for stretcher-bearers; but they were hit in the head. I poked my head out and showed them the way in. By this time the first line was well across the gully, and the enemy's artillery had opened a terrible shrapnel fire. The second line had shown their heads, and were coming as the rifle and machine gun fire grew thicker. I saw three men running, so up we jumped. I don't remember recognising anybody, but I know I got a bullet straight through my magazine, which fell out, hitting me on the toes. The other two men were having a bit of trouble with the reel, but we plunged forward, tripping on the line every now and again. When we got to the Turks' first line a chap sang out that we would have to go to the second line, as the first was covered in; so we lay down, as we would not have stood it to the second line. No sooner had we touched the ground than one of my mates got a bang on the side of the head. He was bleeding a good deal, and died before anyone could do anything for him.

"We decided to push on a little with the third line of advance. The fire at this period had grown terrific (the third line coming), when bang! I thought some one had given my leg a sharp kick out of the way, and looked and saw a hole in my puttee about two inches above my right foot. For a while it never gave me any pain, but as soon as I moved my foot the pain nearly drove me mad. But, Jim, groans of agony are nothing here. I yelled at the top of my voice. I said to the one mate left out of the five of us that I had stopped one in the leg. The third line was well on us now, and I made three attempts to get up, but my leg kept giving from under me. I was too weak, through loss of blood. My mate went on with a chap out of the third line, running the reel. It was worth the V.C. for him, but, poor chap, he stopped a bullet, and I had to lie and watch him die. I was too weak to get to him. (That was young Smith, from Wollongong.) The next thing was to get back to the sap. There were three more killed and two wounded there. One had his back broken, and was trying to roll down off the little crest he was on, when a machine gun caught him. It fairly riddled him. Anyhow, the poor fellow did not moan after. The fire and shells were so thick that the scrub behind us caught fire. A chap came and lay alongside me, holding in his right hand the arm-bone of his left, from which the hand had been blown off. I helped him to bandage it up, and he said he would wait with me till dark. He was an Australian to the backbone. He came from Goulburn.

"I never said my prayers so often and with such sincerity as I did those two hours or so, which seemed a week that we were lying there. It was just a living hell. By the sound I could tell that our chaps were firing a good deal ahead of us. When darkness came I crawled and rolled back to the sap, following the line as best I could. After a while I was in the sap getting my wound bandaged up, and in six hours I was on the hospital ship. The Red Cross are doing some splendid work here. I believe our battalion got some seventy prisoners and six machine-guns out of the Lone Pine trenches. I have heard from later arrivals in the hospital that our chaps took those lines at 5.30 p.m. on Friday, but on Saturday they were bombed out of the third, but still hold to the other two.

"Well, Jim, you see we are not the six-bob-a-day tourists that some people out there call us. We have done our bit, and I hope the contingent I saw marching through the streets of Sydney (on paper) will do far better, as I believe they are supposed to be a far superior fighting class to the 1st Battalion. I had my leg X-rayed to-day, and they have decided on leaving the bullet in. I would like to get back to see my mate's grave. A. Smith, from Wollongong."

The following were the recruitings at country centres yesterday:—Goulburn 7, Armidale 2, Narrabri 2, Dubbo 3, Cootamundra 7, Lithgow 1; total 22.

Instead of the usual steady stream of recruits moving across the barrack square, which was a regular sight daily for months, recruits have been growing small by degrees. Yesterday the square was almost as bare as it used to be in the days prior to war.

"Rough riders from the country for the new remount unit for Egypt have not come forward in the numbers expected," said Captain Bell, S.O.V.S., yesterday. "So far, only 30 have offered their services, and we would be glad to hear of others. With regard to general horsemen, 74 have already been sent into camp, and up to date we have enrolled 242."

Senator Gardiner, Assistant Minister for Defence, paid a surprise visit to the camp at the Royal Agricultural Showground, Moore Park, on Saturday last. His visit was strictly incognito, and it is understood that he was very pleased with what he saw, both as regards the work of the men and the accommodation provided for them.

An enthusiastic send-off was tendered to the following 32 volunteers from the Gladesville district at the Gladesville Hall on Monday night:—Lieut. Smythe, Sergt.-Major Shelley, Sergt. Long, Corporal Colhoun, Privates H. Berry, Brookshaw, J. Brett, N. Cashman, W. Cooper, F. Duck, G. Earl, C. Flanagan, H. Harriott, E. Hawkless, Haggerwood, J. Joyce, G. S. Jones, J. Martin, J. Magner, M'Phee, Robson, J. Reihana, C. Seymour, Shelley, John Wilson, James Wilson, Tom Williams, Worrad, E. Horsfield, F. Harris, Cuoyle, and Rassack. The Mayor of Ryde, Alderman J. Kelly, presided. Presentations were made to each soldier.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

"Anxious Mother."—(1) No; (2) No.

"O. H." (Matong).—The local postmaster can give you all the information you require.

"Inquirer."—Of course it would.

"A. K."—If you have no children you should be proud that he is going. You will have to find some reason before the authorities will stop him enlisting.

"C. S. S."—Your best plan would be to send them c/o the High Commissioner, London. If the parcel is clearly addressed, and is delivered to the receiving office, old N.D.L. Wharf, Circular Quay, it is quite on the cards that it will be carried home free of charge.

"J.C."—You can get a sheepskin vest made and posted to any individual soldier for 10/- (including postage), at the Sheepskin Clothing Depot, Equitable-buildings, George-street, Sydney.

"Mascot."—The same as that of any other private: 5/ a day in camp, 6/ a day on embarkation.

"Frascati."—Apply to the Pensions Office, 17 Bligh-street, Sydney, stating the case fully.

"F. D. K."—(1) New battalions are being formed. Do you mean vacancies for Germans or for guards? Your question is too indefinite.

MASSAGE.

The Australasian Massage Association has been notified by the A.A.M.C. that more masseurs and masseuses are needed for military work both at home and abroad. Conditions and all particulars may be obtained from the secretary at 57 Vickery's-chambers. Those who wish to offer their services should apply at once. The accelerated course for massage students will begin on October 11.

FAREWELL TO COL. NICHOLSON.

WEST MAITLAND, Tuesday.

Lieut.-Colonel Nicholson, M.L.A., left last night for Brisbane, where he is to take charge of troops on a troopship to leave shortly for the front. He was farewelled by a large crowd on the station, and the Mayor, Alderman Mannall, presented him, on behalf of the citizens and friends, with a gentleman's companion. On behalf of the Central Bowling Club he was presented with a wristlet watch.

CITY RAILWAY.

THE TOWN HALL STATION.

COUNCIL'S OPPOSITION.

The plans for the city railway provide for a station in the neighbourhood of the Town Hall, and it was at first proposed that the entrances and exits should be constructed in front of the Town Hall and St. Andrew's Cathedral. A spirited protest was made by the Cathedral authorities, and, as a result, an alternative scheme was submitted providing that the spaces on each side of the Town Hall entrance be utilised without encroachment on the Cathedral property.

The plans came before the works committee of the City Council yesterday afternoon.

The chairman (Alderman A. M'Elhone) stated that he had conferred with the Lord Mayor, who had suggested that the matter be referred to a conference of Government representatives and representatives of the council to see whether some arrangement could not be made for a different site altogether.

Alderman Barlow said it would be a monstrous thing if the station were situated as now proposed. Not only would the entrance and exits spoil the appearance of the Town Hall, but the congestion would be too awful to contemplate, particularly on those occasions when meetings, entertainments, and demonstrations took place in the Town Hall.

A motion that the conference be held was put and carried.

CUSTOMS-HOUSE.

ADDITIONS AND ALTERATIONS.

The Federal Public Works Committee—Mr. E. Riley (in the chair), Senators Story, Keating, and Lynch, Messrs. Gregory, Fenton, Finlayson, Laird Smith, and Sampson—took evidence at the Customs-house yesterday on the questions of remodelling the Sydney Customs-house.

G. J. Oakeshott, Commonwealth Works Director in New South Wales, explained the contemplated improvements with the aid of extensive plans. The accommodation for trade and Customs would, he said, be increased by from 20,933 superficial feet of floor space to 33,297 feet. The Navigation Department would be increased from 3932 feet to 6328 feet. Home affairs would be increased from 7504 to 11,870 feet. The caretakers' quarters would be increased from 973 to 950 feet. The total space would be increased from 35,361 feet to 55,409 feet. The estimated cost was £37,500.

[illegible] PARTY SPLIT.

POSITION IN VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

When the State Ministry met its supporters to-day, the Premier (Sir Alex. Peacock) said that his colleagues had determined to await any definite challenge from the dissatisfied members of the party on the floor of the House. The announcement caused some surprise. This was followed by speeches by the Attorney-General (Mr. Mackinnon) and the Chief Secretary (Mr. Murray), in which they stated that the Ministry declined to admit that their administration was open to the condemnation which voluntary resignation would imply. After a long discussion, the Ministers left the meeting. Twenty-two Ministerialists remained, and it is understood they are determined to launch a no-confidence motion. This section of the party will meet to-morrow to elect a leader by exhaustive ballot, and he will be empowered to move a vote of want of confidence in the Government. The Premier will have a party of 21, and it is understood, although no definite statement has been made, that the Labour party will support Sir Alexander Peacock.

COAL MINERS.

WOLLONGONG, Tuesday.

Mr. S. Bird, president of the Illawarra Colliery Employees' Association, and Mr. A. C. Wills, general secretary, have been selected to represent the miners of the South Coast at a compulsory conference at Melbourne on Friday.

MEN OF THE DARDANELLES.

MAJOR RICHARDS.

Major S. J. Richards, A.A.M.C., who died from pneumonia at sea on July 21, when being conveyed from Gallipoli to Alexandria, was second in command of the 1st Australian Clearing Hospital, and was stationed on the beach at Anzac Cove from the first day of the landing until stricken down. The deceased officer was born at Ballarat, and spent his early youth in Tasmania. He graduated from the Sydney University Medical School in 1893, and since 1896 had carried on an extensive practice at Mount Morgan. He gave up his practice on the outbreak of war, and offered his services to his country. In addition to being a skilful surgeon he was a public-spirited man, and took a great interest in public matters. He leaves a widow and three children, the youngest of whom graduated this year as a doctor of the Sydney University, and immediately left for service with the Royal Army Medical Corps.

LIEUT. BURNET.

Lieut. W. J. Burnet, who left Sydney in June with the 18th Battalion, has been wounded at the Dardanelles, and is now in hospital at Malta. Lieut. Burnet, at the age of 14, joined the Royal Naval Reserve as a cadet, afterwards being promoted to a petty officer. At the inauguration of compulsory training he was granted a second lieutenancy in the Balmain-Rozelle area, rising to captain, and one year winning the brigade competition with his company. He is the only son of the late Captain W. J. Burnet, R.N.R., and Mrs. Melcrum, of Balmain, and just prior to leaving for the front was married to a daughter of the Rev. J. Howell Price, of Waterloo.

SERGEANT-MAJOR C. R. LAMONT.

Mrs. Lamont, of Church-street, Ryde, has received a cable message announcing that her husband, Sergeant-Major C. R. Lamont, was killed in action at Gallipoli between August 21 and 25. The deceased soldier was 47 years of age, and prior to enlisting was employed in the Lands Title Office. He formerly resided at Glebe Point. He was the son of Neil Lamont, of Inverness, Scotland, and married Miss M. Barden, of St. Kilda, Victoria. He has left a widow and eight young children, the eldest of whom is but ten years of age.

Sergeant-Major Lamont had considerable military experience. In his youth he joined the Seaforth Highlanders, but at that time was unable to speak English. As soon as he had mastered the language, however, he was chosen with other non-commissioned officers to conduct a recruiting campaign among the Gaelic population. He was very successful in this work, and was complimented by his commanding officer.

On the formation of the Edgecliff Rifle Club he was appointed Sergeant-Major, and performed very efficient work, and was exceedingly well liked.

He joined the 18th Battalion under Colonel Chapman as Sergeant-Major, and before his departure for the front was the recipient of a presentation from the Edgecliff Rifle Club. Speaking in reply, he said that when he joined the army he regarded the regimental sergeant-major as the great king pin of the regiment, and he had always held the same opinion. Having given up all expectations after so many years, it was a proud day for him when he attained the coveted position, and found that he was a sergeant-major of an Australian battalion.

News of his death was communicated last night to the Edgecliff club on parade, and created a profound impression.

SERGEANT F. BECK.

Sergeant Frederick Beck (killed in action) was the eldest son of Alderman Beck, one of the pioneers of Bega. Deceased, who resided at Woollahra for several years, was employed in the mail branch of the Sydney G.P.O., and was attached to the 33rd Infantry at the time of enlisting. He took part in the heavy fighting that marked the Australasian landing at Gaba Tepe, when he was shot through both legs. After being away from the front for seven weeks he sufficiently recovered to take his place again in the firing line. His only brother, Charles (draughtsman in the Registrar-General's Office, Sydney), is also at the front.

PRIVATE FOWLER.

Private L. J. D. Fowler, who has been killed in action, was a licensed surveyor, and the youngest son of Mr. Henry C. Fowler, surveyor, of Wyong, with whom he received his training. He was born at Petersham 28 years ago, and educated at Bowral. His brother Richard enlisted a few months ago.

PRIVATE LORD.

Private Burton St. L. Lord, whose death is announced, was 22 years of age, and the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Lord, of Strathfield. He was educated at the Sydney Grammar School, and served his apprenticeship to the engineering at the works of Chapman and Co., Sydney. At the time of enlistment he was an engineer on Messrs. Huddart, Parker, and Co.'s steamer Zealandia. He had been in action at the Dardanelles for a month when his death occurred of illness.

PRIVATE WM. A. SHOEBRIDGE.

Word has been received that Private Wm. A. Shoebridge, of Station-street, Ryde, was killed in action on August 27. Private Shoebridge was employed by the Water and Sewerage Board, and was the son of Mr. A. J. Shoebridge, of the Tramway Department. Deceased was 27 years of age, and leaves a widow and two children.

PRIVATE W. SIMMONS.

Private W. Simmons, a Bathurst boy, is officially reported missing at Gallipoli. He was for ten years postmaster at Eugowra, having previously been a telegraphist in the Bathurst office. After leaving the service he went into a farming partnership at Eugowra, and successfully experimented with the application of electricity to wheat culture.

PRIVATE PROTHEROE.

Private Thomas A. Protheroe, who has been killed in action, was the only son of Mrs. S. Protheroe, of Caroline-street, Redfern, and was 24 years of age. He left Sydney with [illegible] Battalion. He was a well-known footballer, being a member last season of the Redfern United Club.

PRIVATE MADDEN.

Private W. R. Madden, who is reported missing, is a native of Newtown, and was employed at the Eveleigh workshops. His wife and two children reside in Silver-street, St. Peters.

PRIVATE H. H. BURNICLE.

Private Harry Hector Burnicle reported missing since August 23, left Sydney with the 6th Reinforcements, 13th Battalion. He is 21 years of age, was born and educated in Balmain, and, prior to joining the A.I.F., was employed as a ship's fireman.

PRIVATE C. TAYLOR.

Private C. Taylor, of the 6th Reinforcements, 13th Battalion (missing), is 32 years of age, and resides at Newtown. Prior to enlisting he was employed at Anthony Hordern and Sons, and was an active member of that firm's rifle club. He was also an ex-member of the 1st Australian Infantry Regiment. Another brother, Corporal J. Taylor, is at present in the firing line with the 17th Battalion, and a third, F. W. Taylor, who went to New Guinea with the 1st N. and M. Expedition, is now in camp at Liverpool.

PRIVATE W. J. GEMMELL.

It is officially reported that Private W. J. Gemmell, of the 7th Light Horse, died of wounds on August 26. The deceased was 29 years of age. Prior to enlisting he was employed at Gould Bros. and Co.'s sawmill, Singleton.

PRIVATE F. DILLON.

News has been received at Portland of Private Frank Dillon, who was killed in action on August 22. He was for several years employed at the cement works, and was one of the leading cricketers and footballers in the competitions at Portland.

TENTERFIELD MEN.

TENTERFIELD, Monday.

The relations of Private Lionel Bentley, who volunteered from here, have been notified that he has died of wounds. The death is also notified of Corporal Arthur Reginald Neimes, whose parents live here. The deceased was previously a resident of Leichhardt. He leaves a wife and five children.

CHARGE OF ARSON.

YOUTH SENTENCED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

At the Shepparton Supreme Court to-day Edmund James Heath, 18 years of age, was charged with having, on May 28, at Cobram, set fire to a house. The building, which was of weatherboard, was occupied by James Henry Johnson, a butcher, and his family, and the accused resided with them. In a statement made to Constable Tennant, Heath admitted that because he had been charged by Mrs. Johnson with stealing half a crown and because Mr. Johnson had threatened to chastise him, he put some papers in a sock, and having set fire to it threw it under one of the beds. The building and furniture were completely destroyed. While on bail on the present charge he stole a hide from Johnson, who was his bondsman, and for which offence he is undergoing a term of 14 days' imprisonment.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty, and the accused was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment with light labour.

STATE SESSION.

TWO MONTHS' SUPPLY

STATE FINANCES.

In the Legislative Assembly last night the Acting Premier, Mr. Cann, asked the House for a two-months Supply Bill.

The newly-elected member for Willoughby, Mr. John Haynes, took his seat on the Opposition cross-benches.

PATRIOTIC FUNDS INQUIRY.

Mr. Thrower, amid Ministerial cheers, gave notice of a motion that a Royal Commission be immediately appointed to inquire into the administration of the patriotic war funds and the Australia Day Fund.

STATE WHEAT FARM.

Mr. McGirr asked the Minister for Agriculture if it was not a fact that the Government wheat farm at Woodlands was a failure.

Mr. Grahame replied that there were 5000 acres of wheat which would make good hay, and 7000 acres would yield good grain if rain fell within the next fortnight.

WHEAT ACT VALIDITY.

Mr. Colquhoun asked the Attorney-General whether it was not a fact that, although he stated that such firms as John Darling and Co. could easily have tested the Wheat Acquisition Act if they thought it invalid, he had allowed this firm to export wheat on a guarantee being given by them that they would take no steps to test the legality of the Act.

Mr. Hall said that the statement made by him in the course of the debate was absolutely correct. The seizure cost the executors of John Darling thousands of pounds, and they could have tested the action of the Government if they thought the Government was in the wrong. When the Government released half this firm's wheat the firm signed an indemnity, and that closed the incident.

Opposition members: Oh, oh! You did not tell us that before.

Mr. Hall said that the Government had released half of John Darling's wheat when it found that there would be sufficient in the State for local requirements.

DEMOCRATIC ETIQUETTE.

Mr. J. Storey asked the Acting Premier if he was aware that "the democrats of the Federal Legislature" in issuing invitations to members of Parliament to be present at the launching of the Brisbane, at Cockatoo Island, were giving Federal members tickets entitling them to a privileged position on a raised platform, while State members were to be kept in the background, and would he protest that members of the State Parliament should be treated with respect.

Mr. Cann said he was not aware, and he did not feel called upon to make any protest.

Mr. Fitzpatrick: How these Christians love each other!

ADDITIONAL WHEAT AREAS.

The Minister for Agriculture stated, in reply to Mr. Ball, that he would consider the question of extending the time for the lodging of notices re additional areas put under wheat by farmers, although it had already been extended from August 31 to September 15.

RECRUITING CAMPAIGN.

The Acting Premier stated, in answer to Dr. Arthur, that the Government had come to no decision yet regarding the proposal to have a second recruiting campaign.

SOLDIERS' PENSIONS.

Mr. John Storey asked if the attention of the Government had been drawn to the form which was used by the patriotic committee in dealing with applicants for relief. The form which had to be filled up was longer than an application for the old-age pension. (Laughter.) All sorts of absurd questions had to be answered. In the case of a man who had lost an arm, he was asked to state if there was contributory negligence. (Laughter.) He had also to produce the certificate of a doctor, and sign a statutory declaration.

Mr. Black said he would like a copy of the question so as to be able to reply to it.

DESERTERS.

Mr. Henley asked what steps were being taken by the Government to deal with the large number of military deserters.

A Ministerialist: What is the percentage?

Mr. Henley: Thirty per cent. I am told.

The Acting Premier (Mr. Cann) said he would get the information without delay from reliable sources.

DENTAL BOARD.

Captain Toombs wished to know what steps the Government had taken regarding the finding of the Royal Commissioner who had inquired into the administration of the Dental Board?

Mr. Cann understood that the Commission report reached the Government on Monday. It had not yet come before the Cabinet. Therefore he could not say what steps would be taken to carry out the recommendations of the Commissioner.

STATE BAKERY.

Mr. Fitzpatrick asked if it was a fact that the salary of Mr. Boss, the manager of the State Bakery, had been increased.

Mr. Hall: The answer is yes.

Mr. Cochran asked the Acting Premier if it was a fact that Mr. Boss, the manager of the State Bakery, was now being paid £500 a year in the face of the Acting Premier's statement that the Government had decided not to sanction any Civil Service increases. He would also like to know was this favoured individual appointed by the Public Service Board? Had he applied for an increase? What were the reasons for granting it?

Mr. Cann explained that in an answer he had given about increases he did not refer to anyone outside the recognised Public Service departments.

Mr. Cochran: I now ask the Attorney-General the same question.

Mr. Hall said that the work at the State bakery had proved heavier and more profitable than the Government thought it would be when Mr. Boss was appointed. There had been a clear profit of £3000. (Opposition members: Thanks to the war and the military camps.) Bearing in mind that the manager could have obtained a bigger figure outside, he (Mr. Hall) looked upon the salary of £300 a year as too small for the position.

HOTEL CLOSING.

Mr. Perry wanted to know if the Cabinet had taken any action in regard to the early closing of hotels.

Mr. Cann: Not yet. (Opposition laughter.)

CIVIL SERVICE INCREASES.

Mr. Wade asked if the juniors in the Civil Service had received an intimation that there would not be any increases in salary?

Mr. Cann: All departments had been notified that there would not be increments this year.

NECESSARY COMMODITIES ACT.

Dr. Arthur, in the form of a question, called attention to the way in which trade was being disturbed, he said, by the Necessary Commodities Control Commission. Was it not time, he asked, that the Commission adjourned sine die?—(Opposition laughter)—or was compelled to close up.

Mr. Hall, in reply, said it was difficult to understand how an hon. member could ask such a question. On behalf of the Government, he could assure the hon. member for Middle Harbour that they had not the slightest intention of asking the Necessary Commodities Commission to cease its good work.

EIGHT-HOURS PROCESSION.

Mr. Cann was asked to make representations to the Defence authorities for leave to be granted to soldier unionists to take part in the Eight-hours Procession. The Acting Premier was not sure whether it would be wise to make such a request, but promised.

GOVERNMENT CHAFF.

Mr. Price moved the adjournment of the House to call attention to what he described as the unsatisfactory and unbusiness-like methods adopted by the Government in connection with the importation and disposal of fodder. He alleged that the chaff had been adulterated by the addition of from four to six bags of oats to each 24 bags of chaff. Right through the transaction there had been a lack of business capacity displayed by the gentlemen interested, and the cost to the country was £14 per ton for chaff that would not bring £3 10s in the auction-room. The chaff was purchased from a German firm, with its headquarters at Hamburg and branches all over the United States. The money so badly needed in our own country was going to German shareholders, and, not content with that, the Government had employed another German firm to cut it up when it arrived in Australia.

Mr. Ashford (Minister for Agriculture) said that the statements made by the member for Gloucester were only half-truths. The Government had imported 5000 tons of hay and chaff to supply necessitous farmers only when it was found impossible to buy it locally. It had cost from £9 5s to £9 17s 6d per ton, which was a reasonable price at the time. He denied that the hay contained noxious weeds, and emphasised that it was good, clean American hay. Although the Government would lose on the imported hay, their action in supplying farmers with fodder had proved of great benefit to the State. The Government had dealt with an American firm for the hay, and Stockmann and Klienig, who secured the contract to cut it here, had a Yorkshireman as manager, while all the employees were British.

When the House resumed, the Speaker ruled that the Government business must be proceeded with.

Mr. Fitzpatrick asked if he would be allowed to continue the debate on Tuesday next.

The Speaker said he could not make any promise.

SUPPLY BILL.

MR. CANN'S STATEMENT.

The Acting Premier moved, on behalf of Mr. Holman, for the suspension of the standing orders to admit of the passage through all its stages at the sitting of a supply bill.

Mr. Cann said he had hoped that the Treasurer would have been able to make a statement as to the condition of the finances of the country before the House was asked to grant supply. Hon members were well aware of the serious condition of the State. What was to be done in the future was now being discussed by the Conference of Treasurers in Melbourne. That was the reason why a financial statement had not been made before the conference. The Premier, as they knew, had gone to Melbourne. It did not follow that the Government would go the full period of supply granted.

Mr. Cohen: How long are you asking for?

Mr. Cann: The Government was asking for two months. When the supply now asked for was exhausted, five months of the financial year would have passed.

Mr. Cohen said the excuse of the Premier's absence in Melbourne would not hold water. A week ago the Premier stated that there was no necessity for him to go to Melbourne to attend the conference, at which the Government would be represented by his colleague, Mr. Hoyle. Five months of the financial year would have gone if the bill were assented to without the Treasurer giving them some idea of how the finances stood. It was an unheard of thing, and the excuses advanced were paltry.

Mr. Fitzpatrick asked where was the necessity for asking for two months' supply at the present juncture, and one month's supply would have been ample to meet the case.

The motion was carried.

In moving that supply be granted, Mr. Cann said the Government would be able to see the loan expenditure right through to the end of the financial year. The revenue from Governmental sources had actually increased on the last year's figures by about £30,000. The revenue received from public services, however, had diminished by about £90,000, so that the shrinkage was in the neighbourhood of £50,000. The present period was the spending period, and during the next few months increased revenue might be expected: so that although the consolidated revenue might now show somewhat badly, it should right itself before the end of the year. The Government had been retrenching as far as possible, and economies were being practised in various directions. These economies more than made up the difference in the revenue.

MR. WADDELL'S CRITICISM.

Mr. Waddell dwelt on the failure of the Government to make provision for the carrying out of railway duplication work. While £447,000 had been spent on other loan works during August, only £107,000 had been spent on duplication work, which would almost at once be reproductive. Thousands of pounds worth of stock were lost every year because of the failure of the Government to supply facilities for getting them away, and the same applied in the wheat districts, where it was a common sight to see grain rotting at the stations for weeks. While matters of such great urgency were on the tapis, said the speaker, the expenditure of money on such works as the new railway station was quite unjustified.

Mr. Waddell went on to refer to the recent North Shore gas strike, which he said was one of the greatest scandals ever perpetrated in New South Wales. The most serious point about it was the strange decision given by Mr. J. B. Holme, Under-Secretary for Labour and Industry, who had turned wrong into right, and right into wrong, and had thrown the blame for the trouble on what was manifestly the innocent party. (Opposition cheers.) A more scandalous miscarriage of justice had never occurred, and if the Government did its duty the officer responsible should at once be put out of office. "What was the Government going to do?" he asked. "Were they prepared to allow men to break the arbitration laws with impunity, and thus admit that the unions had a right to dominate the country. The people in the northern suburbs had had brought home to them what Labour rule meant, and the result of the recent Willoughby election showed plainly that they were determined not to support men who could condone such actions on the part of a few irresponsible unionists."

Continuing his speech, Mr. Waddell asked the Government to do its duty in prosecuting and punishing those who broke the law of the land. What was the use of spending £50,000 on the administration of the Arbitration Courts when their awards and decisions were ignored and flouted. Finally, he said that the Government should commence a vigorous policy of retrenchment, commencing with all grades of the Civil Service.

NO RETRENCHMENT.

Mr. Cann, replying to Mr. Waddell, said that retrenchment was the hon. member's keynote. Yet, while advocating retrenchment he would have the Government spend more money than the very large sum which was now being spent on railway duplications. He (Mr. Cann) did not see the necessity for cutting down or slaughtering wages. What right had hon. members to assume that men would not be prosecuted if they broke the law.

Mr. Levy: You are afraid of the unions, and everyone knows it.

Mr. Cann: The Government would do its duty without going out to look for scalps.

MR. HAYNES.

Mr. Haynes was not long in getting into his Parliamentary stride, and his speech roundly criticising the Government created a stir. "Where is the Premier?" he asked. "He was," he added, "afraid to stay here to meet me." (Loud Ministerial laughter.) The Premier had from a platform during the by-election threatened him with arrest, and stated that he was communicating with the Attorney-General of the Commonwealth to see if he could not arrest John Haynes. If Chambers had been returned, Mr. Holman would have missed the 'bus for Melbourne. (Laughter.) His election was a message full of portentous meaning to the Government.

Mr. Haynes said he had been driven out of Parliament by a gang of thieves. He had come back as the member for Willoughby without the assistance of either party. He had not received any support in his election from the Opposition. The members thought they had the public by the ears. Instead of that the public had them by the throats.

The debate was continued by Captain Toombs, who said he had waited to meet Mr. Haynes on the floor of the House to refute his charge of disloyalty against the Government.

Mr. Haynes: I never said that.

The resolution that the amount asked for be granted was carried on the voices.

The Supply Bill was carried through all its stages.

The House adjourned at 1.30 a.m. till this afternoon.

HEALTH INSPECTORS' CONFERENCE.

The annual conference of the Health Inspectors' Society was continued at the Southern Cross Hall, Castlereagh-street, yesterday, the president, Mr. J. J. Hiles, presiding.

The following resolutions were agreed to:—"That owners of tip-carts should be licensed and a number-plate fixed on the cart, and that the said owners should be responsible for the name and address of the driver." "That ordinance 39 be amended so as to compel owners of dwellings and tenements to provide and maintain a supply of water of not less than four gallons per minute from at least one tap on each floor or storey." "That the Minister be asked to extend the definition of owner in the Local Government Act similar to that in the Public Health Act, so as to include the agent or person receiving the rent." "That the time is now ripe for the Board of Health to authorise health inspectors to purchase for analysis samples of food other than milk." "That the ordinances under the Local Government Act be amended to provide a penalty for any person refusing to give his name and address, or for giving a false name and address, when called upon by an inspector."

At the afternoon session papers were read by Dr. F. M. Suckling, Medical Officer of Health on "The Hygiene of Clothing and Exercise," and by Mr. A. E. Wadsworth, Health and Food Inspector for the Federal Territory.

IRON TRADES TROUBLE.

BRISBANE, Monday.

In Chambers this morning Judge Macnaughton, of the Industrial Court, presided at a compulsory conference between the representatives of the Metal Moulders and Boilermakers' societies and Ironmasters' Association, when a new agreement was arrived at, fixing the hours at 44 per week and granting slightly increased wages.

DISMISSED THE SERVICE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Notification is contained in the Commonwealth Gazette of the dismissal from the Public Service of Solly Burvell, a clerk in the Treasury, who was three times charged with having stolen £200 in notes. On each occasion the juries disagreed. Prior to the proceedings in the Criminal Court a departmental board was constituted to hear charges against Burvell. The board suspended its sitting to await the decision of the Court, and resumed its sittings subsequently.

POSITIONS FOR RETURNED SOLDIERS.

EMPLOYERS FORM A COUNCIL.

Some weeks ago, the council of the Employers' Federation had under consideration the question of finding employment for returned soldiers. It was realised that, sooner or later, this would become a serious problem, and it was felt that a central organisation of employers should immediately be brought into existence, to be ready to assist in dealing with this important matter. After discussion, the following resolution was carried:—

> "That a committee of employers be formed for the purpose of co-operating with the Government in finding employment for returned soldiers. That the Chamber of Commerce and Chamber of Manufactures be asked to co-operate with the Employers' Federation for this purpose, and to each appoint four members, to act with a similar number from this council on this committee."

The committee has now been formed. Employers as a body have pledged themselves to give preference of employment to men who have been on active service, and large numbers of employers have promised to reinstate employees after the war in positions equivalent to those previously held by them.

MILK AT MANLY.

The Necessary Commodities Control Commission has refused to increase the price of country milk at Manly to 6d a quart. On July 29 the price of country milk was fixed at 5½d a quart. On September 4 the price was brought down to 5d a quart by the Commission.

ECHO OF THE SNOW CASE.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

The charge against Alfred J. Coulls of having aided and abetted Francis Hugh Snow in an attempt to trade with the enemy, which had been adjorned time after time since it was originally called on in January last, was proceeded with in the Adelaide Police Court, before Mr. Gepp, S.M., to-day.

WILLOUGHBY ELECTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Kindly permit, as one who took a somewhat active interest in the Willoughby bye-election, to join issue with you on certain statements placed before your readers in Monday's issue. Your remarks to the effect that the poll on Saturday of 6207 was by no means fully representative of the voting strength, owing to the fact that 12,459 names appeared on the roll, is somewhat misleading. The actual position is that the law provides for an annual police collection of the rolls, and such collection is made during the months of February to April. The police list of 1914 contained 12,383 names (to which subsequently 76 names were added on a supplemental before the issuing of the writ).

This list automatically became the electoral roll, which in turn would have been superseded by the police collection of this year. However, although the list for April of this year was available, no steps were taken to print it hurriedly and convert it into a roll, because of the general feeling that no contest would be held in Willoughby, consequent on the "honourable understanding" between the leaders of the two respective parties. It was thus found necessary to contest the bye-election on a roll 18 months old, and as the annual normal fluctuation in Willoughby (as in other suburban electorates) is between 3000 and 4000, the figures disclose the fact that, in April of this year, over 3000 names appearing on the 1914 rolls had been struck off, and nearly 4000 new ones were entitled to be added.

Taking the interval from April last to September, it is safe to assume that quite another 1500 have removed from Willoughby, more particularly under reigning abnormal conditions, with so many men volunteering for service. Thus we find that, instead of there being 12,459 people eligible to vote, a deduction must be made of about 5000, leaving only some 7500 people actually residing in Willoughby, who were on the roll for last Saturday's contest. As over 6000 voted, it will readily be seen the percentage of votes cast was an extremely high one.

Mr. Wade's statement "that any reduction of Labour's strength of 1913 is compensated for by the new electors on the rolls during the last 20 months," is absolutely inaccurate. The trouble is the new electors are not on the rolls, and in Willoughby to-day there are over 4000 people who are eligible to vote by length of residence, but who were deterred because the police collection of 1914 was used, and it is desirable to point out that such collection was made three months after the 1913 election.

It is useless to attempt to make the public believe that the seat was lost because of this reason or that; the only accurate explanation of it is that 90 per cent. of the Liberals eligible to vote did so, and against the Labour candidate. An honourable minority consisting of a hundred or so refrained from voting, impelled by the spirit that was responsible for the "unwritten agreement" coming into existence.

It was obvious to us quite early in the day that Liberal voters were rolling up in full strength—many well-known Liberals who had assured our canvassers they did not intend to vote, came along to the polling booth in Mr. Haynes's conveyances, and officials of the local Liberal bodies were busily assisting in his campaign. It is of no use lamenting or holding "post mortems," but the fact remains that Mr. Chambers was beaten because a code of honour, held by the Labourites to be real, was regarded by the Liberals as imaginary, and we realised only too late that our trust in the honour of Liberalism at Willoughby was misguided.

The effects of this contest will be far-reaching. The late member for Willoughby, Sergeant Larkin, gave his life for his country; his campaign secretary is now battling along bravely at the front, and hundreds of his supporters are following suit. Is it to be reasonably expected that others will follow in their footsteps, with the knowledge they possess, that, in the absence of their fellow workers, and whilst thousands of others are disfranchised, their opponents sacrifice every shred of honour and seize the opportunity to promote a bitter political conflict and take possession of an electorate that, under normal circumstances, would have remained in the possession of the Labour party until the life of this Parliament had expired by effluxion of time? It is useless beating the air with excuses that the candidate, Mr. Chambers, was a pro-German (which is absolutely untrue), or Holman did this or that, or that the cost of living question was responsible. The simple fact is the Liberal electors voted solidly, in contravention of all ethics of decency and honour, and this fact will remain embedded in the minds of thousands of possible recruits for many a long day.

Perhaps I cannot give a better illustration of the Liberal attitude in this matter than to quote a letter to the "Sydney Morning Herald" one day last week by a Mr. (or Dr.) Shand. This gentleman, who was a prominent supporter of Sir William McMillan's in 1913, went so far as to state that he believed that the late Sergeant Larkin did not go to the front of his own initiative, but to save the face of his party, and this gentleman urged Liberals to vote on Saturday. Could one imagine anything more contemptible than a cowardly attack of this kind on a fallen hero, on a man who not only freely offered his services in this war, but had previously seen service in South Africa?

The more one dwells on these matters, Sir, the more one realises that, in promoting a bitter political campaign of the type just concluded, those responsible are going to have a good deal to answer for in the near future.

I am, etc., J. P. OSBORNE.

Parliament House, Sept. 27.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As I was besieged on the telephone by inquirers as to how they should vote before the second ballot last week, I thought the easiest way to answer them was through your columns. My letter has brought forth so many angry vituperations from the so-called Labour party, that I hope you will allow me a little space to answer them. First, I am told I should apologise. Now I cannot do that for writing what I thought, and still think, the truth. Then I am accused of casting aspersions on the late hero's memory. In answer to that, I firmly believe, if he were here, he would shake me by the hand and thank me for what I wrote. The reason the so-called Labourites lost the seat was not due to any action by Mr. Wade, who acted as only an honourable man such as he is could do, under the circumstances, but rather to their own superfluous verbosity. If Mr. Holman had not visited the district, and if other members of the party had merely bleated Labour, Labour, Labour, instead of scurrilously libelling a well-known member of the district, they would have gained more votes. But as this is really a Liberal seat, it should never, except by mismanagement, get into so-called Labour hands again.

The people who voted for Mr. Haynes were Liberals, who voted Labour last time, or omitted to vote, because of the unprecedented confusion in the last ballot.

I am, etc.,

J. CAPPIE SHAND.

DEPUTATIONS.

MR. TUDOR'S VISIT.

EXPORT OF TIN.

A protest against an export duty to any extent being placed upon tin was entered by a deputation consisting of Messrs. W. Tarlton and Kirk, representing the Mine Owners' Association of New South Wales, which waited upon the Minister for Trade and Customs (Mr. Tudor) yesterday.

It was urged upon the Minister that an excessive duty, imposed for the purpose of fostering the smelting industry, would be unfair, because there were 7000 miners engaged in the tin industry, whereas there were only about 100 people engaged in tin smelting in Australia.

The Minister informed the deputation that the matter was to be considered at the Premiers' Conference this week. He pointed out, however, that it was feared by the Government that, as they had no control over the tin after it was exported, the metal might get into undesirable hands. He promised also to lay the matter before the Federal Cabinet.

MEAT QUESTION.

Mr. F. W. Hughes and other representatives of the Frozen Meat Exporters' Association called upon the Minister for Trade and Customs (Mr. Tudor) in connection with the export of meat. They said that the position was getting very serious.

Mr. Tudor informed them that although he had again communicated with Victoria and South Australia concerning their requirements, he still awaited an answer. He hoped to be able to let them have a definite reply before he returned to Melbourne on Friday next. He again cautioned them to be very careful, if the embargo were lifted to a certain extent, in rushing meat away.

Mr. Tudor also drew attention to the complaints he had heard on the previous day from the master butchers regarding the price of mutton and the extra 6lb in the sheep for local consumption.

Mr. Hughes assured the Minister that he could make a statutory declaration that the price he had obtained for mutton last week was 4.27d per lb. He denied that the difference in weight between the export sheep and the sheep for local consumption was 6lb.

MANUFACTURE OF EITHER.

The necessity for the imposition of an import duty upon ether was urged upon the Minister for Trade and Customs (Mr. Tudor) yesterday, by Mr. B. Turner, manager of the Woolwich Chemical Works. Mr. Turner explained that good ether was being manufactured here, but the industry could make very little progress, owing to the fact that imported ether was allowed in free.

The Minister promised to give the matter consideration.

SKIN TRADE.

Representatives of the wool, basil, sheepskin, and combing industries waited upon the Minister for Trade and Customs (Mr. Tudor) yesterday, and asked for protection in the form of an embargo on the wholesale export of raw material.

Mr. E. Riley, M.P., introduced the deputation, and said it had been demonstrated that they could do more than produce the raw material. This war had given them the opportunity to show they could produce almost the finished article. Thousands of men were engaged in the industry.

The members of the deputation pointed out that about eight million sheepskins, untreated in any way except drying, were exported from Australia every year. If the fellmongering of these skins were done here it would mean at least £400,000 in wages alone.

The Minister informed the deputation that the Government realised that the conditions that would obtain at the end of the war would be very serious, and that everything should be done for the purpose of finding employment for people. He said he would put the matter before his Government in a favourable light.

EXPORT OF WHEAT.

MILLERS AND THE EMBARGO

Information concerning the intentions of the Federal Government in regard to the exportation of wheat and its products was sought by Messrs. Gillespie, Brunton, and Adkins, who, as representatives of the flour-milling industry, waited upon the Minister for Trade and Customs (Mr. Tudor) yesterday.

Mr. Gillespie said that milling would probably start in about six weeks. Java, the Philippine and South Sea Islands, China and some of the sea ports of the United States were markets for Australia's prospective great wheat production.

Mr Tudor: Is there any re-exportation from these places. I will say at once that if the ordinary exportation to these places was, say, 10,000 tons, the Government would not allow much more to be exported. The main thing the Government is concerned about is making sure that wheat or flour does not fall into enemy channels.

Mr. Gillespie said that they also wanted the bran and pollard duties re-imposed. Since the duty had been lifted, Japanese bran was being sold in Sydney, he said, at £2 per ton, whereas the ordinary price was £3 15s. The Japanese stuff was flooding the market.

Mr. Brunton: There are about 6000 tons of Japanese bran in store in Sydney to-day.

Mr. Gillespie went on to say that the price of flour depended largely upon the price of offal. The millers wanted the Government to put the duties on offal again, so long as the millers showed that they had a good case.

The Minister, replying, said that when the country was faced with a drought, the Government prevented the export, except to the Pacific Islands, which were absolutely dependent upon Australia for flour and wheat. He had no doubt that the restrictions upon the export should be lifted as soon as it was shown that an exportable surplus could be shipped away with advantage to the Commonwealth, the United Kingdom, however, being the only place to which the flour could be sent. The Government was heartily in favour of sending flour away instead of wheat, as the milling gave employment here.

Regarding the request for the re-imposition of the duties on bran and pollard, Mr. Tudor explained that no Government gave notice of its intention to take off or impose duties, because people stacked up supplies ahead of the event. He promised to place the matter before the Cabinet, and tell them there was an assured surplus of wheat and flour.

STATE DEBTS.

CONSOLIDATION PROPOSAL.

PREMIERS' CONFERENCE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Premiers' Conference was continued today. At the close of the day's proceedings the following statement was made by the Victorian Minister for Public Works (Mr. Hagelthorn):—In regard to finance, we have had a long discussion. We had two interviews with the Prime Minister and the Federal Attorney-General, and no decision has so far been arrived at. We discussed the question of the management of the States' debts, and the obtaining of loan moneys by the establishment of some authority for the purpose. Although these latter matters have had the attention of previous conferences, we were not ready to take any definite action on account of the prevailing war conditions. Still, we passed this resolution:—

"That the Governments of the respective States be requested to formulate suggestions with regard to the issue of loans and the management of State debts by some single authority; the authority to have full governance of all matters with the exception of the amount of the issue; the suggestions, when formulated, to be forwarded to the Premier of New South Wales in order that he may advise the several Governments and arrange for an early consideration of the whole question."

A scheme was put forward as a basis upon which plans could be formulated.

The question of an export duty on tin was considered. It was decided to allow the States interested, New South Wales, Queensland, and Western Australia, to make their own representations to the Federal Government. We also discussed the question of the fixing of prices of wheat, and decided that there was no occasion to take any definite action, as the incoming harvest will soon make conditions regular again.

The Premier of New South Wales (Mr. Holman), when seen to-night on the question of the States borrowing more money, would not discuss the subject in detail. He stated that the business was proceeding satisfactorily, and that he was very hopeful that in the end everything would work out all right. It would be a mistake to suppose that the proposals which were put before the conference suggested the only course open to the States. There were other ways of meeting the situation, and these would be considered if those before the conference failed, which he did not think would be the case.

The conference will meet again to-morrow.

CASUALTIES.

CITY CORONER'S COURT.

A verdict of suicide was returned by the City Coroner, Mr. H. S. Hawkins, yesterday morning, after an inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the death of Emily Rubina Harvey, single, 23 years of age, lately residing at 272 Johnston-street, Annandale, who died at the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital on September 25, from the effects of poisoning.

A similar verdict was returned in connection with the death of Francis John M'Donald, 45, a farmer, who was found lying dead on the floor of his bedroom at Isabella, Brighton-road, Coogee, on September 18. In his clothing was found a bottle labelled strychnine.

RED CROSS "REST ROOM."

The Red Cross workers have formed a little club of their own—a club that is likely to grow into large dimensions. A suite of rooms has been obtained on the fifth floor of the Primrose-building, 255A George-street, for a nominal rent, and the rooms have been tastefully furnished and decorated. A small committee has been formed to manage affairs.

The object is to provide a meeting and resting place for the Red Cross workers when they come into the city. The rent is being paid, and the rooms have been furnished by the ladies themselves, and not at the expense of the Red Cross Society. There is a fine large "rest-room," with writing table and easy chairs, and several of the charming works of art hanging on the walls have been presented by Miss Gladys Owen, one of the hon. secretaries of the Red Cross Society, and Miss Ethel Stephen. Adjoining is another large room, where the general committee of the Red Cross now holds its meetings. And next to that is a little kitchen, which the ladies will find very handy. There is another room which is used for executive purposes.

SMALL ARMS FACTORY.

THE THIRD SHIFT.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Referring to a meeting of the Small Arms Factory at Lithgow, at which the third shift was advocated, the Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) stated to-day that personally he was in favour of the proposed innovation. The same difficulties would be in the way of a third shift as were experienced in the second shift, and the overcoming of them would take time. He had written to the manager of the factory, and was now awaiting a reply as to when the third shift could be introduced.

POSTMASTERS.

ARBITRATION CASE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the Arbitration Court to-day, before Mr. Justice Powers, the hearing was continued of the claims lodged by the postmasters for increased rates of salary and district allowances, reduction in hours, etc. Separate plaints on behalf of the postmasters were filed by the Commonwealth Postmasters' Association, and by the Commonwealth Post and Telegraph Officers' Association.

John Jackson, postal inspector, said, in his opinion, post-offices with a revenue of £500 a year should be graded as clerical, and be staffed by a clerical officer, with a salary of £200 to £240 per year. Postmasters' pay was too low at present.

The case is part heard.

A LOST MAJORITY.

PERTH, Tuesday.

Mr. Joseph Gardiner, Labour member for Roebourne, has not attended the Western Australian Legislative Assembly this session. His actual whereabouts is uncertain. The time for which a member can absent himself without leave expires to-night. It is expected that the Speaker to-morrow will declare his seat vacant. Mr. Gardiner constitutes the Labour majority of one over the Liberal and Country parties.

THE TERRITORY.

LIQUOR NATIONALISATION.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

An ordnance was passed by the Federal Executive Council to-day to nationalise the supply of liquor in the Northern Territory between Darwin and the Katherine River and such other parts of the Territory as may be subsequently proclaimed. The ordinance provides that no liquor shall be imported or introduced into or sold, offered for sale, or supplied in the Territory except by the supervisor of hotels or an officer under him. The penalty provided for an offence against this provision is £500, or 12 months' imprisonment, or both together, with the forfeiture of the liquor concerned.

NATURALISED GERMAN FINED.

At the Central Police Court yesterday Hugh Frederick Schenk, a naturalised German, was charged with knowing that Anton Edward Behrmann was acting in contravention of section 14 of the Aliens' Restriction Act, in that he, being a naturalised subject of enemy origin, had in his possession a revolver and 80 rounds of ammunition, and did not inform a competent naval or military officer of the fact.

Schenk's defence was that he was unaware of the fact that having the knowledge that Behrmann had the weapon and cartridges constituted an offence.

Mr. Macfarlane, C.S.M., fined Schenk £25, the alternative being three months' imprisonment.

HERESY HUNT.

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN CASE.

LABOUR MAN BANNED.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

The twelfth annual conference of the United Labour Party of South Australia was opened at the Trades Hall on Monday. The president, Mr. Anstey, M.P., presided, and there were 224 delegates present.

The chairman, almost immediately after the conference opened, called upon the Chief Secretary, Mr. Styles, to take the platform. Mr. Styles, after apologising for the absence of the Premier, referred to the election of Mr. J. P. Wilson, M.L.C., to the Railways Standing Committee, and traced the incidents which had occurred in connection with the election in the Legislative Council, as a result of which it was held, Mr. Wilson had not been loyal to the party. The caucus sought to elect another member of the Labour party to the position, and when the nominee was defeated Mr. Wilson would not resign.

On the motion of Mr. F. Lundie, it was decided to ask Mr. Wilson to resign his seat, as it belonged to the Labour party.

The chairman, at the request of the conference, asked Mr. Wilson to retire from the meeting, but the latter refused, stating that he was a representative of the Prospect local committee.

It was resolved that the Prospect committee should be informed of the decision of the conference, and be requested to send another delegate.

Mr. Wilson, in an interview, said he intended to retain his seat on the Railways Standing Committee, and would continue to possess Labour sentiments, although he thought the caucus had treated him shockingly. Trouble was brewing in the Labour ranks and among Labour supporters generally. The tendency was to-day to push aside the old Labour men, who had been in the battle front, and thus make way for the young bloods. He regretted the lamentable fact that the Labour caucus had handed over the power of government to the single-tax section, since the desires and principles of single-taxers were opposed to Labour doctrines.

GALLIPOLI.

CLIMATIC CONDITIONS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The following notes on the climate at Gallipoli have been prepared by Mr. H. A. Hunt, Commonwealth Meteorologist: Gallipoli is in a latitude of 40 deg. N, and is situated in the Mediterranean climatic province. Its climate is akin to that of Spain, and Italy, and also closely resembles that of the southern coast of Australia. The average annual temperature is 58 deg. F., that of Melbourne being 58.3 deg. F. Data for Gallipoli itself is not available, but the city of Constantinople is also situated at sea level in the same latitude, and only 120 miles to the east, so that the figures for the capital will closely represent those at Gallipoli. The chief characteristics of the Mediterranean climate are the warm, dry summers, and cool wet winters. The extremes of temperature are not large, owing to the coastal situations of the countries concerned. A comparison of the average temperatures during the various seasons, with those of Melbourne will be of interest. January in Turkey corresponds with July in Victoria, owing to the change of hemisphere.

THE LATE MR. KEIR HARDIE, M.P.

LONDON, Sept. 28.

A message has been received by Mr. Arthur Henderson (leader of the Labour party and President of the Board of Education), expressing the New South Wales Government's regret at Mr. Keir Hardie's death, whose loss is widely felt in New South Wales.

The Prime Minister of the Commonwealth (Mr. Fisher) sent a message of sympathy to Mr. Arthur Henderson in connection with the death of Mr. Keir Hardie.

"PEG O' MY HEART."

LONDON, Sept. 27.

Messrs. J. and N. Tait have secured the Australian and New Zealand rights of "Peg o' My Heart," which will open in Sydney at Easter.

STOCK EXCHANGE SALES.

The following sales were reported:—

Morning: B.H. North, 6 per cent. debentures, £100; Henry Jones, 25/9.

Afternoon: Mort's Dock, 17/3; Bellambi Coal, 22/9; Sydney Ferries, 23/6; Dalgety and Co., £6; Howard Smith and Co., 24/3; Farmer and Co. (pref.), £10/2/; Automatic Telephones, 2/.

FINANCIAL.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX.

DEDUCTIONS NOT ALLOWED.

Deductions not allowed under the Federal Income tax are:—

The cost of maintenance of taxpayer or family.

Domestic or private expenses.

Loss or expense recoverable under a contract of insurance or indemnity.

Income carried to reserve or capitalised.

Money not wholly or exclusively laid out or expended for the production of income.

Rent or value of or cost of repairs or alterations to premises not occupied for the purpose of producing income.

Any bad debts except those proved to be due to the satisfaction of the Commissioner and to have been proved bad debts and written off in the year in which the income was derived.

Amounts received on account of such bad debts shall be credited to income in the year in which they are received, and shall be subject to tax.

Any loss not connected with or arising out of the production of income or any capital withdrawn from any business producing income.

Any wastage or depreciation of lease, or loss occasioned by the expiration of lease.

Where any fine or premium is paid for a lease or renewal the Commissioner may allow as a deduction the sinking fund according to the recognised calculations required to recoup the taxpayer the amount paid for the lease.

Interest which might have been earned on any capital employed in the production of income if lent out at interest.

Payments made by husband to wife, or by wife to husband.

ASSESSMENT OF PARTNERS.

Inquirer asks:—

Two people are in business as partners. The net profits for the year is £600. Will the business be taxed on that amount; and will each of the partners be taxed on half of the profits in their private return?

The partners will be taxed each on his private return, which will include his share of the profit taken out of the business. Should all the profit not have been distributed, then the partnership will be taxed on the undistributed profit at the same rate in the £ as for £600.

ROSE BAY STARR BOWKETT.

The fifth annual report of the Rose Bay, Double Bay, and Watson's Bay Starr-Bowkett Building Society shows a credit of £1997, in addition to which there is a deferred profit of £2838 on appropriations by sale, which cannot be taken into account until actually realised. Advances during the year amounted to £5090. Subscriptions amounted to £4542, and total receipts to £7083. Assets are valued at £19,387, and liabilities to £15,151.

COLONIAL SUGAR COMPANY.

The following is a copy of the circular letter sent to shareholders of the above company by the board of directors:—

Dear Sir or Madam,—By direction of the board, I have to inform you that a special general meeting of the proprietors of this company will be held at these offices on the 29th instant at 2 o'clock in the afternoon to consider, and, if thought desirable, pass the following resolution, viz.:—

"That the directors be authorised to distribute in specie amongst the members registered on this date (in proportion to their respective interests) or their nominees all preference shares which the Colonial Sugar Refining Company, Limited, is entitled to receive from the Colonial Sugar Refining Company (Fiji and New Zealand), Limited, in payment for the assets in Fiji and New Zealand sold by the Colonial Sugar Refining Company, Limited, to the Colonial Sugar Refining Company (Fiji and New Zealand), Limited."

In the event of authority being given to distribute the preference shares above referred to, shareholders will be privileged to have their shares allotted to their nominees, provided notice of such requirement be given to the company on or before September 28 next. In the absence of instructions to the contrary by the date mentioned, all shares will be placed on the principal register of the company, viz., the Fiji register.

This meeting will be merely formal, and it is not proposed to make any statement to the proprietors on the occasion.

Yours obediently,
EDW. W. KNOX,
General Manager.

Note.—The term "in specie" used in the resolution means "in shares," not "in cash."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The report of the Bank of Australasia for the half-year ended April 9 states that deposits amounted to £20,699,952, cash and securities to £9,764,281, and bills to £19,427,302.

WAR CENSUS PROBLEMS.

A LIFE INTEREST SOLD.

Worried asks:—

Have the trustees of an estate, 30 years old, when the life tenant has disposed of her life interest, to furnish a return as to the value of such interest for the life tenant, or has the person who purchased the interest to furnish the return as a beneficiary?

No. The trustees furnish a return for the estate, but not for the life tenant. The purchaser of the life interest includes the value among his assets.

PROFITS AND GOODWILL.

J.D.D. puts the following questions:—

(1) A person sold a business for £3000, and later on bought again in another district for £1800, showing a profit of £1200. This amount was then invested in property in the wife's name, and she has included the income from that investment in her own paper. Should the man show the £1200 as portion of his income for the year?

(2) Estimated value of goodwill of business.—What is the correct meaning of this item? Does it mean the value a man places on his business as represented by what he wants for the business should be sell out?

(3) A business man who provides board and lodging for his employees, in addition to paying the prescribed wages. What amount should he allow for such board and lodging when making deduction to arrive at his net income?

(1) No. (2) The difference between the value of the business as a going concern and the surplus of assets over liabilities. (3) You must estimate the value of the board and quarters.

LAND PURCHASES.

"Land" states a case thus:—

(1) I purchased a block of land and placed it in my wife's name. I built a house on the block and signed the contract for its erection in my name, and the house still stands in my name. Whose name should the card be made out in? (2) I purchased some other land under the instalment plan in another State, and it is only partly paid up. Do I have to include this land on my card or does the vendor have to show it on his? Can I claim the balance owing on the land as a liability? (3) I purchased a piano on time-payment, and it is only partly paid for. Do I have to include the piano on my card as an asset? Can I show the balance owing on the piano as a liability?

(1) Two cards, one for yourself, one for your wife. Value of land on her card, value of house on yours, but what is to prevent your wife claiming the house? It is on her land. (2) Show it on your card, and the amount owing as a liability; (3) If under the usual hire agreement it is doubtful whether the piano would be considered your property.

LEGAL COSTS.

"In Doubt" declares:—

(1) In April last my mortgage was called in, and my property advertised for sale by the mortgagees; at the last moment I secured another mortgage, but had to pay two lots of legal costs, as well as certain other items, such as the expense incurred by the mortgagees in advertising my properties for sale—amounting altogether to £22. Can I make any deduction for these items, and if so, under what heading? (2) In January, 1914, a firm of solicitors had in hand for me a sum of money from the sale of a property, but I had to prove I was the person referred to in a certain document before they would pay it over; it was paid to me in August, 1914. Should this amount appear in my census return?

(1) Not as a deduction from income.

(2) It is capital, not income. If the money was still in your possession on June 30, 1915, it would be included among your assets, which are made up as at that date.

A SYNDICATE MANUFACTURE.

Proprietary asks:—

Whether any return should be made about the following, and, if so, how?

He is the largest holder in a small proprietary or syndicate manufacturing an article of every-day use. Up to the present it has been merely an expenditure of capital in the shape of advertisements, distribution of samples, etc. There has been no return at present, and, unfortunately, to yield any prospect of any dividend in the near future; in fact, it is requiring more and more money spent upon it. It is a liability at present, and not an asset, though in the end it should come out all right.

A return should be made on behalf of the syndicate in column B, giving its assets and liabilities. If it is manufacturing, it must at least have plant. Each member of the syndicate should value his individual interest, and include that interest in his own card.

MORTGAGED PROPERTY.

J.S.S. declares:—

(1) Being rather advanced in years I am out of employment and business. The greater portion of my land was under mortgage to a bank, during 1914 to 1915. I sold, in 1914, a portion which reduced my overdraft. Since June 30, 1915, I sold another portion which cleared my indebtedness to the bank. Will I have to enter on the card as income, the proceeds of the first sale? I note on the coming Federal Income Tax, sale of land will be exempt.

(2) Quarters. I am living with my family free for over 12 months. Must I account for this on the card?

(1) You state the value of your property and liabilities as at June 30. Money from land sold is not income. (2) No. The entry "Quarters" is for employees.

INCOME FROM LODGERS.

J.L.S. says:—

I allow so much a week for my mother to keep the house, besides the rent she receives from three lodgers. Would you be kind enough to let me know should she put my allowance to her's on the Census card.

If you pay your mother for your bare board, no; but if there is any profit from your allowance the profit must be included.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Redfern.—You have evidently made no allowance for return of capital expended on the property, such as the erection of buildings. J.P.G.: Estimate your net income after allowing for the replacement of capital and multiply the result by £13. Anxious: Each places the value of his share and his share of the liabilities on his own card in column A, and one must make, in addition, on another card of total value and liabilities in column B. X.Y.Z.: (1) If there is a return after paying expenses, yes. (2) Five per cent. of value, and under deductions the amount paid in interest. (3) Yes. C.I.R., Coolamon: Place the net rent on your card, and the value of your life interest. The children place the value of their interests on their cards.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

All lines of imported merchandise continue to be looked upon as good holding, not only on account of the difficulty in securing forward quotations, but also by reason of the scarcity of freight, which renders the date of future deliveries most uncertain. Yesterday, owing to these and other causes, the grocery houses refused to sell merchants parcels of any imported commodity. Tinned herrings were in very small supply, and holders asked high rates. Fresh herrings in 1lb tins were worth 9/, while for ½lb tins 5/6 was wanted. There was a steady inquiry for salmon at the new season's advanced prices. Jams and condensed milk moved out in average quantities at the proclaimed rates. The market for candied peel was easier. Lemon and orange peel were to be had at /7, and citron peel at 1/ per lb. There was no improvement in the position of safety matches. Japanese brands were overstocked, and in order to clear some merchants were prepared to do business at what appeared to be low prices.

Chemicals were well held. Tartaric acid, both powdered and crystals, attracted a good deal of attention, and a large number of orders were placed at 2/3. Melbourne bought a fair quantity at this figure. Shipments from Italy and the United Kingdom have been interrupted, and stocks on spot are in consequence not so large as is usual. The c.i.f. and e. quotation for November-December shipment of English acid is 2/2.

Merchants generally are of the opinion that prices for cream of tartar have reached bedrock. Yesterday 95 per cent. was worth anything from 1/8 to 1/10 per lb. Quotations from Marseilles for November-December shipment were firm at 1/9 c.i.f. and e. There were a few inquiries from Melbourne for citric acid, and several parcels were secured at 3/3. The indent price for November-December shipment from England is 3/2 c.i.f. and e.

The quotation for bran bags is steadily advancing, and yesterday requirements could not have been filled under 7/10½ and 8/ net to rails. These are extremely high rates for bran bags, and represent an initial charge on the chaff of about 16/ a ton. There was no change in cornsacks. Supplies in all positions were to be had at from 8/4½ to 8/6 net. Woolpacks were slightly stronger at from 2/9 to 2/10 net to rails.

METALS.

ALL-ROUND ADVANCES.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

Closing quotations on Monday were:—

Copper: Standard, spot, £70/17/6 to £71/2/6 a ton (£1/5/ higher); three months, £71/17/6 to £72/2/6 a ton (also £1/5/ higher).

Electrolytic Copper: £87 to £88 a ton (10s higher).

Tin: Standard spot, £152/10/ to £153 a ton (£1/2/6 higher); three months, £153 to £153/10/ a ton (17/6 higher).

Lead: Soft, foreign, spot, £24/7/6 a ton (2/6 higher); three months, £23/5/ a ton (5/ higher).

WOOL SALES.

At to-day's wool sales good merinos and crossbreds were firm. There were considerable withdrawals of faulties.

The following prices were realised for the fleeces of the various clips mentioned:—Wolfang, highest 16½d, average 13½d; Tambrey, 14½d, 13d. New Zealand: Gerard, 19d, 17¼d; Tarndale, 28½d, 24½d; Dumgree, 18d, 17½d; Muller, 13d, 12½d.

"At the wool sales now in progress good wools continue firm, but other sorts are irregular. There is only a poor demand for faulty pieces, bellies, and locks."

WHEAT.

The wheat market is firm. There is only one cargo offering.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

To-day's quotations were:—Wheat, nominal, 8/; grain and fodder board is asking 8/4, but millers will not buy; flour, £18 to £18/2/6, net, Port Adelaide, £18/10/ delivered in Adelaide; bran, 1/1½ net, Port Adelaide, to 1/3 delivered in Adelaide; white pollard is scarce and firm at 1/7; chaff in fair demand at £8/10/ to £9, for prompt supplies, October and November deliveries are quoted about £4 to £4/10/ on trucks at Mile End, bags included; cornsacks, 8/6, spot lots; branbags, 7/ to 7/3. Butter is unchanged, except stores, which eased ½d; the quotes are, factory 1/2 to 1/4, dairy 1/1 to 1/2, stores /11½ to /12½. Cheese is firmer at /10 to /10½. Eggs are unaltered at 1/1. Bacon is firm at 1/3 to 1/4 for sides; hams, 1/4 to 1/5. Honey, /5 to /5½.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

To-day's quotations were:—Wheat oddments, 7/8 to 8/; flour, £17. Bran is firm at £4; pollard firm at £6. Japan oats are active at 2/5¾ to 2/10, according to parcel; Chili, slow at 3/5 to 3/6. Maize advanced from 4/8½ to 4/9, with very little Victorian offering. Chaff is firm, Victorian and South Australian £12/10/; New South Wales £9 to £9/10/, Government imported chaff £7 to £7/10/. Straw is steady, Victorian £3/15/ to £4/5/, Tasmanian £5/15/ to £6/5/. Potatoes are steady at £7/15/ to £8/10/. Onions are quiet at £3/10/ to £5/15/. Butter is firm at 1/3½ to 1/4. Eggs are active, and advanced from 1/3 to 1/3½. Cheese is firm, new /10½ to /11. Cornsacks are quiet, 8/8 to 8/8½ for prompt or October delivery, and 8/9 for November delivery. Branbags are strong up to 8/3 being wanted by holders. Woolpacks are slow at 3/3, all less discount. Tea had slightly more business, on account of better London reports.

MELBOURNE FRUIT MARKET.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the Queen Victoria Market to-day apples sold from 6/ to 12/6 per case; oranges, from 8/ to 14/ per case; lemons, from 6/ to 9/ per case; melons, preserving, from 4/ to 7/ per dozen; walnuts and almonds, from /10 to 1/ per lb.

MELBOURNE STOCK MARKET.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the live stock market to-day 19,800 fat sheep were penned, about half the yarding being shorn sheep, for which buyers generally showed a preference. The opening sales were slack, at lower values, but the demand soon became much brisker, and prices for the greater part of the day were about on a par with last week's closing values, with an occasional pen of heavy weights showing a decline. Late in the day prices for all classes firmed materially, and the market closed brisk, with prices for woolly sorts equal to last week's best rates, and for shorn sorts in some cases ¼s to 2s better.

Quotations:—Woolly sheep: Prime crossbred wethers, 33/ to 38/6, extra to 40/; good crossbred wethers 26/3 to 32/, seconds 22/3 to 25/6, inferior to 21/; prime crossbred ewes 30/6 to 34/9, extra to 39/; odd pens to 49/3; good crossbred ewes, 26/6 to 29/6, seconds 22/ to 24/; inferior lower; prime merino wethers 26/6 to 32/, extra to 33/9, good ditto ditto 22/ to 25/, inferior to 21/; merino ewes 21/ to 26/6, extra to 28/10. Shorn sheep: Prime crossbred wethers 24/6 to 30/, extra to 33/6, odd pens to 37/; odd wethers to 54/; good crossbred wethers, 21/3 to 23/6, inferior to 20/; prime crossbred ewes 24/3 to 28/9, extra to 33/; odd pens to 37/6; good ditto ditto 20/6 to 23/, inferior lower; prime merino wethers 22/6 to 25/6, extra to 29/2, good 19/ to 21/; merino ewes from 19/ to 23/, extra to 27/.

Fat Lambs.—8400 were penned, including about 5300 of this season's drop. They were mostly good to prime quality. The demand was not evenly sustained. Early sales showed a decline from last week's reduced values, but later on competition became much keener, and in the latter part of the market prices were quite equal to last week's closing rates.

Quotations: This season's prime 21/ to 23/, extra to 27/; odd lambs to 30/, good 18/ to 20/, seconds 15/ to 17/; small from 11/; old woolly, good to prime 20/ to 27/, extra to 29/, odd lambs, to 33/; old shorn from 17/6 to 24/6; a few lower.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

Generally quiet conditions prevailed in the dairy end of Sussex-street yesterday. Butter was in strong demand, and supplies were still only sufficient to cover trade requirements. Both bacon and cheese consignments were short, particularly the former; visible stocks were totally inadequate to fill orders. Lard sold at late rates.

Eggs were heavily supplied, but the demand was vigorous, and agents had little difficulty in making good sales. Cold storage speculators were active. New-laids were worth to 1/2, but the majority of the sales were made at a halfpenny lower. South Coast and railways, almost as good in quality as new-laids, brought 1/1½. Rivers were available at 1/1. Newlaid duck eggs realised 1/2.

Quotations were:—

DAIRY PRODUCE.

Butter, at Sydney (proclaimed).—First-grade, 140/ per cwt; second, 135/; third, 130/, including 1/6 charge for boxes, and usual cartage, not exceeding 6d per cwt. Retail: Cash 2¼d, booked 3d, butterman 3½d lb extra.

POULTRY.

Railway and River Consignments.—Old hens, 4/ to 4/6, choice 5/; young roosters, 3/6 to 4/, choice 6/; Muscovy ducks, 4/6 to 5/6, choice 6/; drakes, 5/ to 6/, choice 7/; English ducks, 3/6 to 4/; turkeys, gobblers, good 10/ to 12/, choice 25/; hens, small 6/ to 8/, choice 10/; pigeons, 1/9 to 2/; guineafowls, 4/6 to 5/6 a pair.

Messrs. Mossman and Ellis report having obtained the following prices at auction:—Eggs: New-laid choice suburban, 1/1½ to 1/2; railway and rivers, 1/1 to 1/1½; duck, choice large to 1/2, case from 1/1. Fowls: Roosters, extra choice young to 10/6, good 8/ to 9/, medium from 7/6, small from 6/6; hens, choice heavy to 7/, good 6/ to 6/6, medium and light from 5/. Ducks: Eng., choice suburban to 6/, good to 5/, medium and light 4/; Muscovy, choice suburban to 9/, good to 6/, medium, light, and old from 5/. Drakes: Muscovy, choice suburban to 15/, good 10/ to 12/6, medium and light 7/6. Turkeys: Hen, choice heavy to 16/6, good 12/ to 14/, medium and light from 10/; gobblers, choice heavy to 33/, good 22/6 to 27/6, medium and light from 20/. Guineafowls to 6/6; geese to 10/. Pigeons: Choice young 2/6, old from 2/.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

Trade was generally quiet in the forage and grain section of Sussex-street yesterday, end of the month conditions ruling. In vegetable lines, Tasmanian potatoes continued to attract buyers at Monday's enhanced rates. About 6500 bags of New Zealand tubers were forwarded, and these, in sympathy with Tasmanians, sold at 10/ a ton dearer. From £8 to £8/10/ a ton was asked. Only 500 bags of Victorian onions arrived, and sales were made at last week's closing quotations of £8 a ton. Americans were worth from £10 to £10/10/.

South African maize was strong at 5/, and the few holders of river grain were still on the 5/3 mark. Oats were quiet—Algerians 3/3, and whites 3/6. Chaff transactions were off, owing to the effect of the recent proclamation. No speculation was done at all. Lucerne hay was in demand at proclaimed rates. Japanese bran was offered at £3/15/, or 5/ below the quotations of the millers, and pollard from the same country was 10/ cheaper than millers' price at £5 a ton.

FORAGE.

Chaff, Wheaten or Oaten.—County of Cumberland: On rail, £8/10/; ex store, dray, £9/1/, plus carriage store; other places, £8/10/ per ton, less carriage nearest rail. Newcastle district: On rail, £8/11/; ex store, dray, £8/16/6; other places, £8/11/ per ton, less carriage nearest rail. All other districts: Rail, £7/10/ per ton; ex store, £8 per ton, plus carriage to store; other places, £7/10/ per ton, less carriage nearest rail.

RAILWAY MARKET.

Rather more than the usual number of lucerne hay consignments were to hand yesterday, and as the quality was not of a high enough level to warrant maximum proclamation prices, the majority was sold under the hammer. These, with five trucks of produce and grain, were the only offerings at auction; the greater part of the yard's content were, as per usual, disposed of privately.

One of the most apparent effects of the new proclaimed prices is manifest in time now occupied by the auction sales. Whereas previously the sales on the shortest day occupied at least an hour or so, now, even though the auctioneers spend at least twice the time over their offerings, the sales are generally finished in a half-hour. Business is practically conducted on private lines.

Consignments manifested to arrive:—Hay, straw, chaff, 17, grain 2.

Wheaten Chaff.—Ex Maitland (11637), 6/7; ex Greenthorpe (6457), 2/9 per cwt.

Oaten Chaff.—Ex Darling Island (11617), passed 6/5; do. (10051), passed 6/2 per cwt.

Lucerne Hay.—Ex Nemingha (12881), 6/3; do. (5538), 5/5; Ireland, Newcastle (14296), passed 4/6; Freejames, Tamworth (7587), 6/; Woods, Nemingha (17711), 6/; Mogg, Mudgee (2665), 6/6; Smith, Mudgee (17519), 6/ per cwt.

Oats.—Cameron and Mitchell, Coolamon (14058), White 3/5½, balance Algerian, 2/11 per bushel.

FRUIT MARKET.

There were moderate supplies of local fruit at the market yesterday, and all kinds, except inferior grade lemons, sold briskly. Choice passionfruit were dearer at from 8/ to 9/ a half-bushel-case, but other quotations showed few alterations. Pineapples were selling at enhanced rates. Queens were worth to 12/, Ripleys to 11/, and Commons to 10/. About 10,000 cases of apples were consigned to Sydney agents from Hobart, and these were placed on a steady market. Americans were also unchanged.

Quotations were:—

Passionfruit.—Local, choice 8/ to 9/, medium 4/ to 5/, small 1/6 to 2/ a half-bushel case.

Lemons.—Local: Choice white 8/; coloured, choice 6/ to 7/, medium 3/ to 4/ a bushel-case; small and inferior practically unsalable.

Bananas.—Fiji, 16/ to 18/ a case, 5/ to 7/6 a bunch, loose 8/ to 10/ a case; Cavendish, 5/ to 7/6 a case.

Pineapples.—Queens, extra choice 10/ to 12/, medium 8/ to 9/; Ripleys, choice 9/ to 11/; commons, choice 8/ to 10/ a case.

Mandarins.—Emperors, choice 10/ to 11/, medium 5/ to 7/, small 2/6 to 3/ a bushel-case.

Oranges.—Local: Choice 7/, medium 3/6 to 4/6; small 2/6; Navel, special 14/, choice 10/ to 12/, medium 5/ to 6/ a bushel-case.

Loquats.—Mammoth, choice 10/ to 11/, medium 5/6 to 6/; common, choice 5/ to 5/6, medium 3/6 to 4/, small 1/ to 1/6 a half-case.

Strawberries.—Queensland: 4/6 to 6/ a tray. Local: 1/ to 1/6 a punnet.

Apples.—Tasmanian: Scarlet, choice 12/ to 14/, medium 7/ to 8/, small 5/ to 6/; French Crabs, choice 10/ to 12/, medium 7/ to 8/; S.T.P., choice 8/ to 10/, medium 6/ to 6/6; S.P. and H.C., 5/ to 8/; New York, 11/; C.P.M., choice 15/ to 16/; jam lots, 4/ to 5/ a bushel-case. American: Gravensteins, Jonathans, King Davids, 14/ to 17/6 a bushel-case.

VEGETABLE MARKET.

Although very large supplies arrived at the vegetable market yesterday from local sources, a better tone prevailed than at the end of last week. Cabbages and peas still continue to be plentiful, the former selling at from /6 to 5/ per dozen, and the latter up to 5/ per bushel. Such was the condition of some of the river beans this morning that they were despatched to the tip. They were absolutely useless for food purposes. Sweet potatoes were a little easier at £10 per ton; and root stuffs realised late rates.

Beetroot, 1/ to 1/3; parsnips, 1/6 to 2/; carrots, 1/6 to 2/3; celery, 1/3 to 2/; eschalots, 2/; herbs, /9; leeks, 2/; cucumbers, 1/ to 4/ a dozen; lettuce, /3 to 1/; mint, 1/; parsley, 1/ to 1/9; radishes, /9; rhubarb, 3/; watercress, 1/ to 1/6; white turnips, /6 to 1/; spinach, 1/ to 1/6 per dozen bunches; peas, 4/6 to 5/ per bushel; river peas, 25/ per bag; cabbages, /4 to 5/; red cabbages, /6 to 7/; cauliflowers 6/6 to 9/; jam melons, 6/ to 25/ per dozen; pumpkins, £1 per cwt; New Zealand, 10/ per cwt; potatoes, Redskins, 10/ to 12/, Bismarcks, 12/, Pinkeyes 11/, Carmens 12/, Up-to-dates 11/, Brownells 11/, New Zealand 13/; local vegetables, 9/ to 11/; sweet potatoes, 10/ per cwt; swedes, £7 per ton; tomatoes, local, 7/ to 8/6 half-case; onions, Brown Spanish, 11/ to 12/; French beans, river, 2/ to 5/ a bushel.

PIG SALES.

At the City Yards yesterday 900 pigs, a small increase on the supply of the corresponding day of last week, were offered at auction. A large majority of the pigs penned comprised porkers, backfatters and baconers being scarce. A strong demand prevailed for all descriptions, and values were very firm.

Quotations were:—

Best backfatters, £10, good £8 to £9, medium £6 to £7/10/, light from £4.

Best baconers, £5/10/, good £4/10/ to £5/5/, medium £3/15/ to £4, light from £3/10/.

Best porkers, 68/, good 55/ to 65/, medium 40/ to 52/, light from 28/.

STOCK TRUCKINGS.

The following trucks have been ordered for the forthcoming sales:—

	Sheep.		Cattle.

WOOL SALES.

SYDNEY.

Wool sales were held yesterday at the Sydney Wool Exchange, Bridge-street, when the quantity catalogued totalled 6033 bales, and the sales, including private transactions, amounted to 6105 bales, as under:—

The Sydney Wool-selling Brokers' Association report:—The market showed no change from the previous day, all good, shafty wools ruling firm under excited competition, principally on American and Japanese account. Bulky skirtings maintained the recently reported improvement, as did also good free crossbreds. Very burry, wasty, and inferior sorts were still most irregular and difficult to deal with. Greasy sold to 17d, which is the record price for new clip wool, and was obtained in two instances.

Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Ltd., offered an attractive catalogue of new-clip wools. Greasy sold to /16½, paid for 22 ex super com of Bairnkine (Walgett), 10 ex super making /16, 18 super com /15½, 24 super com /15½, and 26 super com /15½. This was a well-grown wool, of long staple, good colour and quality, sound, and in good condition. Other sales were:—HStC/Paxton (Delungra), 7 h e at /12½, fair length, very good colour and quality, free, light; CDC/WG (Warren), 9 AA at /11½, 9 AA e at /11½, good length, colour, and quality, fair condition; DP (Darlington Point), 7 1st com h e at /13½, 9 1st com e at /13, 15 A com /11½, good staple, colour, and quality, sound, and in good condition; XX/G (Warialda), 21 1st com h at /16½, 8 2nd com h at /16½, 10 com h at /14½, good length, colour, and quality, sound, in light condition; A B Bros/Nelgowrie (Coonamble), 18 1st com e at /13½, 12 2nd com at /10½, 14 clo e at /10½, good staple, colour, and quality, carrying a little condition, not free; Wooloondool (Hay), 12 A h e at /13½, 29 B h e at /12½, 13 C e at /11, good staple, colour, and quality, sound, good condition, odd burr; Mercadool (Walgett), 17 2nd com at /11½, 20 2nd at /10, 26 bkn at /13½, 35 bkn at /12, good quality, well grown, sound, good colour, dusty; K in circle/Pigeonbah (Warren), 17 1st com w at /11, 31 1st com e at /11, 37 1st com at /10½, 28 at /10, good length, colour, and quality, sound, little dusty, not free; B/Wallangra (Inverell), 25 A w e at /14½, 29 AA w at /11½, 11 AA e at /12½, fair length, good colour and quality, dry. Scoured: MVP/Oban (Queensland), 9 A e at /23½, 14 C e at /22½, fair length, excellent colour and quality, free, well scoured.

The Pastoral Finance Association, Ltd., submitted a good selection of north-western wools, with one well-known Scone clip. In the grease the highest price was /17 paid for 25 1st com e of Broxburn/PW (Boomi), 6 1st h, making /16½. CARPATHIA TIN MINE.

The mine manager reports for last week as follows:—No. 1 Shaft.—Intermediate level: North drive extended to 54ft, exposing high-grade milling ore 20 inches wide, which has been consistent the whole week. 205ft Level.—North rise: Stripping only in progress here, which has exposed good milling ore the same width as reported last week. West Crosscut.—Extended 4ft to 120ft, at which point rich milling ore was struck. In both appearance and value ore is similar to the No. 4 shaft rich ore, in which direction it is now making. In the south drive off this crosscut no change has taken place with the 3ft advance. 305ft Level.—West crosscut advanced 6ft to 10ft, formation soft and bearing more to the north.

No. 2 Shaft.—55ft level: North drive extended 3ft to 3ft, exposing high milling values 16 inches wide. South drive extended 5ft to 5ft on milling ore, showing 5ft wide and remaining on both sides.

No. 4 Shaft.—South winze sunk 5ft to 85ft on a pure kaolin ore body over the whole winze, carrying low values.

Ore in Transit.—Since last report 63.07 tons of milling ore have been despatched to the railway station.

Battery manager reports for last week as follows:—The battery ran on tailings until noon on Saturday, the clean-up occupying till Monday afternoon. Forty tons of ore and 20 tons of tailings were treated for the week. Three and a-half tons of concentrates, estimated to assay 65 per cent., were obtained. The final assays on the tailings trial have not yet been completed.

MINING.

A QUIET BUT SOLID MARKET.

BUSINESS LIMITED.

So listless was the mining section of the market yesterday morning that not one transaction was recorded until High 'Change met, and then the sales booked indicated a very firm feeling. Indeed, it was this firmness on the part of scrip-holders that was the cause of the small business record. They declined to entertain any offer unless on the firm side.

The result was that Barriers were marked up, both in sales and quotations. The same was the case in the limited business done in copper stocks, but tin propositions again showed a lack of strength.

The stagnant condition of the market from a business point of view was striking testimony of its solidity, for the lack of a free interchange of scrip was due to the very firm attitude adopted by sellers. This firmness was largely due to private cables received by operators confirming those received from the "Sydney Morning Herald's" London correspondent announcing the buoyancy of the London Stock Exchange consequent on the success of the Allies in France.

What was equally cheering was the reported strength of the London metal market. In his cable dealing with the quotations at the close of Monday the "Herald" correspondent shows that metals improved all along the line. Where there had been a slight sagging of values during the last week or so the lost ground had not only been recovered, but in some cases an advance had taken place.

Hence, though operators were inclined to grumble at the lack of business, they consoled themselves that the outlook was more cheering than it had been for many months past, whilst scrip-holders were quite cheerful, a disposition to which they have been stranger for many months.

MINING NOTES.

The latest report from the Wild Cherry tin mine states at No. 1 level, back stoping continues in payable ore; the face of the north drive at No. 2 level is in low-grade ore, but the leading stopes continue to supply a fair amount of milling ore, whilst the tin content is maintained. At Burns' block the drive from Mark's shaft continues in first-class ore. The manager is sending material from near battery through the mill, with highly encouraging results.

The battery of the Hawkins' Hill gold mine, for the fortnight ending September 25, crushed 175 tons for 127¼oz of gold.

At the Mount David gold mine the tunnel was last week driven 24ft to 654ft. After passing through stiff slate, with strong bands of ironstone, it came to a make of porphyry rock. This is the hanging wall of the main fissure. The manager intends driving into the porphyry to determine its true strike and underlie, before deciding to open up the big formation recently passed through, and which he holds is the broken portion of the main lode.

The Great Britain Sluicing Company reports a clean-up of its Britain plant, after having sluiced 169 hours since August 27, for 6 tons 10 cwt tin oxide.

CARPATHIA TIN MINING COMPANY.

"Shareholder" writes:—"Sir, seeing that the directors of the above company have lost the confidence of the shareholders, I think it is up to them to resign at once. No one can doubt that the mine is a payable proposition if proper economics are practised in its management, but as working expenses keep running up every six months, it is high time the shareholders stepped in, and made a clean sweep of the directors, and secretary. Trusting that the shareholders will act at once."

An easterly movement of the various pressure systems has brought the small centre of the western "high" from the vicinity of Perth to about Port Augusta, a distance of 1200 miles. The greater part of the continent is now under its sway, and fine weather as a consequence is being experienced, excepting in the Kimberley region and the south-west corner of Western Australia, and in Victoria and Tasmania, where the conditions are unsettled.

Between a new high just appearing on the west coast of Western Australia, and the rear the one over the mainland is a "col" (or relatively low pressure area between two "highs," and usually associated with unsettled conditions).

In the "col" is a small closed-curve depression over Gascoyne, incipient at present, but likely to result in more unsettled weather there.

Monsoonal tendencies are also in evidence over eastern Queensland, but still nondescript. This should cause some scattered thunderstorms there, as also in our extreme north-east districts.

The Antarctic disturbance is very energetic over the Southern Ocean, but its influence yesterday was only apparent in the weather of the southern shores of Australia.

Ocean Forecast.—Squally and rough east from Kangaroo Island, but moderating freshening around the Leeuwin.

DAMAGED STEAMER.

Messrs. Lane and Dawson received advice yesterday to the effect that the steamer Moruya, which was recently refloated after being stranded on Bramble Cay, would leave Thursday Island on Tuesday, for Cape Moreton, for orders. It is not certain yet whether she will go into Brisbane for repairs or come on to Sydney. Captain Potter states that about 3000 tons of coal were jettisoned from Nos. 1, 2, and 4 holds. No. 3 hold remains intact.

A diver recently examined the vessel at Thursday Island, and discovered two holes on the starboard side forward. The bottom of the vessel was badly corroded and bent. The port side was apparently undamaged.

Y.M.C.A. FIELD SERVICE.

Mr. Gillanders, the general secretary of the Sydney Y.M.C.A., desires to make it clear that the Y.M.C.A. equipments in the camps of training in N.S.W. and in Egypt are open to all soldiers, no creed distinctions being made. The Y.M.C.A. exists in camp to help the men spend their leisure time pleasantly and profitably, and to encourage the men to live straight. The Y.M.C.A. in Egypt and at the front works hand in hand with the Red Cross and the War Chest Commissioner, each organisation having specific work to do, and all co-operating in the best spirit. The needs of the military work of the Y.M.C.A. are £60 weekly, and subscriptions are earnestly solicited.

The following subscriptions are acknowledged:—Amount previously acknowledged, £2673/11/5; Mrs. E. J. Johnstone, £5; Mr. E. L. Jones, £2/2/; Mrs. J. McKern, 6th donation, £2/2/; Mrs. V. SANDBAGS.

Last Wednesday afternoon a central sandbag committee was formed, the object being to assist in organising the movement, and a meeting will be held at the Town Hall at 3.30 p.m. on Thursday afternoon.

TOBACCO AND MATCHES FOR TROOPS.

With reference to the provision of gifts for the troops at the front in the shape of pipes, tobacco, and cigarettes, attention is drawn to the fact that matches would, if included, involve great danger in transport. It is therefore requested that they be not included in such gifts, and arrangements are being made by the Department of Defence for a separate supply to be distributed by Mr. H. E. Budden, the representative in Egypt of Australian patriotic societies.

The tenth reinforcements of the 4th Battalion, shortly leaving for the front, are in need of disc gramophone records for the trip. Donations will be received by Company Sergeant-Major Phillips at Liverpool.

DELEGATE, Tuesday.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

LATE MR. F. A. PARBURY.

Probate has been granted of the will of the late Mr. Frederick Augustus Parbury, of Satur, Scone, who died at Sydney on April 4 last. The testator appointed his brother-in-law, John Cassels Ryrie, grazier, of Monaro, and his sons, Frederick Nigel Parbury, of the Royal Field Artillery, India, and Arthur Philip Parbury, grazier, of Glenburnie, Hunter River district, executors and trustees of his estate. He bequeathed £500 to his widow for her immediate use, and also the whole of his furniture and household effects. The residue of his estate he devised to his trustees upon trust to pay the income to his widow during her life; after her death the estate was to be held in trust for his children in equal shares.

The net value of the estate was sworn at £19,614 11s 7d, the bulk of which consisted of real estate.

LATE MR. P. CAVANAGH.

Probate has been granted of the will of the late Mr. Peter Cavanagh, farmer, of Rawdon Island, Hastings River, who died on August 20 last. The testator appointed his sons, Bernard and Patrick Charles, executors and trustees of his estate, the whole of which he bequeathed to his widow and children.

The net value of the estate was estimated at £11,224 13s 4d.

BIG ART UNION EFFORT.

Mr. Julian Ashton, as president, with Mrs. Emily L. Paul, as an indefatigable organiser, has united a number of Sydney artists of more or less opposing views, in forming a collection of some 250 paintings and drawings at Messrs. Grace Bros.' fine art gallery, on the second floor of their great Broadway building. The artists as a body have splendidly raised some £2000 for war funds, and now that they are "in the wars" themselves, they have persuaded Mr. A. E. Grace to freely lend them an abundance of gallery space towards an art union of £3000 value. Each exhibitor will contribute 75 per cent. of his work, and there will be 740 prizes, ranging from £450 downwards, no fewer than 500 prizes being modestly undervalued at one guinea. The tickets will be one shilling each, and a cordial public support is anticipated.

His Excellency Governor Sir Gerald Strickland will open this comprehensive show at 3 p.m. to-day, when art connoisseurs will recognise scores of old favourites, which they will see again with pleasure. A thorough review is therefore unnecessary, nor need the many good works marked "not for sale" be referred to. The first prize (£350 guineas), "The Awakening," by Julian R. Ashton, at once strikes the eye. It is essentially a gallery subject, and derives its merit largely from the fine technical treatment of the warm lamplight which falls upon the glistening surface of the robe-de-nuit, and upon the linen bedclothes of the startled woman. Mr. Ashton contributes his masterpiece in "The Everlasting Hills" (250 guineas). This large landscape, with the intense yet mellow evening light upon the hillside at the back, whilst the surface of the river and its wooded banks in the foreground are in deep shadow, is, we believe, the best landscape this artist ever painted. Just above "Awakening," and not sufficiently well placed, is A. J. Hanson's "Fair Droving Weather" (90 guineas), undoubtedly one of the best watercolours in the room. The subject is a mounted shepherd depasturing his flock on the edge of a forest. Visitors will admire Lionel Lindsay's "The Sacred Grove" and "Old Education Department." Both these ages-separated themes are suffused by the same kind of yellow light—and why not? Man passes away; Nature is changeless.

Mr. E. Gruner's large canvas, "Showery Weather" (100 guineas) is open to debate, owing to the pallor of its tones; he has a remarkably clever and fascinating work for the purity of its colour and its luminous quality in No. 35, "Mauve and Grey." Miss Florence Rodway's portraits are in many instances captivating, and frequently "not for sale." Signor A. Dattilo Rubbo's studies of wrinkled age are so tender, true, and refined on this occasion as to be quite charming (Nos. 17 and 45). Mr. James R. Jackson succeeds with "Middle Harbour" (No. 20). Mr. Norman Carter achieves the difficult feat of commingling brilliance and serenity in his view of Mosman from Reid Park (No. 160). John R. Eldershaw is at his best in "Farmyard, Brookvale" (No. 58), treated with much feeling. Mrs. Emily L. Paul exhibits both sentiment and style in "An Old Homestead, North Wales" (No. 52). Mrs. Hedley Parsons sends in some tender landscapes, and her "Roses" (No. 58) are admirable. One of the most prominent exhibitors is Maud Kimbell, a clever painter from the French schools. Any one of this exhibitor's works attracts and repays study. Messrs. Howard Ashton, D. G. Reid, James A. Crisp, J. Muir Auld, Alfred T. Clint, and many other artists, win acceptance. Moreover, there is a strong black-and-white section, helpfully dominated by Norman Lindsay, but including also Arthur Streeton, Henry Fullwood, Sydney Ure Smith, W. G. Elliott, and other well-known names. Works omitted from this review are not necessarily wanting in merit, but are excluded from lack of space.

AMUSEMENTS.

LIVERPOOL CAMP CONCERT.

An enjoyable concert was held in the Presbyterian Tent, Liverpool Camp, on Saturday. The programme, which was arranged by Miss Emmie Pring and Mr. W. T. Colyer, consisted of part-songs by the Aeolian Glee Party, solos by Mrs. J. M'Namara and Mr. J. J. Herford, recitations by Miss Ruby Allison, cornet solos by Mr. M'Nab, and a comedy sketch, "First Aid to the Wounded," in which the characters were taken by Miss Emmie Pring and Mr. Claude Rawson. Rev. Hugh Paton presided, and Colonel and Mrs. Kirkland and Colonel Holland were present on the platform.

NAVAL ENTERTAINMENT.

During the recent eleven months' cruise of H.M.S. ——, now in port, Lieut. H. T. Heale, R.N.R., who himself possesses a very genuine aptitude for the stage, both as singer and actor, set about the task of forming a variety company amongst the crew. As was proved on their land debut at the Repertory Theatre, his success in unearthing talent, or as one should say "submarining" for it, was quite remarkable. A lot of hard work in the way of rehearsal on board smoothed away some of the rough edges, and the sailors, probably not without trepidation, sang and danced and acted in right good style before a fashionable audience. The effort was in aid of the Tanned Sheepskin Waistcoat Fund.

In the prepared programme, which opened with a comprehensive fantasia on airs from "The Pirates of Penzance," by the band of the R.A.N.R., the comic numbers were a strong feature. Second Petty Officer E. Williams, as a coster, proud of his "pearlies," warbled of the "'Addock-smoker's Daughter" as he ambled easily round the stage; L.S. Green and Gerrard convulsed the house as Weary Willie and Tired Tim, puzzling over their Wealth and Personal cards; P.O. Salisbury and Munn provide at home in "We All Went to Leicester-square"; and W. Tyler made a decided hit by his weird solemnity as the Fireman. On the musical side there were ballads, and some skilful mandoline-playing by Mr. G. Barnes, relieved by Dudley Jones's graceful club manipulation, and clever Highland dancing by A. M'Lean, with R. M'Leod as piper. Lieut. H. T. Heale's costume characterisations as old Fagin, Dan'l Peggotty, and Squeers were all correctly and dramatically contrasted. The evening closed merrily with Mr. Heale's original one-act farce, "My Uncle the General."

FIELD ENGINEERS' COMFORTS.

It has been found necessary to transfer the social evening arranged to take place on Tuesday next, at the Drill Hall, Moore Park, to the Paddington Town Hall. Tickets will be on sale at the doors. Mr. W. E. Ellis is hon. secretary.

"ACTIVE SERVICE ON LAND AND SEA."

Chaplain-Colonel G. E. Rowe repeated his story of "Active Service on Land and Sea" at the Town Hall last night in aid of the 19th Battalion Comforts Fund. There was a fair attendance, including the Chief Justice and Lady Cullen, Mr. Justice Gordon and Mrs. Alexander Gordon, and the matron and some nurses and wounded soldiers from the Randwick Military Hospital. There should have been a crowded house, for the lecturer did not waste time over his thrilling story, but told it simply and well during a wonderful profusion of pictures, which delighted everybody. The brave boys of Australia were shown at Suez, Cairo, Mena Camp, and finally charging the enemy's trenches at Gallipoli. The illustrative scheme had been thoughtfully planned, and was received with frequent bursts of enthusiasm. Martial songs were contributed by Mr. Marsh Little (his own "Boys of the Dardanelles"), and Miss Ruby Drury (in uniform), with Miss Essie Vautie as accompanist, and Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory" was imposingly rendered by the N.S.W. State Military Band, under Captain W. G. Bentley. Mr. J. E. Brownlow was hon. manager.

GRENADIERS AT THE LIEDERTAFEL.

Lieutenant L. Hastings, officer in charge of the detachment of the R. E. O. Grenadiers, has notified that he will be present with some of the troops at the concert of the Royal Sydney Liedertafel this evening.

CROW'S NEST WAR CONCERT.

A concert will be held under the auspices of the Masonic lodges of the northern suburbs in the Protestant Hall, Crow's Nest, to-morrow night, when Misses Dorrie Ward, Daisy Sweet, Dorothy Nall, Messrs. Harry Campbell, Eric Harrison, Joe Cahill, Guy Martin, Jas. Davidson, and Christian Helleman will assist in an attractive programme.

NEW EDUCATIONAL OFFICES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—With many other citizens I watched with pride and admiration the erection of the magnificent new offices in Bridge-street for the State Educational Department. My satisfaction, however, quickly turned to disgust on observing the outhouses erected as the crown of the building. From the harbour the sky-line of the structure is utterly ruined. Can nothing be done to remove the hideous deformity?

I am, etc., CITIZEN.

The Sydney branch of the Australian Socialist party forwards a resolution stated to have been carried at a public meeting protesting against the continued imprisonment of Quinton and Jackson, and the conviction of Ken. H. Leslie, and demanding their unconditional release.

LADIES' LIGHTNING BUSINESS COURSE.

OUR FIGHT WITH FATHER TIME.

The demand which is being made on us for intelligent girls with a Commercial Training is so great that we have been compelled to establish a short, rapid course of training which is especially suitable for young ladies between 16 and 30 years of age who have received a first-class education.

Our Principal, Mr. E. O. Crowhurst, B.A., has recently brought this Course from Europe, where thousands of girls are being successfully trained in this way.

WHAT FAILURE MEANS.

If I undertake to treat you for the removal of SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS, and the operation is not successful—which means that hairs removed by me have grown again, or others in their place—I forfeit to you personally the sum of £100 STERLING.

So you take absolutely no risk if you come to me of ever being troubled again with these humiliating disfigurements. To satisfy you further of my method, permit me to give you A FREE TRIAL TREATMENT.

No charge is made for this, nor will this commit you to subsequently come to me for treatment. I have practised this profession at my present address for 15 years without a single failure or complaint. Absolute privacy is maintained by individual waiting-rooms. Moles and Hairy Moles can be removed in single operation. If unable to call, send for my Booklet, posted free to any address.

FACE MASSAGE is done so as to restore the healthy and clear complexion. Try one treatment; it will convince.

SUNNYSIDE ESTATE.
CARINGBAH.
CARINGBAH.
CRONULLA. CRONULLA.

CARINGBAH is a penny tram ride from the Great Surf Beach of CRONULLA, and is the junction of all TRAFFIC ROUTES leading to SYDNEY, SUTHERLAND, PORT HACKING, CRONULLA, YOWIE BAY, TAREN POINT, and SOUTH COAST, and is rapidly growing into prominence as a DISTRIBUTING BUSINESS CENTRE to the whole of the Cronulla-Sutherland District.

GOODS SIDING, large TIMBER YARDS, STORES, and POST OFFICE are already at CARINGBAH, and houses are being erected rapidly all round this IMPORTANT CENTRE.

THE NEW ROUTE from Sydney to Cronulla and South Coast, via Sans Souci-Taren Point (which will be opened about January next), comes out at CARINGBAH, and where this junctions with the Cronulla Tram Line, SUNNYSIDE ESTATE is here situated. This is rated as one of the Oldest business corners in the Sutherland-Cronulla District.

SUNNYSIDE ESTATE is subdivided into
and is one of the most liberal subdivisions ever offered to the Public, the Lots averaging 250ft in depth. The Streets are nicely laid out with ornamental trees, and the main Avenue, in which Mr. Cridland, the Vendor, has built his residence, is 80 feet wide.

SUNNYSIDE ESTATE COMPRISES absolutely the pick of the District for Residential purposes, as it is elevated, with a gentle easterly slope, nicely cleared, level, grassed land, good soil, and embraces a MAGNIFICENT PANORAMA of the Eastern Suburbs of Sydney, George's River, Botany Bay, La Perouse, Kurnell, Cronulla, and the Pacific Ocean.

EVERY POINT OF ADVANTAGE in this GLORIOUS DISTRICT can be easily reached from SUNNYSIDE ESTATE.

SUNNYSIDE WINE CAFE and REFRESHMENT rooms, situated on the Business corner, together with the License and goodwill, will be offered on day of sale.

A GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY for a business man. A LUCRATIVE BUSINESS with a BIG FUTURE.

On Lot 77 is a comfortable W.B. Cottage, with 5 rooms and verandah, orchards, etc., which will also be offered.

REMEMBER that in connection with the DEFINITELY PROJECTED RAILWAY to CRONULLA, a RAILWAY STATION will be at CARINGBAH.

The water main, in connection with the Cronulla water supply, will pass in front of the Estate.

SUNNYSIDE ESTATE has been held by the Vendor for a number of years, and is practically the last Estate fronting the tram line, and as the position is unique, with unlimited prospective value, those in search of a SOUND INVESTMENT should not miss THIS IMPORTANT SALE, on the Ground,

8-HOUR DAY, 4th OCTOBER, 1915,
AT 2.30 P.M.

The Vendor is providing free, Large Marquee, seating accommodation, refreshments, and a band.
COMBINE BUSINESS WITH PLEASURE, and PICNIC on the Estate.

EASY TERMS.—Only £2 per lot deposit, balance by 60 equal monthly payments, with interest at 5 per cent. on quarterly balances.

NOTE.—Purchasers will have the right to pay off at any time, and will have no difficulty in obtaining their deeds, as the Estate is TORRENS TITLE.

WINE BAR FREEHOLD, LICENSE, and goodwill, 25 per cent. deposit, balance by 40 monthly payments, interest 6 per cent.

HOME SITES.

Don't miss CONCORD (Terra Bona Estate) if you are inspecting Sites for your future home. Ideal Building Land, beautifully situated, handy to most picturesque part of Parramatta River, only 30 minutes from town, and cheap.
If you want a rapidly-rising suburb, with a touch of the country, try BANKSTOWN (New Era Estate), and get in early while prices are low.
The attention of CLYDE workers is specially drawn to the Longlawn Estate. Nothing prettier in the metropolitan district than the views from these Home Sites, and you'll find none cheaper.
In the Verdun Estate, LEICHHARDT, the worker has a last chance to buy a Home Site in this crowded suburb.
If smitten on the Illawarra Suburbs, see our Homedale Estate at HURSTVILLE (very cheap), our Home Sites, CARLTON, and our £35 Lots in Belgrade Estate, BEXLEY.
Home Sites in all other suburbs are too numerous to mention on this occasion. Call and see our Sales Manager.

FARMS FOR WORKERS.

Our firm has met a long-felt want of the city workers by offering Farmlets at Wentworthville, Blacktown, and Quaker's Hill, which may be reached by fast trains in from 40 to 60 minutes. Country air, milk, cream, eggs, fruit, etc., soon work wonders with growing children, and there's profit in these products, too.

HOME FARMS.

Agriculturists, poultry farmers, beekeepers, orchardists, mixed farmers, can secure small Farms at low prices and on our easy terms at Wyee, Wamberal (near Gosford), Baby Acres (Bringelly-road, near Ingleburn), and Eastwood (adjoining Baby Acres), and make a good living by supplying the metropolitan markets.

WEEK-END SITES.

When the Summer comes you feel the need of a quiet retreat within easy hail of our unrivalled beaches. Free and easily life in your own gunyah, with primitive nature around you, or within the scope of a ramble, enables you to recuperate your energy every week-end.

RICKARD'S EASY TERMS—£1 deposit and 10s monthly instalments for every £25 of purchase money.

HOUSES AND LAND FOR SALE.

EVERY HABERFIELD HOME IS A BARGAIN,

WITH INTEREST AT ONLY 5 PER CENT.

Here are a few figures that must interest you:—

Suppose you are paying 25/ a week rent for a house somebody else owns. Well, 25/ a week means £650 in 10 years for your landlord.

Put your rent money into a

HABERFIELD HOME.

There's one to suit you—at a price that's right. If you can afford 25s a week rent—you can afford to pay for your own home on our easy terms.

A DEPOSIT OF £50
PUTS YOU IN POSSESSION.

After that, it's just like banking money, for the 25/ or 30/ you pay to us each week is going into property that is increasing daily in value, and must bring you in a good return. The amount includes both Principal and Interest, which is charged at 5 per cent. Titles are Torrens in every case.

HABERFIELD HOMES ARE DISTINCTIVE HOMES.
Built among ideal surroundings, where everything tends to make them more desirable. You have only to see HABERFIELD, and note the way the whole suburb is laid out—with homes in one part, and shops and public buildings in another. Then you'd get an idea of what steps we've taken to make HABERFIELD SYDNEY'S GARDEN SUBURB. When you've been through a few of the homes, and have seen the thoroughness of their construction, and the pleasing way they have been built for your convenience—you'll realise more fully what advantages HABERFIELD offers. No amount of newspaper talk could describe fully the charms of HABERFIELD.
The Homes are moderately priced—from £800 to £1450.

FIXED WASH TUBS

AND PLUNGE BATHS

FOR THE OLD HOME OR THE

NEW ONE THAT'S BUILDING.

The Hardware about your home—or home-to-be—costs but a trifle compared with what the home does, and it's certainly far from wise for any Home Builder or Home Owner to treat this question of Hardware any less seriously than he would the roof.

Have such Hardware as Tubs and Baths GOOD—the little extra you pay comes back a hundredfold in better service, longer service, freedom from worry, and the annoyance of having to renew things prematurely.

NOCK AND KIRBY'S

NOTED LOW PRICES.

GALVANISED FIXED TUBS, with Centre Board to screw Wringer on. All made of dependable material, as under:—

26 gauge iron, 3 Compartments, 20/ set.
24 gauge iron, 2 Compartments, 17/ set.
24 gauge iron, 3 Compartments, 23/6 set.

ROUNDED BOTTOM GALV. FIXED TUBS. Water never lies in these, because it can't—the shape prevents it. In 24 gauge (heavy) iron only.
24 gauge iron, 3 Compartments, 24/6 set.

WOODEN FIXED TUBS. Faithfully made in our own workshop from selected 1¼in Kauri. All joins screwed, and thoroughly watertight.
2 Compartments, 32/6 set.
3 Compartments, 46/6 set.

REINFORCED CEMENT TUBS, built on the same principle that they construct bridges and big buildings nowadays. Unexcelled by anything for strength and durability. Call and inspect them.
3 Compartments, 70/ set.

PORTABLE GALVANISED TUBS, ON LEGS.—The beauty of these lies in the fact that they enable you to wash in the open—in the shade of the house or a tree, for instance.
2 Compartments, Rounded Bottoms, 38/6.

EXHIBITION OF ACADEMY WORKS AT
TO BE OFFICIALLY OPENED TO-DAY,
BY HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR.

An exhibition of Works of Art by representatives of the Society of Artists, the Royal Art Society, and Women Painters will be officially opened by his Excellency the Governor, Sir Gerald Strickland, at 3 p.m. to-day.

The collection comprises some exquisite Paintings in Oils, and a number of choice studies in Water Colours, which, at some time or other have enjoyed proud positions in the leading Sydney Exhibitions.

The Artists are offering these Works of Art as Prizes in an Art Union.

There are 748 prizes, ranging in value from 350 guineas to 1 guinea. First prize is a beautiful picture entitled "The Awakening," from the brush of Julian R. Ashton, valued at 350 guineas, among the prizes are works by Ashton, Julian R.; Ashton, Howard; Auld, J. Muir; Adams, Dorothy.
Barker, Mrs. Auriol; Banks, John D.; Balfour, Lawson.
Crisp, Henry; Crisp, James A.; Clint, Alf. T.; Chauvel, Lilian.
Carter, Norman.
Eldershaw, James R.; Elliott, W. G.
Fullwood, Henry.
Gruner, E.
Howell, E.; Hanson, A. J.
Jackson, James R.; Jacobs, Isobel.
Kimbell, Maud.

SPECIAL SHOWING OF

THE NEWEST STYLES IN

RACE SUNSHADES AND FEATHER BOAS.

The Feather Boa Department, on the First Floor, is at present the scene of a special showing—the features of interest being Sunshades and Feather Boas—two indispensable items in Race Attire.

We have succeeded in bringing even these Dress Luxuries within the limits of those anxious to economise. This fact will be viewed with satisfaction by visitors to the Display.

Below we quote representative values taken from the goods being exhibited:—

THE "QUEEN" SUNSHADE, a 16-rib Sunshade, having a Flat appearance, with a wide spread. Colours: Navy, Saxe, Purple, Vieux Rose, Pale Pink, Royal, White, and Black.
PRICES, 15/6, 21/, 25/.
OSTRICH FEATHER BOAS, from 62 to 66 inches long. White, Black, Natural and White.
PRICES, 35/, 45/, 52/6, 57/6, 63/.

SMART WHITE FOOTWEAR AT ECONOMICAL PRICES.

The many styles we are showing in White Footwear will prove singularly attractive, firstly because they are the acme of neatness and quality, and secondly because the prices are a revelation in moderate values, which is surprising, considering the disturbed trade conditions. White Shoes will be greatly worn this Summer, and the following are five noteworthy lines:—

LADIES' 2-BUTTON SHOES, in White Nubuck. Stout pump soles, smart Cuban heels, short vamp, medium toes, no toe-cap.
PRICE, 23/ PAIR.
SMART WHITE NUBUCK COURT SHOES, light welted soles, Cuban heels. Very pretty Pearl button as side effect ornament. Quite a new style.
PRICE, 20/ PAIR.
WHITE NUBUCK BUTTON BOOTS, stout pump soles, self covered Cuban heels, made on long French last, in four fittings, narrow, medium, wide, and extra wide.
PRICE, 30/ PAIR.
SMART WHITE SUEDE BUCKLE COURT SHOES, made on long French last, with elegant ornaments, and smart Louis heels.
PRICE, 32/6 PAIR.
WHITE NUBUCK BUTTON BOOTS, short vamp, medium toe, light welted soles, smart Cuban heels.
PRICE, 35/ PAIR.
LADIES' SHOE DEPARTMENT, SECOND FLOOR.

DAINTY NECKWEAR AT MODERATE PRICES.

That smart finishing—the collar—gives a wonderfully neat touch to any Costume, and renders the most simple one charmingly dainty.

Our selection of Neckwear reveals a great variety of the newest designs and shapes, and is very moderately priced, as the following examples prove:

SMART MILITARY COLLAR of White Voile, daintily embroidered.
PRICE, 1/0½.
DAINTY ORGANDI MUSLIN COLLAR, pointed at back, and with revers embroidered in Rose design.
PRICE, 1/8.
MILITARY COLLAR of Plain Muslin, with small vestee trimmed Guipure Lace.
PRICE, 2/3.
ORGANDI MUSLIN MILITARY COLLAR, embroidered in Shamrock design, finished narrow Black Velvet throat strap, with small bow.
PRICE, 3/6.
SMART ROLL COLLAR of Organdi Muslin, with embroidered points to form epaulettes on shoulder.
PRICE, 4/11.
NECKWEAR DEPARTMENT,
CENTRAL PITT-STREET SHOP.

FOR SUMMER FROCKS,

DAINTY FLOUNCINGS

AT VERY KEEN PRICES.

Not for many past Summers has the vogue for flouncing embroideries been so popular as now. We are showing an unending assortment of dainty patterns in Muslin Embroidered Flouncings, and our determination to make Economy the Keynote of our policy has resulted in their being marked at particularly keen prices. The Muslin embroidery 27 inches wide will make charming frocks for the little ones, while the 45-inch material will form a delightful foundation for frocks for mothers and daughters of more mature years.

MUSLIN FLOUNCINGS, 27 inches wide.
PRICE, 1/4½ yard.
MUSLIN FLOUNCING, 45 inches wide.
PRICES, 2/6, 2/11 Yard.

MILLINERY MARVELS.

Our Home Buyers have supplied us this Season with an unusually choice assortment of

MODEL MILLINERY

in all the favourite and most fashionable styles. The shapes are in many cases unique, the trimming most artistic, and the general effect charming in the extreme.

We have Head-wear suitable for matrons and maids of all ages, and can guarantee to suit YOU.

THE LATEST MODES.

SMART HAND-MADE TOQUE, with crown of Fuchsia Pink Silk, and brim of Black Tagel. Effectively trimmed with Purple Silk Rose and shaded Foliage. Also in White, Black, and any other colour required, 25/.
PRETTY WHITE SATIN SHAPE, with bandeau of Satin Plait, trimmed with double wreath of Pale Blue Daisies and other small Flowers, secured with dainty knot of Black Ribbon Velvet. In Black also; and colours if desired, 25/.

FASHIONABLE

PICTURE SHAPE,

Of Drawn Crepe de Chine, in Shell Pink, edged with Black Chantilly Lace, daintily trimmed with wreath and trails of small Mixed Flowers and streamers of wide Black Velvet. Also can be supplied in Black and White, or other Pastille shades, 32/6.
CHIC HAT in Black Tulle. The fitted crown is bound with three rows of narrow Cerise Ribbon, and set off with trail of small pretty Flowers. Can also be made in White or Colours, 27/6.
USEFUL and SMARTLY-MADE SHAPE, with pleated brim of Navy Crepe de Chine, and crown of same material, banded with White Satin Straw. A smart bow of Navy Moire Ribbon and posy complete this favourite style. Made also in Black, White, or Colours, 25/.

UP-TO-DATE

HAND-MADE SAILOR HAT.

Of White Satin plait with underbrim of Merv Silk. Finished with neat band and bow of the Silk. A low-priced Hat at 12/6.
A NEW FLAT SHAPE of good Silk, in neat cross-stripe design. The fitted edging is of Black Velvet. Ribbon Velvet streamers and dainty wreath of small Pink Flowers form an attractive trimming, 22/6.
A VERY BECOMING CHAPEAU of Lime-coloured Satin Plait Straw. It is effectively trimmed with Roses in pretty shade of Vieux Rose and Foliage, while a large bow of Saxe Ribbon at the back, which is slightly turned upward, adds a still smarter note, 27/6.

WINN'S ECONOMIC WASHING SILK VALUES.

In OUR JAP. SILKS YOU FIND unsurpassing values. In this EVER-POPULAR line, to make doubly sure that our clients get better value than is procurable elsewhere, we have reduced the prices as follow, which defy legitimate competition:—

WHITE JAP. SILKS.

27 inches wide. Our recent prices, 1/3, 1/6, 1/11, 2/3, 2/6, 2/11, 3/3.
SPECIAL VALUE PRICES, 1/1½, 1/4½, 1/8, 1/11½, 2/2, 2/6, 2/11.
36 inches wide. This is a most economical width for cutting out. All are excellent values.
PRICES, 1/9, 2/6, 2/11, 3/6 yard.

WHITE CHINA SILK.

This is quite a distinct silk from Jap., being much heavier in texture and coarser weave, but a splendid wearing silk, and usually keeps a good colour in washing.
28 inches wide, PRICE 2/, 2/6, 2/11 yard.
30 inches wide, PRICE 3/6 yard.

TUSSORE SILKS.

Here is our strong point in the SILK SECTION. We have hundreds of pieces, both in stock and bought for forward delivery, of that very SPECIAL SPECIAL 34 inches wide Tussore, for which we are famous, at 1/ yard, and about which we could say

"The silk that made the shilling famous."

PRICES, 1/3, 1/6, 1/11, 2/3, 2/6, 3/6.
35-inch HEAVY ASSAM SILK for COSTUMES.
PRICES: 3/11 and 4/11 yard.

ALL OUR TUSSORE AND ASSAM SILKS are FULL WIDTHS. WE DO NOT STOCK THOSE NARROW USELESS WIDTHS.

FUGI SILK. FUGI SILK.

Another shipment just opened. This is the second this season, and MORE TO FOLLOW.

A line, 29 inches wide, in a pretty Biscuit shade, has undoubtedly been our best seller; considered good value at 2/6 yard.

OUR PRICE IS 1/11 yard.

OUR SPECIAL IVORY FUGI SILK, full 30 inches wide, selling at 2/9 yard, is a most uncommon silk.

WE ARE quite safe in recommending this line as the

SEE OUR WINDOW DISPLAY.

LACE DEPARTMENT.

ALL ONE PRICE, 1/ dozen.

We could also say this lace Bargain "has made the shilling famous."

SCARCE BLACK AEROPHANE AT 1/11 YARD.
VEILS and VEILINGS for HOLIDAY WEAR, 22-inch Hemstitched Veilings, in Pink, Royal, Saxe, Cardinal, White or Black, 1/0½ yard.

NOW! NOW! NOW!

TO-DAY'S OPPORTUNITIES

AT SNOW'S ARE THE GOLDEN ONES.

When Mary told her Mistress she was going to be married the lady said: "I hope you realise that Matrimony is a serious matter."

"Oh, yes," answered Mary earnestly, "I've been to two fortune-tellers, a clairvoyant, and a palmist, and they all say it's all right. I ain't one to marry reckless like, Mum."

Like Mary, our MAIDS' WEAR SPECIALIST "ain't one to say reckless like" that these ROBES AND SKIRTS at

are the best values offering for the money. He has been round among the various houses, and has seen what others have to show, and therefore presents this list of
